ASSEMBLY IN UPROAR OVER BANK INQUIRY

Member Refuses to Obey Speaker's Ruling and Sergeant-at-Arms Throws Him to Floor.

EXPOSES DOUBTFUL DEALS

Goldstein of Brooklyn Attacks Management of Defunct Union Bank and Tells of Changed Affidavit.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 14.—For a while at the session to-day the Assembly was in turmoil, while a Sergeant at Arms by physical force sought to compel Assemblyman Louis Goldstein, who represents the Brownsville District in Brooklyn, to sit down and hold his peace in deference to a ruling by Speaker Frisbie.

Assemblyman Goldstein is the introducer of a concurrent resolution calling for a legislative investigation of the affairs of the defunct Union Bank in Brooklyn. On Wednesday evening the Assembly Committee on Rules, of which Speaker Frisbie is Chairman, had acted favorably on the resolution. It has not reported to the Assembly, however.

Mr. Goldstein had arisen to a point of personal privilege, and had been recognized by Speaker Frisbie. Slowly he unfolded a typewritten manuscript, while he said that he intended to have an explanation of how the Speaker dared to hold up his resolution which was favored by 23,000 dissatisfied depositors in the Union Bank, after the Committee on Rules had acted favorably on it.

"I can explain," broke in Speaker Frisbie.

Mr. Goldstein was not to be diverted from his purpose of reading the typewritten statement, which was a communication from a committee of depositors in the defunct bank alleging widespread fradulent practices in the management as a reason why there should be legislative investigation. He kept on reading heedless of the Speaker's proffered explanation.

It was at this point that cries of protest rang through the Assembly chamber. Col. Jimmy Oliver got up and screamed that he had risen to a point of order. Speaker Frisbie recognized him, banged his gavel repeatedly, and directed Mr. Goldstein to take his seat. But the Brownsville member would not desist.

The Assembly was in a turmoil. Members stood up in their seats, some shouting to Goldstein to go on, others telling him to stop, or indulging in catcalls.

"Make him sit down!" yelled Mr. Oliver, shaking his finger at the Speaker.

The principal doorkeeper, P. J. O'Neil of Bay Shore, L. I., was the peace officer nearest Mr. Goldstein. It is customary, and generally all that is necessary, to touch on his shoulder a man ignoring a ruling of the Chair. But O'Neil is new at his job. He sprang at Goldstein, got a strangle hold, and bore him down in his seat by main force, literally falling on top of him.

In an instant there was a rush up the aisle of Assemblymen. They dragged the doorkeeper away from their colleague, who in the meantime was restrained with difficulty from hitting O'Neil.

A semblance of order being restored, Mr. Oliver stated his point of order against the reading of the statement, and was overruled.

When Mr. Goldstein finished the Speaker explained that the Assemblyman had not acted in good faith, and that he was fully aware that the handing out of his resolution was awaiting a decision on the part of State Superintendent of Banks Van Tuyl as to whether he was able to handle the Union Bank situation without any legislative assistance.

Assemblyman Hoey offered an apology to Mr. Goldstein on behalf of Doorkeeper O'Neil, and the Assemblyman declared with a wry grin and a gesture in the direction of his ruffled neckwear that "there would be no ill-feeling over the incident."

The charges read by Assemblyman Goldstein alleged that uncollected loans to the amount of $236,988 were made to F. Augustus Heinze on practically worthless securities without the knowledge of the Directors of the Union Bank; that $333,000 was sunk in the Liberty Avenue Theatre, which was built by the Opera Construction Company, a corporation in which the moving spirits were the attorney and cashier of one of the bank's branches.

A number of uncollected loans were specified. They were $447,334 to E. R. Thomas without the knowledge of the Directors and on doubtful securities; $150,000 to David A. Sullivan, President of the bank. It was also charged that loans were made to a number of dummies for "David A. Sullivan and his clique." These were $63,105 to Charles B. Molloy, $50,000 to Rudolph Hulsart, $27,228 to George B. Haggerty, $50,875 to the Remsen Bond and Mortgage Company, and $20,000 to the Twentieth Century Construction Company.

In addition, it was alleged that James T. Ashley, while Cashier, borrowed on his own notes, without security, $14,084, and that this has not been repaid, and it was pointed out that Mr. Ashley had full access to the books of the bank for a year after the State Banking Department took it over as he was retained on salary. Then there was a loan of $73,480 to Thomas D. Tompkins, son of a Director, on security of 163 shares of stock of the Union Bank and fifty shares of the Home Bank, and there are uncollected loans of $47,927 to Charles E. Ring on security of claims against common stock of the Liberty Avenue Theatre and of $3,900 to Dorothy F. Searles, wife of a paying teller of the bank on her unsecured note.

The claims for attorney fees already filed with the Banking Department, it was alleged, amount to $108,776, and it was alleged that without the knowledge of the department the Union Bank borrowed $965,000 from the Empire Trust Company and $350,000 from the Hanover National Bank and on Dec. 17, 1909, pledged all the real estate assets to the Metropolitan Trust Company of New York for $500,000.

Another charge was that after the close of the Union Bank's predecessor a clerk pieced together a list of favored depositors which an official had torn up, and that this was given to a newspaper with an affidavit as to the facts. Then when a $3,000 deposit of the clerk's mother had been made good the clerk made a second affidavit contradicting the first, which it was alleged was drawn up by the attorney of the involved officials and the attorney of the newspaper. The complainants add that it is reported that the attorney for the newspaper received a fee of $25,000 for this.

Finally it is charged that among the missing records of the bank are transferred loan sheets, charge tickets, and teller's sheets for 1906 and 1907.

Edward M. Grout, former President of the Union Bank of Brooklyn, when the charges of Assemblyman Goldstein were shown to him in this city last night, gave out this statement:

"Every word of Mr. Goldstein's statement, except as to the loans from the Hanover National Bank, the Empire Trust Company, and the Metropolitan Trust Company, referred to matters which occurred before I had any connection with the bank; and as to those loans I have only to say that they were made with the full knowledge of the State Banking Department.

"All the matters that Mr. Goldstein refers to are known to the State Banking Department and, indeed, I think it is from its records that he gets his information."

DEATH IN TORNADO'S PATH.

Houses Wrecked and Two Men Missing in Storm in Lower Delaware.

Special to The New York Times.

SEAFORD, Del., June 14.—Accompanied by a terrific electrical rainstorm, a violent tornado swept over a portion of Sussex County last night, injuring a number of people, killing two tramps and damaging properties to the extent of thousands of dollars.

The heavy rains flooded rural sections and in many instances the water came up above the house doors. The storm began about 6 o'clock and lasted about twenty minutes. The tornado started at Bunching Bridge, three miles southwest of Bridgeville, and swept a strip sixty feet wide for ten miles. The line stretches in a northwestern direction two miles beyond Greenwood. Everything in the path of the wind was torn up.

The house of Antonio Bassette, a farmer, was totally destroyed. Mr. and Mrs. Bassette and daughter, Elizabeth, were seriously injured by the wreckage. Mrs. Bassette was injured internally and did not regain consciousness until this afternoon. The daughter was picked from the ground and blown into the hogpen several yards away. Two tramps employed on Mr. Bassette's farm and living in a small shanty in the woods were carried away in the hut, and no trace of them or the building can be found.

The family of L. Harry Tull, another farmer, were injured severely when the storm destroyed their home and killed their livestock. Two of the Tull children were hurt by falling timbers and one may not recover.

Thousands of chickens were drowned, cows and horses were killed, and barns and outbuildings were blown from their foundations. The damage was far-reaching. At Bridgeville roofs were blown from houses and trees were uprooted. A careful estimate places the total damage at more than $125,000.

CAT HATCHES CHICKENS.

Take the Word of a Baptist for This Freak of Nature.

Special to The New York Times.

WESTFIELD, N. J., June 14.—Mountainside Borough residents are stirred up by a report that Thomas Tappin's cat has hatched out four healthy chicks. They do not dream of doubting the report, as Mr. Tappin, who is a hard-shelled Baptist and a teacher in the Liberty Corner Union Chapel Sunday school, vouched for the truth of it. The chicks are six days old, Mr. Tappin says, and are thriving, while the cat shows every sign of keen delight.

Mr. Tappin is so elated over the event that he was written to Congressman William E. Tuttle, Jr., saying that he will forward the cat and her four feathered offspring to President Taft as soon as they are old enough to stand the journey to Washington by express.

Mr. Tappin says that he and other members of the family noticed about a month ago that their pet cat Barney had deserted her accustomed haunts about the kitchen fireside and transferred her abode to the cornhouse. Little attention was given to the matter until Sunday:

"I said to myself," says Tappin, "that there must be something the matter with Barney. I'll go to the corn house and see for myself."

Mr. Tappin journeyed to the cornhouse and in a deserted hen's nest he discovered Barney and the four little chickens. At first Barney displayed a volley of regular cat fighting spits because of interference, but now everything is serene.

HOUNDS TRACE DYNAMITERS.

Two Arrests Made for Destruction of Coal Company's Building.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, June 14.—Bloodhounds early to-day caused the arrest of Dominic Giletto and Charles Sabastian, suspected of having dynamited the fanhouse of the United Coal and Coke Company, near Latrobe, early yesterday morning. It is expected that at least six other men, suspected of having been implicated in the plot, will be arrested to-night. A posse led by several of the mine officials and the Chief of Police is now scouring the hills with bloodhounds.

Early yesterday morning, during the absence of the watchman at the mine, a gang of men placed dynamite under several of the buildings connected with the mine. They had laid their plans to demolish even the tipple, it is said. The night watchman, who was at luncheon, was attracted by a terrific explosion. He ran out and saw a cloud of smoke. The big fanhouse was totally wrecked.

Seven men were seen running up over the hill, according to farmers riding in that vicinity. The State constabulary troopers were summoned and worked all night, but were unable to get a clue. Two bloodhounds were obtained, and the police scoured the country. The bloodhounds led them to a house. The dogs jumped upon Giletto and Sabastian, who were eating at a table. The two men were taken to Latrobe, and there implicated others.

HEARS OWL SCREECH; DIES.

Nervous Bride Collapses When Bird Hits Her Bedroom Window.

The shrieking of a screech owl and the noise the bird made in flying against the window of her bedroom is believed to have caused Mrs. James T. O'Neill, wife of an Assistant Corporation Counsel of Brooklyn, to suffer a stroke from which she died late Tuesday night at their Summer house in Argyle Park, Babylon, L. I. Mrs. O'Neill met her husband at the railroad station in Babylon Tuesday evening when he returned from his office in Borough Hall. After supper they went out for a short walk in the town.

They retired early and shortly afterward Mrs. O'Neill complained to her husband that she could not sleep. She had not been in good health since the death of her father, Thomas Cooran of 605 Seventh Avenue, Brooklyn, five weeks ago. She grieved over his death so much that she suffered from a nervous breakdown. A screech owl kept up a continual howl as it flew from tree to tree near her bedroom, and she complained to her husband about the bird. She was very nervous while she was talking. The owl suddenly flew from its perch on the tree and against the bedroom window, striking the glass with a resounding whack. It then flew off and kept up its shrieking.

Mr. O'Neill got up to see if he could not drive the bird away. When he returned to his wife he found her unconscious. He sent immediately for a doctor, but when one arrived at the house Mrs. O'Neill was dead.

Mrs. O'Neill was a bride of a few months. She was 32 years old. Before her marriage she was Miss Jesetta Coonan.

KNOX CANNOT SOLVE DAY VOUCHER PUZZLE

But Is as Eager as the Committee to Find Out Who Kept It Secreted.

HAS A TILT WITH HAMLIN

Michael's Letter Indicates That the $1,600, Charged to Portrait, Was Probably Spent in Chinese Affairs.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The mystery of the lost voucher at the State Department is still a mystery. Secretary Knox appeared before the House Committee on Expenditures in the State Department this afternoon and gave the committee the voucher and all the accompanying papers, including a letter by former Secretary Root to Consul General Michael at Calcutta, and the reply of the latter explaining as far as he could what became of the $1,600 excess payment on the voucher which Albert Rosenthal signed for the portrait of former Secretary Day.

"The papers speak for themselves," said Mr. Knox. "I know no more than they tell of the transaction."

Mr. Knox said that the voucher was found lying on the floor near the waste basket in Mr. Morrison's room a week ago last Monday and was brought to him the next morning by Mr. Carr, the chief of the Consular Division. For several weeks there has been, by the Secretary's directions, a searching investigation going on in the department to find the papers, and the circumstances under which they were found seem to show that some one in the department had them all the time and finally threw them on the floor in Morrison's room at the close of the day, when an escape could be made and no suspicions aroused.

Everybody in the department who could have had any knowledge of the paper had been interrogated, Mr. Knox said, and no more information had been obtained than had been previously given to the committee. Mr. Michael had been cabled for information and had replied that he had given Mr. Root when he was Secretary a full statement of all he knew of the matter. Former Chief Clerk Denby, when cabled to for light on the subject, had replied that he knew nothing about the matter.

Mr. Hamlin asked him what his theory of the matter was, but when Mr. Knox said he did not like to state it, Mr. Hamlin did not press him for an answer. Mr. Hamlin said afterward that his own theory was that some one had kept the voucher inadvertently after the inquiry about it years ago, and had forgotten all about it until the present inquiry, and then was afraid to come forward with the papers for fear he would lose his place. Mr. Knox assured the committee that the department was as anxious as the committee could be to clear the matter up, and if it was found who had retained the voucher some one would be called to task.

Mr. Knox was at first inclined to believe that the committee held him responsible for the matter, and when Mr. Hamlin was pressing a question closely, Mr. Knox with some heat exclaimed:

"What do you suspect, Mr. Hamlin? That somebody is committing perjury before this committee?"

Mr. Hamlin said he had no such thought, and declared that the committee only wanted the facts.

The voucher, which was handed around to the members of the committee, was partly in typewriting and was without date. Below the receipt, which was for the sum of $690, was a note in the handwriting of Rosenthal, saying that $60 had been paid to a Washington picture dealer for the frame for the portrait. This bill or voucher read:

> Received on the 18th day of January, 1904, the sum of seven hundred and ninety dollars ($790) for a portrait of Judge Day, late Secretary of State, for the Department of State. ALBERT ROSENTHAL.
> This does not include the frame, for which Mr. Fischer received directly from the department $60. A. R.

With the receipt was a voucher in the usual form of the State Department, with a line in typewriting stating that cash had been paid Rosenthal to the amount of $2,450, and below this line, in the handwriting of a clerk, a note stated that it was for a portrait of Secretary Day. This voucher bore the O. K. of Secretary John Hay.

Mr. Root's letter to W. H. Michael, the former chief clerk and now Consul General at Calcutta, read:

"As this amount is greatly in excess of the sum paid by the department for other similar portraits, and as it also seems in excess of the figure which this artist is accustomed to receive for his work, the department would be forced to the conclusion that the voucher signed by Rosenthal was actually made out to cover a number of emergency payments of which the portrait was only one, were it not that the voucher for the whole sum was signed by Rosenthal alone."

"I was directed by Secretary Hay," wrote Mr. Michael in reply, "to write to Judge Day and ascertain whether the portrait was entirely satisfactory to him and the price agreed on. In reply to my letter Judge Day said the portrait was satisfactory to him, and stated the price to be paid. This letter I handed to Secretary Hay He took a memorandum out of his portfolio, and after looking at it directed me to make out a voucher for a certain amount, I do not now recall the amount, to pay for the portrait and to hand him the balance, which he desired to apply on other emergency accounts.

"He did not say what the accounts were, and the only impression I got was that they related in some way to Mr. Rockhill in connection with Chinese affairs. The amount of the voucher, whatever it was, was delivered to me by some one in the Bureau of Accounts, according to my recollection. The price of the portrait was taken out of the envelope containing the money in the presence of Secretary Hay, who retained the balance."

Explaining that if Rosenthal signed a voucher instead of a receipt it was through error, Mr. Michael continued:

"Whatever was done in the premises was done by direction of Secretary Hay, as nothing could have been done otherwise; and if there is anything in the transaction open to criticism it is the error of sending to the artist a voucher which was not intended for his signature at all, and which he should not have signed."

Mr. Hamlin took the view that when Mr. Rosenthal appeared before the committee two weeks ago he had stated that he had received the $850 in a check and that the voucher or bill now brought forward was an afterthought because he had told Mr. Rosenthal to look up the check and see what date it bore and for what amount it was drawn. Mr. Hamlin said that a matter so important as the payment of $850 to him ought to be clearly remembered by Mr. Rosenthal.

John Sangston, the messenger who found the voucher, denied that any one had given him the envelope and asked him to throw it on the floor.

Secretary Knox explained, apparently to the satisfaction of the committee, the payment of $5,000 to Frederick Hale, son of former Senator Eugene Hale of Maine, for services in connection with Canadian boundary negotiations. Mr. Knox produced the sections of the treaty in 1908 which authorized negotiations with Canada to establish the line through Passamaquoddy Bay. Mr. Hale was employed for this work, performed his duties to the satisfaction of Secretary Root, and Secretary Knox approved his bill of $5,000 a few weeks after coming into control of the State Department.

"Mr. Hale was not employed actually to locate the boundary, but for the diplomatic work of agreeing on the line through Passamaquoddy Bay," said Mr. Knox. "When he failed to reach an agreement with Great Britain, the matter automatically went to arbitration. Congress then appropriated $15,000 for that work, but Mr. Bryce and I sat in my office one day and settled the matter, not regarding it of enough value to go to the expense of arbitration. We reduced our agreement to writing, it became a treaty between the United States and Great Britain, and as such was ratified by the Senate."

BREAD TRUST STARTS; $30,000,000 CAPITAL

Bonds and Stocks to That Amount in First Issue, Some to be Offered the Public.

BIGGEST BAKERIES JOINED

Twenty-one Establishments in Seventeen Cities in One Company, Including Fleischmann's in New York.

Following the incorporation under the laws of this State of the General Baking Company, there has been launched a $30,000,000 combination of bread manufacturers, which includes leading bakeries in seventeen cities. The only New York member of the combination is Fleischmann's Vienna Bakery.

The new company will have $10,000,000 of 7 per cent. preferred stock, $10,000,000 of common stock, and $5,000,000 of first and refunding 6 per cent. bonds. It is planned to issue at this time $7,000,000 of the preferred stock, half of the authorized common, and $3,500,000 of the bonds. The bonds have been underwritten and will be offered to the public by a syndicate under the direction of Harvey Fisk & Sons. The present owners of the constituent companies will retain a controlling interest through their holdings of the preferred and common stock of the General Baking Company, which has been accepted by them in payment for their properties.

In a statement issued yesterday it is said that in the formation of the company there is no thought of the establishment of a monopoly in the manufacture and sale of bread, and that such a monopoly would be impossible, as in most localities, with few exceptions, only one baking company has been acquired, leaving competition open to hundreds of others. The real purpose of the company is described as being progression through close buying of materials, general economics, up-to-date methods of manufacturing, and extensive advertising.

According to the official statement, the company has a philanthropic purpose as well. The statement says:

> The General Baking Company has discovered several elements of interest in the bread business. First and foremost of these is the maintenance of absolutely clean and sanitary bakeries, the use of the most modern and improved machinery, and the most rigid inspection, so that the products of the several establishments will rank as absolutely pure and hygienic. It has also discovered that by raising the standard of quality or gread of a certain number of bakeries in the populous centres of the country without increasing the cost, a great object lesson is to be taught, and that the general output of bread everywhere will eventually and naturally be brought up to this improved standard.

It is estimated that 70 per cent. of all the bread in the country is made by housewives and 30 per cent. by bakeries. There is said to be $270,000,000 invested in the business.

Here are the twenty-one companies which have joined the combination: Fleischman's Vienna Model Bakery, Inc., New York City; McKinney Bread Company, St. Louis; the J. G. & B. S. Ferguson Company, Boston; Boston Baking Company, Washington, D. C.; Ontario Biscuit Company, Buffalo; Haller Bread Company, Pittsburg; Deininger Brothers' Company, Rochester; United Baking Company, Toledo; Morton Baking and Manufacturing Company, Detroit; Arnold-Althaus Company, Providence; Vories Baking Company, New Orleans; Freihofer Vienna Baking Company, Philadelphia; George G. Fox Company, Boston; Juergens Baking Company, Wheeling, West Va.; Collins Baking Company, Buffalo; Weber Baking Company, Newark; C. Martens Company, Inc., Jersey City; Brunner Baking Company, Buffalo; Canton Baking Company, Canton, Ohio; Rochester Baking Company, Rochester, and Cleveland Bread Company, Cleveland, Ohio.

DIAZ'S MUNITIONS USELESS.

Poor Showing Made by the Federal Troops Is Now Explained.

MEXICO CITY, June 14.—When Gen. Navarro is placed on trial before a military tribunal and asked to explain why he surrendered Juarez, it is not improbable that the evidence may show a weakness in the Diaz military machine.

In almost all the engagements in the course of the revolution it was noticeable that the casualties in the ranks of the rebels were few in proportion to the number of shots fired. Ordinarily this was ascribed to poor marksmanship on the part of the Federals, but, according to Manuel Urquidi, one of the advisers of Madero at Juarez, the armament captured at that point goes far to explain the weakness of the Federals.

Urquidi said that when an inventory was taken of the armament used by Navarro it was found that five boxes containing 150,000 rounds of ammunition showed that these cartridges contained such a small amount of powder that the projectiles were carried not more than twenty meters. What appear to be boxes of this same consignment are in Chihuahua, as well as in Juarez, and the number of cartridges is estimated at 1,000,000. The ammunition was manufactured at the Government cartridge factory.

Among the armament at Juarez, according to Urquidi, were 200 shells of 80 millimeters, which were useless as far as Navarro was concerned, because the mortars with which he was supplied were of .70-millimeter calibre. If these facts are substantiated in the trial of Gen. Navarro it is assumed by military men that the honor of the General will be vindicated.

It is probable that no one will be punished for the apparent conspiracy in stocking the garrison of Juarez with useless armament, since the party benefited is now in power.

LISPENARD STEWART GIVES AWAY $100,000

Decides to Make Charitable Gifts in His Lifetime and Witness the Good Results.

Eye and Ear Infirmary Gets $25,000 and Roosevelt Hospital an Equal Sum.

Lispenard Stewart has added a codicil to his will. Long known as a man of philosophic bent, his friends felt sure that at his death it would be found that certain of his pet charities had not been forgotten. Of late, however, Mr. Stewart has felt more and more that he would like to watch during his own lifetime and with his own eyes some of the good which he had planned that his estate should do.

He came to the conclusion that he could spare $5,000 from his income. So, it was learned last night, he removed $100,000 in charitable bequests recently from his will and converted the sum into outright gifts, the benefits of which will begin to show while Mr. Stewart is still in the prime of life.

Mr. Stewart has long been interested in the New York Eye and Ear Infirmary at Second Avenue and Thirteenth Street, and for the last few years he has served as President of its Board of Directors. He has just made that institution a gift of $25,000. He sent a similar sum to Roosevelt Hospital. By these two steps he has disposed of an income of $2,500 a year.

Another large bequest was canceled and the equivalent sent direct to Grace Church at Broadway and Tenth Street. The amount is believed to be $25,000. Another sum was set aside for the use of the New York Zoological Society. This gift, it is understood, amounts to $10,000. That leaves $15,000, which was scattered among several works in which Mr. Stewart has faith.

Mr. Stewart is far from being an old man, for several days will have to pass before he needs confess to 56. He is a Yale man, taking his Bachelor of Arts degree at New Haven with the class of 1876. He was graduated from the Columbia Law School two years later.

In New York he started on an active political career when he was still a young man. He was a Harrison and Morton Presidential Elector, and the following year went to Albany as a Senator. Twice he has served as delegate to National Republican Conventions, first at the one held in St. Louis in 1896 and second at that held in Philadelphia four years later. In 1901 Gov. Odell appointed him President of the State Prison Commission. He had been a Prison Commissioner since 1895, and was known as a man of broad views on penology. The appointment to the Presidency was confirmed by the Senate unanimously.

Mr. Stewart's home is at 6 Fifth Avenue. He is a brother of William Rhinelander Stewart, and is a man of many clubs, his name appearing in the membership lists of the Union, Union League, Metropolitan, New York Yacht, University, Riding, and the Downtown Club.

SHEEHAN'S PORTRAIT STOLEN

Cut from Its Frame in the Capitol After End of Senatorial Deadlock.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 14.—The oil portrait of William F. Sheehan, which was prominent in a group of pictures of former Lieutenant Governors which adorned the walls of the room connecting the Senate Chamber with the Lieutenant Governor's rooms, has been stolen.

At the time of the fire in the Capitol at the end of March the portraits were removed to avoid damage by fire or water. It was while the pictures were stored in a Senate corridor pending repairs that some one cut the portrait of Mr. Sheehan from its frame. The loss was not reported, although efforts were made to trace the thief. The picture was taken shortly after the conclusion of the deadlock over the United States Senatorship, in which Mr. Sheehan was a prominent figure.

A few days ago Henry Hamilton of Jersey City, who painted the Sheehan portrait and other pictures in the Capitol gallery, wrote to a member of the Assembly to inquire whether or not any of his pictures was damaged by the Capitol fire. The inquiry led to the discovery that the Sheehan portrait had been missing several weeks.

SUFFRAGE BILL VOTE SOON.

Senator Grady Gives In to Sullivan, "Peace Commissioner."

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 14.—The woman suffragists gained a point in the Senate to-day when it was practically agreed that the Stilwell Suffrage bill would be brought up for debate on a motion to advance the measure to final passage.

Senator Newcomb to-day asked the leaders to agree on a day when the bill should be debated in committee of the whole. Senator Grady opposed an agreement and indicated that he would give the measure no advantage. Senators Stilwell, Newcomb, and Timothy D. Sullivan asked Senator Grady to yield, but he insisted upon his objection. Later Senator Grady announced that he had been in conference with "the peace commissioner from the Twelfth," (Senator Sullivan,) "and," continued Senator Grady, "I may as well admit I was at a disadvantage in the conference."

It is expected that the bill will be reached next week, and that it will be beaten by a rising vote in committee of the whole.

Jury Holds Pullman Company Liable for Carl Springer's Valuables.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., June 14.—Judge John C. Haymaker to-day held the Pullman Company liable for the loss of a handbag containing jewelry and a miniature portrait of the mother of Carl Springer, a New York traveling man. The jury returned a verdict for $2,000 in favor of Mr. Springer.

Counsel for the company petitioned the court to have the verdict set aside, but Judge Haymaker held that they were liable. Mr. Springer lost his valuables about a year ago.

SUBMARINES ON SEA TRIP.

Must Submerge and Be Self-Sustaining on Cruise to Gloucester.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., June 14.—Sailing orders to the third submarine division of the Atlantic torpedo fleet have been issued by Commander Edward W. Eberle, the submarines to proceed to-morrow to Gloucester and await the arrival of the flagship Castine of the fleet and tender Severn.

The submarines, flagboat Grayling, commanded by Lieut. Donald C. Bingham, who is division commander as well, with the Tarpon, Stingray, Snapper, Narwhal, and Bonita, will submerge from Narragansett Bay and run under the sea, blowing out tanks and coming to the surface to recharge batteries or running into port at night throughout the run.

Everything needed for the run, including foodstuffs, is being carried by each submarine, which must be in every sense as self-sustaining as if a bittleship or cruiser.

Blocks McManus Bill Putting a Tax on Its Sale in This State.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 14.—Senator Grady's objection in the Senate to-day blocked the advancement of Senator McManus's bill imposing a State tax on champagne.

Senator McManus is sure that his bill, if enacted, will give the State additional revenue of millions of dollars, but Senator Grady does not want the State to add to its receipts in that way. The bill places a tax of 50 cents on each quart of champagne sold.

HOUSE LEADERS UPHELD.

Democratic Caucus Refuses to Add to Their Legislative Programme.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—An attempt to extend the legislative programme of the Democratic majority in the House at this extra session of Congress failed to-night at a caucus of the Democratic Representatives.

Among matters which the caucus refused to take up were the proposed change from three to five years as the enlistment period in the army and other reorganization bills introduced by Chairman Hay of the Committee on Military Affairs. Bills which the Committee on Naval Affairs wishes to have pressed at this session also were put aside.

"The action of the caucus simply means that we will go ahead with the tariff programme as originally outlined at the opening of the session," said Mr. Underwood, the Democratic leader. Several members declared, however, that there might be another caucus to determine upon a short extra programme.

FIRST COTTON BALE AWAITED

It Will Be Turned Into Suits of Clothes for Taft and King George.

Cotton Exchange members were in a state of expectancy yesterday over the possible arrival of the first bale of 1911 cotton, on its way here from St. Louis by express. At the close of business it had not showed up and Post & Flagg, under whose auspices it is to be sold at auction on the steps of the Exchange, had received no advices of its whereabouts.

In the meantime word came from San Benito, Texas, where the cotton in this particular bale was grown, that the Commercial Club had arranged to trace it after it is shipped to Manchester, England, and when it is woven into cloth to have suits of clothes made up from it for presentation to President Taft, King George, and the Governor General of Canada.

SECRET SERVICE FOR UNIONS.

Bureau to be Organized in Los Angeles to Hunt Spies and Defend Labor Men.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 14.—It was announced by local labor leaders to-day that a secret service bureau is to be organized in labor circles having for its primary purpose the ferreting out of spies or so-called "stool pigeons," who have been introduced into the ranks of unionism, they say, by enemies of organized labor, and for securing evidence to establish the innocence of any union men accused of crimes in connection with the labor movement.

According to George Gunrey, Secretary of the local strike committee, the bureau will be a local affair, but it is known that those planning the defense of the McNamaras some time ago secured the services of a well-known detective agency in an effort to trace the movements of Burns's detectives who worked up the case against McManigle and the McNamaras.

FORTY BATHERS LOCKED IN.

Young People of Macon Spend a Night at a Swimming Pool.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 14.—Twenty young women and twenty young men spent the greater part of last night in a swimming pool because they could not get out.

One of the features of the W. W. Billingsley residence is a spacious swimming pool, and bathing parties have been popular. The forty young people last evening enjoyed themselves greatly until the move was made to the dressing rooms, when it was discovered that some one had made off with their clothing and also locked them in. Mr. Billingsley was one of the victims. Clad only in their bathing costumes, all had to remain in the pool until early this morning, when some of the servants broke open the door and released them.

Mr. Billingsley has offered a large reward for information as to the person who took the clothes and locked in the bathers.

POOLROOMS RUN HERE OPENLY FOR WOMEN

RUNNERS TAKE THE BETS

Racing Returns Given Out to Patrons and Everything Done Without Pretense of Concealment.

A woman knowing little of races and nothing of poolrooms and in a skeptical frame of mind walked out of the Times Building one day this week and into two women's poolrooms, where betting on the races was going on so obviously and openly that the most unlearned could not help understanding it, and all within ten minutes' walk.

Poolrooms as they are read about in newspaper accounts of raids seem to be mysterious places with double doors, unbreakable locks, and many exits and entrances. The first woman's poolroom that the woman from THE TIMES visited was a very plain little dairy lunch room on a street in the thirties, just around the corner from Sixth Avenue. The lunch counter was at the rear of the room, near a door, and in the front at little tables or sitting in big armchairs were from a dozen to twenty women. A few of them were taking sips of milk from tall tumblers, but no one was paying any real attention to either eating or drinking.

Many of the women had copies of newspapers containing racing news. All of them had pads or bits of paper and pencils. Everybody knew everybody, and there was a most unusual democracy for even the simplest kind of a restaurant, and everybody talked about horses, winning and losing. One woman would take a dollar from another, put a dollar of her own with it, and hand it to a well-dressed, smooth-faced man, who was continually coming in and going out. Occasionally he would have a paper in his hand and read something unintelligible to the uninitiated, but which was simpler when it was handed around—a little slip bearing certain names, one above the other, and after each small sums of money in fractions, the amount won on the different horses, first, second, and third, prices, and scratches.

"Any one wanting anything for the third race?" he would ask, and most of them did, some of them taking out bills from their pockets, others less prosperous going together with quarters and making up $2 for a bet.

Everything Done Openly.

All this with the utmost publicity. The entrance to the little restaurant was a broad door a few steps in from the street and wide open. The chairs in which the women sat ran nearly up to the door, and the tables were in full view. Any one could come in and go out as she pleased, and there was not the slightest attempt at secrecy. Different young men "runners" came in now and again and disappeared through a door at the rear of the room. It was said afterward by an initiate that the men congregated there on busy days, while the women filled the front room.

The greater number of the women appeared to be of the eminently respectable homekeeping type. Others were obviously of another class. One woman must have been well over 70. Her face had a peculiar pallor, and she had the appearance of being utterly unconscious of her surroundings, though at times she held a roll of bills in her trembling, wrinkled hands. Everything that she wore was of excellent quality—a gray dress skirt, black coat with jet collar, and light straw hat of good material in which were many rather gay hatpins. Over her own thin gray hair, under her hat, could be seen a scanty reddish wig. She was said t obe a woman of means living uptown.

Her companion at the table was an entirely different type; a younger woman, but not very young, dark and sallow with a reddish flush on her cheeks, which was perhaps rouge. Her shiny black patent leather sailor hat was trimmed with a rakish bow of black and white silk. Her black gown was cut low at the throat, around which she wore a black velvet band, and her sleeve, cut well up at the wrist, gave space for her restless hands, which were continually jotting down figures. She might be seen anywhere around New York.

At another table were two eminently respectable-looking women. They were all in black, white shirt waists, neat white gloves and trim black hats. One of these was one of the highest bidders of the place. She plays $5 for "place" always, and wins or loses more than the others. The other one has a soft gentle voice when she speaks. She used to play with hundreds of dollars once. Now she plays with a dollar or two, which comes from the friend who looks after her.

"Yes, it is fascinating," she said in her soft voice. "And what's the difference whether it is hundreds or just a few dollars. It is only the way you look at it. And it isn't so bad if you lose when it is only a dollar or two."

"I have just been to the races," said a stout, vivacious woman, with a gay hat. "I was there six weeks and I had a fine time, but I tell you it is no good. You can do better right here in New York."

One stout, grandmotherly woman, with spectacles, must also have been well on the road to 70. Some of her descendants are said to be well-to-do professional men. She had a broad, double chin, capacious bosom, and little old-fashioned turn-down collar, fastened with a little old-time black jet brooch. Her roll of bills was apparently a good one. Several of the women are said to have been through fortunes. One of them who still has some money made it as a Fifth Avenue modiste.

A Convenient Saloon.

They are all "respectable women," according to their light, but they don't object to getting the returns from the races from the saloon across the way, where it would be a little more direct. But there is one objection to the back room of the saloon, one of which is opposite the little restaurant. One of the women expressed it freely.

"They won't let you in and out there," she said. "When you get in you have to stay."

A saloon is subject to more suspicions and they cannot allow the freedom of the dairy lunchroom.

"Cafe and Restaurant" was another place THE TIMES woman visited, and this is a place where the habitués play less openly and for bigger sums. There is less on the surface for the casual observer, though the place is literally the back room of a saloon on the corner. The saloon is on a Broadway corner below Fortieth Street, and the "Cafe and Restaurant" on the side street.

The little dairy restaurant was the plainest kind of a place. Plain tables, bare floor, with signs like "Ham and Potato Salad, 15 Cents," "Corned Beef and Potato Salad, 15 Cents," "Buttermilk, 5 Cents" on the walls. The one waitress was the proprietor of the lunch counter, a rosy-cheeked young woman. The bookmaker, it was said, paid the rent of the place.

The other place is small and inconspicuous on the outside and more pretentious inside. The floors are carpeted—green carpet with a strip of rose in the centre—and green and white walls. There are lines of pictures on the walls, in good frames—pictures of race horses. There are two waiters with white aprons. The tables were filled with women. Some of them were drinking something—a glass of beer perhaps or some other beverage. The noticeable thing to the stranger was, as at the other place, most of them were neither eating nor drinking, half had racing papers in their hands, and all had paper and pencils.

The waiters were more or less busy. One of them would sit down at a table beside a patron and together they looked over a little package of slips of paper. The woman handed out one and the waiter disappeared with it. Another woman at a front table ran down the centre of the restaurant to hand the other waiter a similar slip. The waiter who took the slip from the woman at the table presently brought her a roll of bills. It did not appear to be a transaction connected strictly with the restaurant.

Widow a Heavy Bettor.

One who knows said that the women here play for high stakes, no wager lower than $5 being accepted. A woman from the West never bets less than $200 or $300. There are all classes and conditions of women there. But they, too, are "respectable." There is one wealthy woman who was left $300,000 by her husband. She began betting at Saratoga. She had good social position, and on a visit to Saratoga she was taken to the races by friends and won $40.

"That was a fine game," she said afterward, and she has been at it ever since. She wins large sums and loses larger ones. She lives alone in a handsome apartment. There are handsome gowns in her wardrobe, but she says she never has time to put them on. She takes stimulants now when the racing fever is running high and she needs reinforcement.

A buyer for a big New York shop is a frequenter of this resort. She says if she makes a good salary she does not see why she should not spend it as she pleases, and the bookmaker gets a good share. There is a teacher of languages, who gets in late in the afternoon, and a saloon keeper's widow is another regular patron. A woman who takes care of her invalid husband's property in the morning looks after the bookmaker's interests with the investments she makes with him in the afternoon. It was interesting to note the comraderie of the place.

"Did you win, deary?" one asked.

"I must congratulate you," another said, making a visit at a neighbor's table.

"You didn't like that horse?" a quiet woman in black asked of a woman in a light suit, who looked as if she knew.

"I would have liked the other better," replied she of the light suit. "Why didn't you play it for place?"

"Well, I might, but I didn't," said the woman in black, who had lost, philosophically.

The community of interests brings these women into touch with strange companions. The woman who inherited $300,000 and hasn't lost quite all of it yet will make an appointment to meet a race track tout, sometimes a white man, sometimes a black one, on the street to get a tip. If it is a good one he gets something for it. All the women do this, it was said.

The woman gambler who is low in her finances has found a new means of getting back to prosperity. She collects money for the bookmaker from women in shops, clerks who are trying to eke out their wages by gambling.

The women who play the races at the two places mentioned do so in the most unsophisticated way; "playing blind," is their expression. They have only the names of the horses. There are other places, one of which was opened recently in the Sixties, where the women have regular telephone service and play more scientifically.

ASK RECEIVER FOR LEWIS.

Suits Brought Against Head of Woman's League and Many Corporations.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 14.—E. G. Lewis, President of the American Woman's League, faces receivership suits filed to-day against the Lewis corporations in the Federal District Court. Judge Dyer granted Lewis's attorneys sixteen days in which to file an answer.

According to creditors' allegation of record, Lewis incorporated the Progressive Watch Company in 1898 with his wife, Mabel Lewis, and one other person. He began selling watches, costing 57 cents, by a compound endless chain system. He realized $1 from each timepiece.

In 1900, when warned by the Government that his scheme was illegal, he sold a magazine subscription without specifying the name of the magazine as a basis for his watch sales. Then he started The Winner Magazine to fulfill his obligations, and later established The Woman's Magazine and made plans for University City, a model town. In 1903 he purchased The Woman's Farm Journal. In 1904 he organized the People's United States Bank. In 1906 he started The Journal of Agriculture and Woman's National Daily.

The Post Office Department issued fraud orders against his publications in 1908, but failed to convict. Lewis then bought The Star and Chronicle, a St. Louis Daily. He afterward incorporated the People's Savings and Trust Company for $400,000, and organized the American Woman's League, Art Institute, and People's University.

Lewis was born in Winsted, Conn., the son of a clergyman. In 1887 he was appointed American agent for an Amsterdam diamond house. He was graduated from Trinity College in 1888, and in 1889 traveled for the Waterbury Watch Company. He married Miss Mabel Wellington in Baltimore in 1892.

POLICE DISCUSS GUN MEN.

Dougherty Tells How His Men Catch Armed Foreigners Here.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 14.—The principal topic before the police chiefs at the second day's session was the problem of preventing the carrying of revolvers.

George S. Dougherty, Second Deputy Commissioner of Police of New York, led the discussion this afternoon. He favored a law regulating the sale of weapons of all kinds. He said the carrying of revolvers was common among foreigners. Commissioner Dougherty told of the work of Detective Wirtheimer of the New York force. He said Wirtheimer brought in more gun men than any other officer in New York. Wirtheimer told the Commissioner that he watched the pawnshops, and when he saw a foreigner enter one he held the man up the moment he left the place. Nine times out of ten the foreigner had a gun.

BERGER DENOUNCES TARIFFS

But Socialist Congressman in Maiden Speech Supports Wool Bill.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Representative Victor Berger of Wisconsin, the only Socialist member of Congress, delivered his maiden speech in the House to-day in favor of the bill for the revision of the woolen schedule.

Mr. Berger said he supported the bill on the ground that it would break down international barriers. He denounced all forms of tariff as inimical to labor, but did not advocate the immediate abolition of the taxing system because, he said, labor could not withstand the sudden change.

"The protective tariff was never designed to protect the workingman," said Mr. Berger; "that was an afterthought, and because the workingmen had votes."

He said the only protection labor enjoyed was to be found in the trades unions and in the utilization of the boycott and strike methods.

New Head of Committee on Safety.

Henry Morgenthau was elected yesterday to succeed Secretary of War Stimson as President of the Committee on Safety, which was organized shortly after the Triangle Waist fire for the protection of factory workers and property. In his letter of resignation Mr. Stimson said that since his removal to Washington it was impossible for him to retain the Presidency, and he expressed his gratification that Mr. Morgenthau has been induced to succeed him. Mr. Morgenthau will leave for Albany immediately to look after pending measures which will remedy existing fire evils.

Indorse Howland for State Senator.

At a meeting of the Progressive Republican League of Essex County, N. J., held in Newark last night, Harold J. Howland of Montclair, one of the editors of The Outlook, was indorsed for the Republican nomination for State Senator.

STEEL TRUST ENDED STRIFE, SAYS GAYLEY

Says It Removed Price Cutting and Retaliation for Fancied Wrongs by Makers.

FARRELL TO TESTIFY NEXT

Corporation Wants to Suggest Witnesses the Committee Should Call and the Line of Questioning.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The United States Steel Corporation intends to suggest to the Stanley Steel Trust Investigating Committee the calling of witnesses whom the committee may overlook and who may throw light upon matters in question in the inquiry, and also to suggest that questions be asked of certain witnesses, if the committee fails to bring out facts known to such witnesses.

R. V. Lindabury, counsel for the Steel Corporation before the committee, so declared to-day at the close of the examination of James Gayley, former Vice President of the Steel Corporation, in answer to an inquiry by Representative Young of Michigan.

"The committee will exercise its discretion as to whom it will summon," said Chairman Stanley.

The Steel Corporation counsel and the Chairman brushed again over the introduction of some railroad rate figures relating to the Steel Trust railroads in the Lake Superior ore region. The Chairman had obtained rates per ton on ore hauled by the Duluth & Iron and the Duluth, Mesaba & Northern, Steel Trust roads, from the Inter-State Commerce Commission, and had employed an engineer to compute from these figures the rate per ton per mile. The purpose was to show that the rates charged for hauling ore over the Steel Trust roads were exorbitant. The charges, he said, were paid from one Steel Trust pocket to the other, but resulted in unjust cost to independent owners, and thus increased unfairly their cost of production.

Mr. Lindabury objected to the introduction of the figures computed without the identity of their author.

The committee will not meet again for several days, probably not until next week, until after the passage of the Wool bill in the House. The future course will be determined within a few days. Among the first witnesses to be called when the committee resumes will be James A. Farrell, President of the Steel Corporation.

Mr. Gayley to-day explained to the committee many details about the ore holdings and shipping facilities of the Steel Corporation.

He was asked to explain prices of rails quoted to the Canadian Pacific Railroad, prices lower since 1901 than the uniform domestic rate of $28 a ton. Mr. Gayley again referred the question to President Farrell.

Mr. Gayley described at length the steel war which occurred in 1897 and 1899, during which steel rail prices varied, dropping as low as $17 a ton.

"Did not that steel war in 1897 and 1899 bring about the organization of the United States Steel Corporation," Mr. Bartlett asked.

"I do not think it had anything to do with it. It may have had an effect on the formation of the Federal Steel Company, organized just before the steel corporation was formed."

"Do you know whether or not there is an agreement now between steel rail manufacturers whereby territory is parcelled out?"

"I do not. If such existed, Mr. Farrell could tell you."

Mr. Stanley pressed the inquiry into the old agreements, seeking to discover how they had been superseded.

"It required vigilance, mutual agreement, the infliction of penalties to maintain steel prices among independent manufacturers before the organization of the Steel Trust, did it not?" he asked. "And how is it the same result does not require similar methods now?"

"The old agreements often were broken," Mr. Gayley replied, "and in those days price cutting came about as retaliation for some fancied wrong."

"Since the formation of the Steel Trust have there been no fancied wrongs and no efforts on the part of the manufacturers to reduce prices?"

"There have not," was the emphatic reply.

"Manufacturers of steel to-day have been brought more closely together. They are getting better acquainted, and there is more freedom of intercourse that has created a better understanding. Everything is done openly and frankly now, whereas before each manufacturer worked secretly."

HEARING IN LOVE SUIT.

Broker Says He Gave His Time, After Business, to His Wife.

Special to The New York Times.

BAKER, Ore., June 14.—After direct examination of Miss Elizabeth Love, sister of Sidney C. Love, plaintiff's attorneys rested their case to-day. Love gave testimony as to his relations with his wife prior to the loss of his fortune and when they went to England. He denied that he had remained out until early morning hours, and asserted that all his time, except when he was engaged in business, was spent with his wife. He concluded his testimony with an attack on his mother-in-law.

Elizabeth Love's testimony was to the effect that Marjorie Burnes Love, up to the time of her departure for Europe, was greatly in love with her husband.

"I adore him above all else in the world. I don't care for his money. It would be all the same to me whether I lived in a Harlem flat, as long as I had Sidney," were the words Mrs. Love was said to have used in telling her of her love and affection for her husband.

R. HOE & CO. YIELD.

Offer Striking Machinists an Eight-Hour Day, but Not All at Once.

R. Hoe & Co., the press builders, whose machinists have been on strike since May 1 for an eight-hour day, announced yesterday that they were willing to grant the demand. The company says that about 700 machinists have been on strike out of about 2,500 employes. Notices posted about the works read:

> Believing in the mutual usefulness of an eight-hour day in the near future, but in the absolute impossibility of inaugurating it at once because of orders already taken on the nine-hour basis, and the fact that our competitors have nine and ten hour shops
> We hereby give notice that R. Hoe & Co., in New York City, will continue on a nine-hour basis until June 1, 1912; the following year an eight-and-a-half-hour scale will be observed, and the year after an eight-hour scale.
>
> This applies to machinists, pattern makers, molders, coremakers, blacksmiths and carpenters, and other skilled workmen in the shop. This meets the principle for which our men have been contending.
> We shall open on Monday, June 19, 1911, and favor our former employes. If they do not avail themselves of this offer we shall be compelled to obtain other workmen to enter our employment forthwith.

The company regards the offer as liberal, and believes the men will return to work.

$25,000 for Fourth in Brooklyn.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee appointed by Mayor Gaynor to carry out a safe and sane Fourth of July celebration it was voted yesterday at the suggestion of Herman Ridder, the President, to give Brooklyn $25,000 as its share of the joint fund appropriated by the Aldermen and contributed by the citizens of the city. The citizens' fund is now $7,977.75. The sub-committees have almost finished their work, and by next week the complete programme for the city will be made known.

Gov. Pennewell Poisoned by Ivy.

Special to The New York Times.

DOVER, Del., June 14.—Gov. Simeon S. Pennewell is a victim of ivy poisoning, contracted last Sunday at Rehoboth, a seashore resort. Although the Governor's condition is not dangerous, he is in severe pain and was unable to attend a meeting of the State Capitol Commission to-day.

BIG DIRECT PRIMARY VOTE.

Fifty-nine Assemblymen for Strongest of Such Measures—62 Against.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 14.—There was a spirited skirmish in the Assembly to-day over direct nominations. The Warren bill, the most drastic of the seven pending Direct Primaries bills, was the cause of the trouble. This bill, with all the others, is held up by the Committee on the Judiciary, where a compromise measure is being framed along the lines laid down by the "organization."

Assemblyman Joseph A. Warren of the Twenty-first New York District, moved to have the committee discharged from further consideration of his measure so that it might be debated in the open. The motion was defeated, the vote standing 59 to 62. The strength developed by the advocates of this bill came as a surprise to the leaders on both sides of the House, all of whom are opposed to any very drastic primary reform.

In the course of a speech he made in support of the Warren motion, Assemblyman Andrew F. Murray of New York, Republican, paid his respects to Gov. Dix and Speaker Frisbie.

"I have known and seen at this time a State Governor," said Mr. Murray, "who goes down to the throne of the boss and says

'Boss, at thy throne of power, I humbly fall,
Pleading thy promises, Boss,
Boss, hear my call.'"

At this point Mr. Murray was interrupted by the laughter that rang through the Assembly Chamber.

Direct primary legislation, Majority Leader Smith announced to-night, would be taken up in earnest in the Assembly next week.

ANOTHER JOB FOR DEMOCRAT.

Senate Passes Bill Taking Kings Jury Commissioner from Republicans.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 14.—Upon the assertion that they were taking back an office that had been stolen from the Democrats in 1902 by Republicans the Democrats in the Senate to-day passed the Fay "ripper" bill, which puts out of office Jacob Brenner, Commissioner of Jurors in Kings County. Mr. Brenner is Chairman of the Kings County Republican Legislative Committee. Senator Loomis of Buffalo was the only Democrat who voted against the measure.

Senator Travis said that Mr. Brenner had been a model official and that no charge of inefficiency had been made against him. Senator Grady said the place rightfully belonged to the Democrats and they were merely forcing the Republicans to return stolen goods.

The bill now goes to the Governor.

By a vote of 36 to 6 the Senate to-day passed the Goldberg bill amending the liquor tax law in relation to a saloon near a church or school. Under the present law no place where liquor is sold may be located within 200 feet of a church or a school. Mr. Goldberg's bill exempts from this restriction a saloon which has been in continuous operation for five years in case a church or school is erected within 200 feet of such place. The bill has been passed by the Assembly and it now awaits action by the Governor.

Rewards Aid to Italy's 'Quake Victims.

ALBANY, June 14.—Gov. Dix to-day received from Acting Secretary of State Huntington Wilson at Washington a silver medal and diploma awarded to the State of New York by the King of Italy in recognition of the meritorious service given to the sufferers from the earthquake in Calabria and Sicily in 1908. The medal and diploma will be turned over to the State Library authorities.

YACHT VAYU PROBABLY LOST.

Harbor Police Will Be Asked to Drag for Supposed Victims To-day.

No word had been heard late last night of the sloop Vayu, which was lost sight of, with its owner, Lemuel C. Smith, an artist of Bayonne, and his father and mother and two friends, soon after leaving that place for the Atlantic Highlands, just before the violent storm of Saturday night. It is now believed that the sloop capsized or collided with some other ship, and that its occupants were drowned.

Thomas J. Parker, Commodore of the Bergen Point Yacht Club, said last night that the sloop was last seen in the Kill von Kull by guests of the Tourette House, and that at that time, fifteen minutes before the storm broke, it had all sails set. Mr. Parker will ask the New York Harbor police to drag the bottom off Bergen Point for them to-day.

FIRE SCARE AT A WEDDING.

Bridal Party Interrupted by a Squad of Firemen.

Two small boys saw dense blue smoke coming from the third-floor window of an apartment house at 17 East Eighty-seventh Street early last night. One lifted the other to the elevation of the nearest fire box and an alarm was sent in, bringing Engine 27 to the scene. Then the boys ran away. Others saw the smoke, and when the engine stopped at the house from which the smoke poured its occupants were thrown into excitement and the cry of "Fire!" was raised.

A squad of firemen, led by their chief, ran up the steps with extinguishers, while the police took charge of the collected crowd. Long reels of hose were attached to the hydrants. The firemen, arriving on the third floor, pushed into the apartment of Morris Schiff, head of the jewelry firm of Morris Schiff & Co. of 82 and 84 Nassau Street, and stopped. Before them was a table, al decorated in colors, and around it sat a party in evening clothes.

"Where's the fire?" stammered the Chief, while a fireman pointed the nozzle of an extinguisher through the open door.

"What fire?' exclaimed a dozen at once.

"Why the one that's making all this smoke, and then Mr. Schiff saw a great light.

"Justina, Louis!" he shouted.

From the drawing room came a bride and bridegroom, for Mr. Schiff's daughter had just been married to Louis Schwitzer, member of the jewelry firm, and the smoke, it was explained, was caused by a flashlight picture taken in the drawing room a few minutes before.

HITS POLICEMAN AND LAUGHS

Peace of East 51st Street Station Rudely Disturbed.

As Lieut. William Ennis of the East Fifty-first Street Station was busy last night entering up his reports the street door was flung open and in rushed a man without hat or coat. Without saying a word he ran behind the desk and caught the Lieutenant a punch on the nose. He laughed as he did it, and he laughed still more as the policeman, who is well over 6 feet, collapsed on the floor.

The man jumped on Ennis and began to pummel him. The Lieutenant recovered from his surprise and closed with his assailant. He pulled him down and the two struggled on the floor, upsetting the chair and sending the official papers and blotter flying in all directions.

Doorman Joseph Devery heard the bell summoning assistance and came in on the run. He threw himself on the man, but found that he was strong enough for two others. Patrolmen O'Neil and Burnell then arrived and at last the man was overcome.

In his pockets were found cards with the name of Joseph Svoboda, and he said he was an agent for a lumber concern, and lived at 433 East Seventy-seventh Street. He went to Bellevue Hospital.

It was learned late that Svoboda is a bottle washer by occupation and not an agent of a lumber concern. He lives with his wife and stepdaughter.

Corset Steel Checks Bullet.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., June 14.—Mrs. Annie Noonan's life was saved by the steel in her corset when she was shot to-night on Hamilton Street in front of the Paris Hotel by Mrs. Lizzie Dorandi, who declares that Mrs. Noonan is the cause of her domestic trouble. Mrs. Dorandi fired from behind, and the bullet, after being checked by the steel in Mrs. Noonan's corset, was imbedded in the flesh about two inches. Mrs. Noonan was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in a hysterical condition.

FOUND NEW NEEDS IN MAKING A FIRE CHIEF

Civil Service Ratings Changed, It Is Said, to Meet Changed Conditions in the City.

SCALE MARKED UP AND DOWN

But This, 'Tis Explained, Must Be Done to Get a Competent Executive—Kenlon's Competitors Can't See It.

Among the thirteen Deputy Chiefs of the Fire Department, one of whom will be selected within sixty days as the successor to ex-Chief Edward F. Croker, there was the greatest consternation yesterday as it became practically certain, as indicated in yesterday's TIMES, that the present Acting Chief, John Kenlon, fits more closely than probably any other candidate in the examinations to the revised rules and schedules of credits.

There were not lacking firemen who were willing to assert that the rules have been drawn to fit the situation, but, on the other hand, the Municipal Civil Service Commission, through James Creelman, its President, interposed an explanation he hoped would clear away suspicions.

"The gossip that is going the rounds is obviously a thing to which the Civil Service Commission cannot give heed," said he. "As a matter of fact, there never has been an examination of candidates for any position which has been prepared for with greater care. We have sought to create conditions that will put every one of the candidates on an absolutely equal basis on all matters that can be reduced to competition."

When asked the specific reason for dropping the points allowed for seniority in the coming examinations from 16 to 8, Mr. Creelman said that was a matter of departmental detail that he did not care to discuss at length.

In Defense of the Changes.

The view of the commission, it was learned, was that this was an examination without precedent, since it was for the most important office under the Civil Service, and one for which there had been no previous examination within a decade. New fire problems have to be met as a result of changing conditions in these ten years, having to do with the water pressure, automobile adaptation, and administrative qualities necessary to control the expanding fire-fighting force.

The man sketched by the Fire Commissioner to the Civil Service Commission as the commander of the now desirable type is one who will have enough executive ability to handle a great organization without losing his field efficiency, this quality being combined with technical skill as an engneer and experience in the department.

With this kind of a man in view the commission, it is held, went ahead to arrange the schedule of credits now agreed upon. The nearest examination they had to serve as a precedent was that given to foremen on Dec. 9, 1909, for promotion to the positions of battalion chief and deputy chief. In that test the highest score made in the mental examination was 85 points, and seniority was allowed to count 2 points for each year under eight years of service.

Because of the fact that 80 points are allowed each contestant as a qualifying standard, the addition of 16 points to this total would give the old men a total of 96 points to begin with, while the younger men would thus start with a handicap almost impossible to overcome. It was felt, it is said, that such an examination would be no examination at all, as the man with the best claim from the seniority viewpoint would be pretty sure to win. They had thirteen men with approximately equal claim upon the position, from the viewpoint of the Fire Commissioner.

Scaled Down and Scaled Up.

For that reason, with the scaling down of the seniority credits, those for administrative experience were scaled up three points. This was done, it is held, because of the need for administrative ability in the position of Chief.

And where some of the thirteen candidates begin to see discrimination against them at this point is in the fact that while they have been with their battalions one of their competitors has been executive over the fire-fighting river fleet and thus is said to have an advantage in the points granted for this kind of "experience."

But this candidate's medal of honor, which is to count only one point for him, counted in the last examination, it is said, three points, and this is put forward by defenders of the Civil Service Commission as evidence that there was no plan to shape the examination in favor of the medal holder.

The name of John H. McCooey, who succeeded Patrick McCarren as Democratic boss of Brooklyn, was brought into the controversy yesterday by firemen who declared that he had directly engineered the system by which John Kenlon became a Deputy Chief. McCooey, according to the charge, placed at the service of interested persons in the Fire Department his technical knowledge of the civil service rules. The result of this was that examination provisions were so drawn that they excluded all candidates except Kenlon. This was in 1909, when Kenlon became organizer of the marine fleet.

How Kenlon Got In.

The rule that excluded all others, according to the charges, was one requiring that the winner of the competition must possess a master mariner's license. This was defended, however, on the ground that the task of the man in charge of the fireboats was required by a very positive clause of marine law, which provided that only masters, or the superior officers of pilots, may give orders to pilots. It therefore became necessary, it was said, for the Deputy Chief afloat to have the authority of a master or be wholly without legal right to enforce his own commands in handling a fireboat.

In his work afloat Kenlon was in command of the Velox, a special fireboat built to his order. Those dissatisfied with his position in regard to the forthcoming examinations described this boat as a luxuriously fitted private yacht, having no fire-fighting equipment whatever, and built in fact as a pleasure craft for the Deputy Chief in charge. Kenlon's friends retorted that the vessel was a mere messenger boat, with a thirty-foot beam, built on the lines of a small launch. Its purpose, they said, was to steam rapidly from fireboat to fireboat in case of a conflagration.

Kenlon, himself, passed cigars to visitors yesterday, and had nothing to say.

"Wait till it's all over boys," he suggested as he sat at ex-Chief Croker's desk in the Great Jones Street fire house, "and you'll find it's a good deal like the jealous tenors at the dress rehearsal."

Plans of the Civil Service Commission to prevent questions from leaking out in advance of the examination are said to include the printing of the questions in the examination room in plain view of the contestants. The meeting to decide upon the questions, it is said, is to be deferred until the morning of the examination.

SUICIDE OF BANK CASHIER.

L. V. Hart Confesses to Examiner—Assistant's Accounts Also Short.

Special to The New York Times.

RALEIGH, N. C., June 14.—State Bank Examiner J. K. Doughton telegraphed this evening that on his arrival at the Bank of Tarboro to look into financial complications there, Cashier L. V. Hart admitted a shortage, and said the thefts had been going on for seven years.

Hart went home and shot himself, dying this afternoon.

Examiner Doughton says he found that the assistant cashier E. B. Hussey, was also short in his accounts. Hussey was committed to jail in default of $15,000 bond. The estimated shortage is $12,500. Cashier Hart leaves a wife and two sons.

BRITISH POLO TEAM SAILS.

No Sting in Defeat, They Say—Mauretania Last Coronation Ship.

The Cunarder Mauretania, the last passenger-carrying steamship to sail from this port in time to land passengers in London before the coronation, sailed yesterday morning with every cabin filled. Among those in the first cabin were the members of the British polo team. The men seemed a little disappointed over their defeat, but they were hugely pleased over their reception and the hospitality they had experienced on this side. They had much to say in praise of American sportsmanship and they were unanimous in declaring that they were going home with no sense of the slightest unfair treatment.

"We have never seen better sports," said Capt. Herbert Wilson.

"We lost." said another, "but we are not disheartened. We will win another time."

August Belmont, who sailed for a tour of Southern France, said that the international polo match had been one of the most interesting of recent international matches, and he had compliments for both teams. They had both done "beautiful" work, he said.

Mr. Belmont entertained Gov. Dix at the polo game and expressed the hope that the racing bill now in the Legislature will become a law. He seemed to think there was little doubt that there would be racing soon in this vicinity.

James A. Patten was another coronation visitor who departed on the Mauretania. He expressed the belief that there is a decided shortage in the corn crop caused by lack of moisture. This shortage, he thought, might amount to 25 per cent. The Spring and Winter corn crops he said were good and the prospects are bright for a big wheat crop, but that supply scarcely would offest the poor corn crop.

Mr. Patten in London will be the guest of R. T. Roblin, Premier of Manitoba. He plans to return in July.

Count Carl Avest Taube, Prime Minister of Sweden, who spent the last three weeks with his brother, Hening G. Taube of 67 Highland Avenue, Montclair, also sailed in the Mauretania. Count Taube has toured the world on a diplomatic mission for the King of Sweden, having arrived in this country from Japan several weeks ago. He was accompanied by his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Josto Kyhlderter.

RICARDO MAGON ARRESTED.

Charged with Neutrality Violation—Magonistas Murder and Rob.

LOS ANGELES, June 14.—Ricardo Flores Magon, head of the Mexican Socialist revolutionary junta in this city, was arrested to-day on a Federal indictment charging him with violating the neutrality laws of the United States. At the same time Anselmo Figueroa and Librado Rivera, associates of Magon, against whom similar indictments were returned, were taken into custody.

Figueroa is editor of the revolutionary paper Regeneracion. With Magon, he is accused of engaging men to enlist in the rebel army that has been operating in Lower California.

Prior to the revolt in Mexico Magon served a term in the United States prison in Arizona for violating the neutrality laws.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, June 14.—Five hundred "Magonistas," with an almost inaccessible retreat in the hills fifty miles south of Piedras Negras, are plundering that region of Mexico with little to fear from the few troops near them, according to information brought to-day by I. Vara of Piedras Negras.

Señor Vara said forty outlaws raided the Fenix Gold Mines on Monday and took $500. Maderist troops followed them to their retreat, but failed to capture any of them.

EL PASO, June 14.—The Mormon colony at San Antonio, Mexico, 50 miles from Aplin, Texas, is being harassed by a band of twenty-five "Magonistas" under Zalazar, according to reports brought here last night by Francisco Sanchez, who was the bearer of an appeal to the Juarez authorities for military protection. Sanchez states that Zalazar's band is murdering, robbing, and levying tribute and making occasionad forays into Texas.

Troops will be sent from Juarez to San Antonio, while Texas Rangers will guard the American side of the border.

SHOEMAKER A JEFE POLITICO.

Governor of Chihuahua Says the Aristocrats' Sway Is Ended.

CHIHUAHUA, June 14.—Gov. Gonzales has declared that "aristocracy" in Northern Mexico is no longer to be recognized. He appointed a shoemaker to the office of jefe politico yesterday. A jefe politico in Mexico has more power than a Mayor in the United States.

"Hereafter," says Gov. Gonzales, "Mexico is to be the friend of the poor man. The Government will be run by men selected because of their ability and moral standing. The people's trusts will not be turned over to the aristocracy for the public looting."

HAITIAN REBELS WINNING.

Supporters of Gen. Firmin Expect to Make Him President.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, June 14.—News advices received here by mail describe conditions in the northern part of Haiti as serious.

The fighting in that section has been desperate, the Government forces have been scattered, and the rebels are having things their own way. Gen. Montplaisir, one of the commanders of the Federal troops, has taken refuge in a Consulate.

The supporters of Gen. Antenor Firmin, formerly Haitian Minister to Great Britain and leader of the revolt of 1902, are jubilant over the prospect of placing Firmin in the Presidential chair.

Incendiary fires are reported in various parts of the republic.

ALL TRY TO STOP RETURN OF CASTRO

United States, Venezuela, and Haiti on Lookout—Orders to Our Secret Service Men.

MAY DECLARE SHIP PIRATE

If Castro Has Bought Former Italian War Vessel Haiti Will Take Action Against Him.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, June 14.—The steamer Consul Grostuck, formerly an Italian cruiser, which is reported to have on board Cipriano Castro, is still at Port-de-Paix, but is getting up steam. She is expected here to-morrow.

President Simon was interviewed to-day and said that he did not know whether Castro was on the Consul Grostuck as reported to his Government by John B. Terros, the American Consul here. The President said that all he knew of the matter was that the Consul Grostuck had touched at Port-de-Paix in order to make repairs to her boiler tubes. This was announced in a dispatch received by the Haitian Government.

The Government considers the actions of Consul Grostuck suspicious and believes that if Castro is on board he has purchased the vessel. If this supposition proves correct the Government will declare the craft a pirate, as Haiti has contracted to purchase her and already has made several payments on account.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Cipriano Castro, now said to be planning to return himself to power, will get no aid from any person in the United States if redoubled vigilance on the part of the secret agents of the State Department and the Department of Justice can prevent it.

The report of Castro's presence in Haiti caused orders to be issued to-day which will have the effect of a double guard being set at New Orleans and other points along the Gulf Coast from which a filibustering expedition might find aid.

A Haitian warship has been detailed to watch the movements of the steamer Consul Grostuck. Haiti is co-operating with the Venezuelan and United States Governments to prevent the return of the ex-President to his native land.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, June 14.—Orders were received to-day by Secret Service men to redouble their vigilance to prevent filibustering expeditions from leaving here or any other Gulf port for the purpose of helping Cipriano Castro.

That Castro will endeavor to land in Venezuela is no longer doubted, and he is known to have agents here who are looking after his interests.

To-day an order was wired to New York for 3,000 rifles. They will get as far as New Orleans without any trouble, and certain Latin-Americans here assert that they will get out of the country with equal ease. They may be going to Honduras, Guatemala, Nicaragua, or Venezuela.

MYSTERY OF A SHIPMENT.

Ceiba Says Arms Are for Honduras, but Consul Doesn't Think So.

CEIBA, Honduras, June 14, via Wireless to New Orleans.—Local authorities confirmed to-day the assertion of steamship officials that the arms and ammunition scheduled to leave Mobile on the Norwegian steamship Harald were for the Honduran Government, and not for insurgents.

No credence is given here to rumors of another early revolution in this country, but the Government is preparing to equip several regiments of infantry.

NEW ORLEANS, June 14.—War material billed for shipment from Mobile on the steamer Harald for Ceiba, Honduras, was held up to-day by order of the Honduran Consul in Mobile. It consists of 1,000 modern rifles and 301,000 rounds of ammunition.

The shipment was addressed to "B," Ceiba, Honduras. The shipowners declared that it was for the Honduran Government, but no official of that Government in this country appeared to have any knowledge of the shipment.

The arms were purchased in New York by a New Orleans man for $24,650 cash. Government agents here declare that there is no ground for believing that the Honduran Government would delegate this man to make such a purchase.

To See Venezuela's Centenary.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Capt. Frank Parker of the Eleventh Cavalry has been appointed military attaché to Thomas C. Dawson, special American Ambassador to the Venezuelan centenary celebration early in July. Hugh Knox, son of and confidential clerk to the Secretary of State, has been appointed Secretary. Capt. C. C. Marsh will be the naval attaché, and his ship, the armored cruiser North Carolina, will represent the navy at the celebration.

In Memory of David B. Hill.

ALBANY, June 14.—Senators Grady, Gittins, Cobb, Sage, and Murtaugh were appointed by Lieut. Gov. Conway to represent the Senate in preparing for the services in memory of the late David B. Hill. A similar committee has been appointed in the Assembly.

Hamilton, in Auto, Tows His Aeroplane.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., June 14.—Charles K. Hamilton, the aviator, towed an aeroplane behind his automobile from Squantum, Mass., a distance of 148 miles, and made the trip in six hours. Hamilton was in a hurry to get here to be made an Elk, and could not spare the time to take the aeroplane to pieces for transportation by freight.

Book About Teeth Free

We want to send a copy of our book on teeth, entitled "Martinolar Dentistry" to every reader of this paper who has lost teeth or whose teeth need attention. Are yours in perfect order?

This book is profusely illustrated and it goes down deep into the subject of the teeth and how to care for them, with a complete description of the wonderful Martinolar Method, by which we restore missing teeth, without the use of plates or ordinary bridgework.

It tells how to prevent teeth troubles as well as how to cure them after they have become diseased.

This book is written in plain English so it can be understood by everybody who reads it.

For the man or woman who has lost teeth and is wearing a partial plate or a torturesome bridge it is a godsend, for the Martinolar Method will replace these missing teeth with teeth like nature's teeth—firm, beautiful and lasting.

Send us your name and address and we will at once mail you a free copy of the book.

VAINLY ASK SECRET OF HAVEMEYER RULE

Committee Questions Heike on His Domination of Sugar Trust While Owning Little Stock.

STOCKHOLDERS QUIESCENT

There Are 30,000, and 4,000 Receive Dividends of $330 a Year—Nearly 11,000 Labor Investors Get $2 a Day.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The sugar investigation by the Hardwick Committee proceeded to-day with Charles R. Heike, former Secretary of the American Sugar Refining Company, on the stand all day. Mr. Heike explained his want of familiarity with recent details by saying he had "been away for a year."

The witness said he had but fifty shares of stock, and no post whatever in the company. He had been in the sugar business thirty-seven years, and was familiar with practically all the operations under which H. O. Havemeyer built up the great Sugar Trust. He was for years the stock transfer clerk for the Havemeyers, and had opportunity to know the inside facts about scores of transactions involved in the history of the Havemeyers' business.

The committee asked Mr. Freeman, the present Secretary of the American Sugar Refining Company, to submit its minute books, and Chairman Hardwick appointed Judge Raker of California and Judge Madison of Kansas as a sub-committee to examine the books and decide what extracts to make and what portions to bring to the attention of the full committee. Mr. Freeman agreed to go over the books with the sub-committee and render all the aid in his power to give them the information they might desire.

When asked for the names of the properties acquired and placed in the trust Mr. Heike gave the following list:

Havemeyer Sugar Refining Company.
De Castro & Dormer Sugar Refining Company.
F. O. Matthiessen & Weichers Sugar Refining Company.
Moller, Sierck & Co.
Oxnard Brothers.
The North River Sugar Refining Company.
Brooklyn Sugar Refining Company.
Dick & Myer.
Havemeyer & Elder.
Standard Sugar Company.
Continental Sugar Refining Company.
Bay State Sugar Refining Company.
Boston Sugar Refining Company.
Forest Sugar Refining Company.
St. Louis Sugar Refining Company.
Planters' Sugar Refining Company.
Louisiana Sugar Refining Company.
American Sugar Refining Company.

Mr. Heike denied that Henry O. Havemeyer had the ambition to form a trust or to control prices, but thought the principal aim was to accomplish economies.

How the Trust Benefited.

"It was because it is much more profitable and better from an operating point of view," said Mr. Heike. "For instance, you can manufacture goods very much cheaper on a large scale. You can refine, we will say, with a capacity of 500,000 pounds of sugar a day, and double it and make a million pounds of sugar, and you do not double the manufacturing expenses. Of course, it costs more to make a million pounds than it does to make 500,000 pounds, but not nearly twice as much.

"There is some saving in expense made in the sales; even in labor. The second reason is, at that time, at least, sugar had a season, so to speak. In the sugar trade twice as much sugar was sold in Summer as in Winter. The result was that the small houses had very little work to do in the Winter time, but when they all came together we could shut down one house. With stated arrangements it can be made much better with less cost.

"I would like to illustrate that. Suppose a new process for sugar solution is discovered. In such a case the refinery company, with its chemist and experimenters, can make the tests on a large scale. It might cost $50,000. Therefore, on $1,000,000 it would be 5 per cent., and if the capital was $50,000,000 that would be only one-tenth of 1 per cent., and in the success all the companies would share. In other words, the loss would be only one-tenth of 1 per cent.

"Another case where there is a great advantage in comparison. With only one house you can make no comparison to rely upon; but say you have five or ten houses, you can then compare their workings, every detail. One house may have all high-grade sugar and another all low-grade sugar; one house may have syrup. Under all these conditions it is much more expensive to conduct a house with a capital of $1,000,000 than with a capital of $150,000,000."

"It enables the house," said Mr. Garrett, "through the various adjuncts of this main company to specialize?"

"It enables us to get rid of the small houses," replied Mr. Heike.

The examination led into the facts surrounding the undermining of the Baltimore Refining Company and the acquisition of the four concerns at Philadelphia, which were the Havemeyers' most formidable competitors.

"Did you ever issue any stock to pay for this Baltimore Company?"

"I do not know; I haven't any idea," replied Mr. Heike.

"You say you do not know whether you ever issued any stock to pay for it—stock in the American Sugar Refining Company?"

"I don't know, Sir. I know that they issued stock for the Franklin and the Spreckels, but I do not know about the Baltimore."

"Don't you know that money was loaned to this Baltimore Refining Company through a dummy, and it eventually turned out that it was the American Sugar Refining Company which had advanced the money, and that this Baltimore Company did not really know who the real purchaser was?"

"I never heard that story at all."

"Who would know about this?"

"Mr. Freeman says that the matter is all in the minutes, and if you desire him to he will return and show you what was done."

"What do you know about acquiring the E. C. Knight Company?"

"In 1892 the Philadelphia firms acquired at the same time were the Franklin, the Spreckels, and the Delaware Sugar House."

"Those Philadelphia companies constituted almost all the competing companies to the American Sugar Refining Company?"

"In a general way," said Mr. Heike. "I was the transfer clerk of stock and I couldn't answer that, but I guess probably so."

"How were those companies paid for?"

"In stock of the company; I know that."

"I will ask you if the E. C. Knight Company did not sell its stock first to the Franklin Sugar Refining Company, which was part of the trust?"

"No. We acquired all four companies at the same time."

Acquisition of Baltimore Company.

Mr. Freeman presented from the Directors' minutes of the American Sugar Refining Company the following account of how the Baltimore Company was obtained through the purchase of a majority of its stock:

> Minutes of a special meeting of the Board of Directors of the American Sugar Refining Company, held at 117 Wall Street, New York, on Friday, Oct. 26, 1891, which appears on Page 76 of the records of the American Sugar Refining Company, No. 1.
> Mr. H. O. Havemeyer stated that he and T. A. Havemeyer have purchased in March last or subsequently small lots of stock of a Baltimore corporation at prices varying from 108 to 110, and they were willing to turn over the stock to this company at cost, including interests and commissions, if the company desired to acquire it in order to make a majority. On motion of Mr. Magoon, seconded by Mr. Dock, the Treasurer was authorized to purchase not to exceed 5,600 shares of stock of the Baltimore Sugar Refining Company at a cost of 110 per share and commission, the purchase to include 1,270 shares now owned by H. O. Havemeyer and T. A. Havemeyer at a cost of $118,111.68, after Aug. 12, 1891. The resolution was adopted, Mr. H. O. Havemeyer not voting.

James M. Beck told the committee that the American Sugar Refining Company believed that the ten millions of common stock of the National Company issued to Mr. Havemeyer and now a part of his estate was issued without a dollar of consideration and that the American Sugar Refining Company is in entire sympathy with the plaintiffs in the pending litigation over that stock. He said that it was not necessary for the American Company to be a party to the suit, but the plaintiffs would have the co-operation of the American Company.

Mr. Madison was curious to know how Mr. Havemeyer could be master of the sugar world and own so little stock of the American Sugar Refining Company.

"Is it not true, he asked, "that the stock book will disclose the fact that Mr. Havemeyer's ownership of stock in the American Sugar Refining Company varied from time to time?"

"No," said Mr. Heidke. "It varied very little. He sold his stock right in the beginning. As soon as the Sugar Refineries Company was organized and the stock issued he began to sell that stock."

"Down to what amount did he reduce his ownership in the stock?"

"A very nominal amount."

"Well, tell this committee and the country how it was that Henry Havemeyer, for years with only a nominal ownership of stock in the American Sugar Refining Company, dominated its affairs to the large degree that you have stated that he did. You certainly know that from your intimate connections with the matter."

"He was re-elected from year to year as Director of the company. He had enough stock to qualify as needed."

"The other Directors knew how much ownership he had, did they not?"

"They did."

"How was it? Was it through personal influence? Was it through the masterful force of the man, or in what way was it that he succeeded, while he held only a nominal ownership of stock, in absolutely controlling that great corporation?"

"Indeed, I could not say. The stockholders were satisfied, apparently, to re-elect the Directors from year to year."

"Did he secure proxies of stockholders?"

"I sent them out every year."

"To whom were the proxies issued?"

"I sent them out every time to each stockholder. I would say, 'The term expires of three Directors. If you please, be present to vote. If you have no time to come, we will vote for you, and unless otherwise directed we will vote for the three whose office expires.'"

"And they always wrote you to go ahead and do that?"

"Precisely."

"Well, the very interesting fact was disclosed here that thousands of people, among whom are a great number of women and children, estates, &c., own stock of the American Sugar Refining Company, so that a Directorship in it is one of very great importance because a person is certainly the recipient of a very sacred trust. How long has it been since that condition began?"

"It was always so from the beginning. When the stock was issued, in 1887, I gave certificates to each stockholder, a large number, about 200 in all. A large number were in the New England States; that is, three or four families in Boston had more stock than all the others put together. At that time in New York men would buy railroad stock and bonds or State bonds, but not stock in industrial corporations. In the New England States, however, they had mills and manufacturing plants the stock of which was all bought by the people. As soon as the company was organized and the stock sold by Havemeyer it was traded on the Exchanges. The strange part of it is that there are 19,000 stockholders there.

"There are about 4,800 with dividends of about $330 a year. The company also has between 10,000 and 11,000 laboring men; they get about $2 a day or more. Consequently we have about 30,000 people."

Mr. Heike said that the way Mr. Havemeyer was able to run the company without interference was by means of a resolution adopted Jan. 13, 1904, providing that a committee of three stockholders, not Directors, should annually make a statement to be filed in Massachusetts in compliance with the law of that State, and that no information whatever of the affairs of the company should be given out to one or a few stockholders, but only to all the stockholders on application—something that never occurred.

Mr. Lowell M. Palmer will be examined to-morrow.

Senator Bristow to-day introduced an amendment in the Senate reducing the sugar duty. His amendment would strike out the standard provision of the present law and remove the differential between raw and refined sugar, so that the duty would be 95 cents per hundred on sugar testing 75 degrees and 3½ cents for each additional degree. Mr. Bristow expressed confidence that the amendment would receive a considerable vote.

FOR EXPRESS RATE INQUIRY.

Burleson Seeks Light on the Causes for Excessive Charges.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Investigation of the "causes of excessive transportation rates charged by the express companies" is called for in a resolution introduced to-day by Representative Burleson of Texas. The Secretary of Commerce and Labor is directed to furnish all information he has bearing on the subject.

Representative Cox of Indiana introduced a resolution asking the Postmaster General to report whether any private express company is transporting mail matter in competition with the United States Postal Service.

DROPS DEAD AT WHITE HOUSE

Aged Locksmith Was Trying to Open One of Executive Office Safes.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Joseph Durnbaugh of Mechanicsburg, Penn., locksmith, employed in the Treasury Department, dropped dead to-day while attempting to open a safe in the White House offices.

Durnbaugh was 70 years old.

Two Drowned at Alaska Seal Station.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Harry D. Chichester, aged 39, of Eagle Pass, Texas, and Walter L. Hahn, aged 32, of Springfield, S. D., employes of the Bureau of Fisheries in the fur seal service on the Pribilof Islands (Alaska) station, were drowned there on May 31. A telegram received to-day gave no details of the accident.

Mrs. Sage Adds to Princeton Gift.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 14. — Announcement was made to-day that Mrs. Russell Sage had added to her gift of $398,000 the sum of $65,000. The money is to be used in the completion of the large quadrangle in the group of buildings at the northwest corner of the campus, which were named Holder Hall at Mrs. Sage's request.

SENATORS OPEN FIRE ON RECIPROCITY BILL

Gore Answers Predictions of Farmers' Ruin by Quoting Similar Prophecy from Canada.

ROOT AMENDMENT OUTLOOK

Senate Feeling Against It Grows—Underwood Foresees a Hitch Between House and Senate If It Passes.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The first formal speech against reciprocity since the Finance Committee laid the matter before the Senate contained the prediction that reciprocity would pass that body by a vote of two to one. This prediction was made this afternoon in the course of a long speech by Mr. McCumber of North Dakota, and is exactly what he said in conversation with the correspondent of THE NEW YORK TIMES more than a week ago. Mr. McCumber and Mr. Curtis of Kansas, both bitterly opposed to reciprocity, made the speeches of the day against the bill, and when they had concluded Mr. Gore of Oklahoma, in a striking fashion, took the sting from their remarks by summarizing and then inserting in the record a speech on the same phase of the subject by a member of the Dominion Parliament.

The Reciprocity bill was reported yesterday, and to-day it was formally taken up on Chairman Penrose's motion and now remains the unfinished business until disposed of.

Mr. McCumber and Mr. Curtis both discussed the agreement from the standpoint of the American farmer. They pointed out that the measure gives the Canadian farmer an invaluable opening into a field heretofore exclusively belonging to the American agriculturist. They touched on the additional favors supposed to be given the manufacturers in the free listing of raw materials, and called them concessions but little set off by the slight reductions in the manufactured products. In their opinion, the loss of the home market, which they predicted for the American farmer, will make it hereafter impossible for the farmers to extend their land development, and in the end will make their livelihood impossible.

After stating his fears that the President does not realize the enormous possibilities of the Canadian country, and declaring that it is time enough to open Canadian sources when the food supply of the United States is really threatened, Senator McCumber declared that the bill was neither Republican nor Democratic, but a hybrid measure which inherits none of the good qualities of the one parent and only the bad qualities of the other.

Senator Curtis's speech included a citation from Sir Wilfrid Laurier, whom he quoted as saying that the object of the reciprocity compact was to open the door of the American market to the Canadian producer. Mr. Curtis declared that such an expression should "be enough to convince any one in the United States that the agreement could not benefit the people of the United States.

"If the Canadians are to secure our market of 90,000,000 people for their products without injury to any of their industries," he said, "then what will the giving up of that market do to our people? It seems there is but one answer, and that is it will injure our great industry. Do not we lose what they gain?"

Both Senators harped at some length on this phase of the subject, and they gave Senator Gore exactly the opportunity he was waiting for.

The blind Senator from Oklahoma rose with a document in his hand which he described as the speech of Mr. Sexsmith, M. P., from the Province of Ontario. According to Mr. Gore, Mr. Sexsmith, speaking from the Canadian point of view, had prophesied for the Canadian farmer as a result of reciprocity exactly the destruction Mr. McCumber and Mr. Curtis were predicting for American farmers.

"In prehistoric times," said Mr. Gore, "that part of the United States now known as Arizona and New Mexico was populated by a great race of people since wiped off the face of the earth by an unknown cataclysm. In the time to come, when that part of our country now settled by the American farmer has been devastated by a disaster inexplicable to the historian of the future, I hope that in the search for the cause some scientist will discover buried in a sarcophagus together the speeches of the Senator from North Dakota and the honorable member from Ontario lying side by side." Then amid the smiles of his colleagues Mr. Gore sent the speech to the Secretary's table.

The general feeling here is that the Root amendment reported by the Finance Committee without recommendation will not be adopted by the Senate. That feeling has been growing for some weeks, and the action of the committee in half-heartedly indorsing it has not changed the attitude of the Senate as a whole. Mr. Underwood of Alabama, Chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, expressed this opinion as he left the White House this morning after seeing the President on non-political matters:

"I do not believe the Root amendment will pass the Senate. If it does it means, as I have stated, a serious hitch between the two houses as to the treaty. The Democrats of the House will not accept the amendment."

Mr. Underwood met Sereno E. Payne, his predecessor as Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, in the Executive Office corridors. Mr. Payne bantered the Alabama man about the wool schedule.

"Bad proposition," declared the New Yorker.

"Good thing," said the Alabaman. "All the newspapers and the people favor it."

The International Paper Company has written to Chairman Penrose of the Senate Finance Committee refusing to furnish information Senator Penrose had asked respecting the purchase price of the properties merged into the International Company and whether paid for in cash, bonds, or otherwise.

The company, through its representative, Chester W. Lyman, refuses the information because it has not appeared before the present Finance Committee, and because "there are business reasons, entirely aside from the purposes of your investigation, which would make us unwilling to publish broadcast some of the facts asked for."

CONDEMNS ROOT AMENDMENT.

McClelland Asks Legislature to Disapprove It in Resolution Introduced.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 14.—A concurrent resolution expressing disapproval with the Root amendment to the Reciprocity bill in Congress was introduced to-night by Senator McClelland of New York. Under the Senate rule action on the resolution was postponed for a day.

"It is the sense of the Senate and the Assembly," the resolution reads, "that the reciprocity treaty with Canada now pending in the United States Senate, if adopted in its present form, will confer great and lasting benefits upon this Commonwealth and strengthen the political and commercial relations of the United States with our Northern neighbor. Any amendments to the treaty, whatever the origin or motives, shall be regarded as inimical to its ratification.

"This great Commonwealth, owing to the contiguity of hundreds of miles of its territory with the most important commercial and political section of the Dominion of Canada, should be the last, not the first, of the States to present an amendment which may defeat the beneficient treaty.

"The senior Senator of New York should withdraw the amendment to the treaty which he has offered."

Senator Newcomb of New York objected to an immediate consideration of the resolution.

SOUTHERNERS FOR RECIPROCITY

Their Publishers' Association Urges Senators to Vote for Agreement.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 14.—Members of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' Association, in session here to-day, adopted resolutions urging Senators from Southern States to vote for the Canadian reciprocity measure now before the Senate. The resolution follows:

"We urge upon Senators from the Southern States to vote for the Canadian Reciprocity bill now before the Senate. We request this, because we believe the reciprocity measure will prove beneficial to all the people of the United States. We also urge the Southern Senators to support the measure on account of the provisions in the bill regarding print paper and wood pulp, not because we are asking special legislation for our own benefit, but because we believe these measures to be fair to the manufacturers of print paper in this country as well as to the newspapers, for the reasons so clearly elucidated by the President in his Chicago speech.

"The exactions to which the newspaper publishing industry of the country has been subjected are so manifest that one of the foremost Republican opponents of the reciprocity measure, who submitted a minority report to the Senate yesterday opposing the bill, conceded that the publishers have been subjected to extortions and have been forced to conduct their business under conditions which are intolerable. This Senator, as a member of the Finance Committee, had heard all of the evidence submitted to that committee, and his conclusion is added evidence of the justice of this portion of the Reciprocity bill."

MORE WORK ON MAINE TO-DAY

Pumping Will Reveal Parts of Wreck Hidden Since Explosion.

HAVANA, June 14.—Before sundown tomorrow the water in the cofferdam inclosing the wreck of the battleship Maine will be pumped out to a point low enough to reveal portions of the wreck submerged for thirteen years, including a portion of the berth deck, in which it is believed lie the remains of most of the undiscovered victims of the explosion.

The most powerful pumps will be put to work to-morrow with the object of reducing the water level a total of ten feet, which will permit the partial exploration of the upper part of the after section from the stern to immediately forward of the engine room space, where the explosion severed the forward section, including the ten-inch turret on the starboard side.

All this latter portion of the vessel is submerged many feet in excess of the after part, and probably will not be revealed until the dam is completely emptied and a great quantity of mud excavated. The present intention is to permit the water to remain at the ten-foot level, possibly for several days, for the purpose of making observations and tests of the cofferdam.

Col. Patrick said to-night that it was believed to be quite feasible to separate the after two-thirds of the ship from the forward third, severing the parts shattered by the explosion by the use of an acetylene blast. On the completion of the separation of the parts it is intended to dissect the forward section by acetylene blasts into portable fragments, which will be taken out piecemeal. After that, in default of further orders from Congress, it is the intention to build a bulkhead across the rear section, float it out from the dam, bring it alongside a wharf in the harbor, make a complete examination, and finally tow it to sea and sink it.

FLOOD THREATENS SIOUX CITY

Army Engineers Ordered There to Control the Waters of the Missouri.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—In response to appeals from Iowa, army engineers will undertake to control the waters of the Missouri River at Sioux City to prevent the flooding of that city. Senators Cummins and Kenyon and Representative Hubbard of Iowa to-day took up the question with Secretary of War Stimson. It was explained that the river threatens to break its banks and inundate a considerable part of the city.

Because of the urgency of the matter Mr. Stimson called upon the army engineer at Sioux City for a telegraphic report. This supported the views of the Iowa representatives, and work will be begun shortly.

NEW COUNTERFEITS FOUND.

Portrait of Washington Defective in $20 Gold Certificate.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Two new counterfeits have been found in circulation by the Secret Service. One is a $20 gold certificate. It is a lithograph on bond paper. The silk fibre has been imitated by ink lines. The portrait of George Washington shows defects on close inspection.

The other, a $10 United States note bearing portraits of Lewis and Clark, has a good color, but is too heavily printed. The seal is larger than the genuine.

Lewis Confirmed After Long Fight.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—After a fight waged by Southern Senators for more than two months the Senate to-day confirmed William H. Lewis, the Boston negro attorney, to be Assistant Attorney General of the United States.

SAILORS' STRIKE ON; AFFECTS BIG LINERS

Crews of Teutonic and Empress of Ireland Go Out—Owners Expect to Get Other Men.

20,000 AMERICANS MAY QUIT

Coastwise Steamship Strike on Saturday Threatened—Southampton Coal Porters Return to Work.

LONDON, June 14.—The seamen's strike was formally declared to-night at London, Glasgow, Liverpool, Cardiff, Bristol, Southampton, and other British ports, and also at Belgian and Dutch ports, but the chances of any real international strike being declared seem remote.

So far as to-night's indications show, the confidence of the Shipping Federation is well placed, for at hardly any of the ports involved was enthusiasm displayed for the strike, and the ship owners maintain an attitude of indifference, seemingly satisfied that they will have no trouble in filling the places of the strikers, who thus far can be counted by hundreds.

Tom Mann at Liverpool, Ben Tillett at London, and Havelock Wilson at Southampton are doing their utmost to galvanize the movement, but with small success. They demand chiefly a conciliation board and the establishment of a minimum wage, and complain bitterly of the wholesale employment of Asiatics by the ship owners.

There appears very small hope here that the seamen of either Germany, Norway, or Denmark will come into the movement.

At a mass meeting in East London tonight, attended by 3,000 sailors and firemen, the signal for the strike was given. This consisted in the firing of three rockets and the unfurling of a banner inscribed, "War is now declared."

The first big steamers to be tied up by the strike are transatlantic liners. The crews of the Teutonic and the Empress of Ireland, numbering 350 and 300 men, respectively, refused to sign. The Teutonic was scheduled to sail from Liverpool next Saturday for Quebec and Montreal. The Empress of Ireland, owned by the Canadian Pacific Company, was due to leave Liverpool on Friday for Quebec.

SOUTHAMPTON, June 14.—The strike of coal porters, which started here on June 9, was settled this evening. The men return to work on compromise terms.

The American Line steamer St. Paul, which should have sailed from this port last Saturday for New York, will probably get away to-morrow.

ANTWERP, June 14.—The strike of seamen seems to have met with littl̶e success among the sailors here, but the firemen and cargo handlers are slowly going out.

The Belgian crews of two Red Star Line vessels due to leave Antwerp this week have struck and will be replaced by others. The officials of the Red Star Company are unconcerned over the strike situation here, and they do not expect an interruption of their service. It was announced at the company's offices this afternoon that the Marquette would sail for Boston to-morrow and the Finland for New York on Saturday.

At a meeting of representatives of the Seamen's Union and of the shipowners with the Burgomaster of Antwerp to-day the shipowners refused to enter into negotiations with the union.

AMSTERDAM, June 14.—The crews of three of the Royal Steamship Company's vessels refused to sign this morning and were dismissed.

The sailors on most of the steamers in the harbor struck, but work proceeded as usual. The dock hands declined to join the strikers.

ROTTERDAM, June 14.—Chinese seamen are standing ready to act as strike-breakers if the Dutch mail steamers have difficulty in obtaining crews.

Up to this afternoon only one vessel had the slightest trouble.

CHRISTIANIA, June 14.—No strike of seamen was declared here to-night, but the President of the local branch of the International Seamen's Union declared that everything was in readiness and that the men were only awaiting orders from headquarters.

The ship owners, on the other hand, are confident that a strike here is impossible.

The strike of the seamen on English steamships did not extend to this port yesterday, and, according to representatives both of the Sailors' and Firemen's Union of Great Britain and the International Seamen's Union of America last evening, the seamen on the British vessels here have not been encouraged to strike until the ships reach their home ports. In spite of the statements of the officials of the English union here several weeks ago that the men had nothing to fear from the law here if they deserted their ships, there appeared to be considerable fear of the law even among the leaders yesterday. A general strike on the coastwise steamships, however, is threatened.

The Mauretania of the Cunard Line got away in time yesterday. Charles Sumner, manager of the line, who was at the dock when the great vessel sailed, remarked: "That doesn't look like a strike, does it?"

The men from British steamships have been addressed at meetings for the last two or three weeks both by officers of their own union and officers of the International Seamen's Union of America. The latter have counseled the British seamen not to take the chance of being involved with the law by striking before their ships reach home ports, when they could refuse to sign articles for a new trip.

One reason for this advice was that from 15,000 to 20,000 men on the coastwise steamships may strike on Saturday, including sailors, firemen, cooks, stewards, and porters, unless the replies of the coastwise steamship companies to demands which have been made on them are satisfactory. The American union does not want a strike here of the British seamen, to whose support they would have to contribute, and also have a general strike of its own to look after. The reply to the demands on the coastwise companies will be received to-morrow by a committee of the men, and the Atlantic Coast Seamen's Union, the Eastern branch of the International Seamen's Union of America, will meet to-morrow night to act on the report of the committee.

H. P. Griffin, Secretary of the Marine Cooks and Stewards' Association, who is also a Vice President of the International Seamen's Union of America, and one of those who advised the British seamen not to strike until they reached their home ports, said that he gave this advice for two reasons.

"One of these reasons," he continued, "is that if our organization has to strike for its demands, which is as likely as not if by Friday our demands are not granted, our union will have its hands full in supporting its own strike. If the British seamen struck here we would be expected to contribute to their support in this country. It would be better if they waited to strike until they reach their home ports, where the cost of living is one-third of what it is here. The second reason is that the strikers would be liable to be arrested at the instance of the companies on the charge of desertion. Decisions on this point have been conflicting, and we would have to engage lawyers to defend them in the courts, as we can bring precedents to show where courts have refused to indorse such arrests."

George Brown, New York agent of the Atlantic Coast Seaman's Union, said that whether the British seamen went on strike here or not, the coastwise seamen were liable to strike here if the reply to their demands was unfavorable. This would make it an international strike anyway, and trouble, he said, would surely follow the refusal of the demands.

At the offices of the International Mercantile Marine Company, representing the American, White Star, Red Star, and Atlantic Transport Lines, the impression was that the British seamen would not strike here. Philip A. S. Franklin, Vice President of the company, said he believed the strikers could be arrested here and sent home for trial on the charge of desertion. Asked if this course would be pursued in such a case, he said: "It would be premature to say what we would do. We are not crossing bridges before we reach them."

THE OLYMPIC SAILS.

Largest Completed Vessel Afloat Begins Her Maiden Voyage.

LONDON, June 14.—Despite the efforts of the strike leaders to hold her up, the Olympic of the White Star Line, the largest completed steamer afloat, got away from Southampton on her maiden voyage to New York early this afternoon.

Even this morning there was some doubt as to whether the Olympic would sail on time, but a settlement with her deckhands was finally effected. Great crowds witnessed the departure of the new craft and gave her a rousing sendoff. She carried 450 saloon passengers, a record for a westward voyage in June. J. Bruce Ismay, Chairman and Managing Director of the White Star Line, is on board, as are many Americans who decided not to wait for the coronation ceremonies.

The Olympic is due in New York next Wednesday.

The Olympic and the Titanic, sister ships of the White Star Line, are the largest vessels in the world, the gross tonnage of each being about 45,000, or about 12,000 tons more than the Mauretania. Both vessels were built at Belfast by Harland & Wolff. The Titanic has been launched, and will enter the transatlantic service in the Autumn.

The length of each over all is 882 feet 9 inches, and between perpendiculars 850 feet, the extreme breath is 92 feet, and the depth molded 64 feet 6 inches. They are propelled at a continuous sea speed of 21 knots, by three screws, the two outer ones being driven by two sets of triple expansion reciprocating engines, while the central one is worked by a Parsons exhaust steam turbine. The total horsepower is about 46,000.

LOBBYISTS STIR UP HARTFORD ASSEMBLY

Crowd the Floor of the House in Fight Against Public Utilities Bill.

LOBSTERS AND SNAKE IN MAIL

Constituents Thus Show Their Resentment Toward Connecticut Legislators Who Oppose the Measure.

HARTFORD, Conn., June 14.—This was the liveliest day in the Legislature this session, due to intensity of feeling over the Public Utilities Commission bill, which will be up for passage in the House to-morrow, the Senate having passed the bill providing for a single commission to supervise all public service corporations, in preference to a bill retaining the Railroad Commission and providing for another to look after other corporations.

There was a wrangle on the floor of the House between legislative attorneys and members. Benedict M. Holden, one attorney, offered to wager $100 with Ralph O. Wells, attorney for the State Business Men's Association, that Gov. Baldwin would not say the bill which passed the Senate was constitutional. Representative Dunn, who is also Mayor of Willimantic, called Holden names and warned the lobbyists to let House members alone. Other members wrangled over the merits of the bill until the Speaker's gavel opened the session.

Members began opening their mail and some who are against the one-commission bill found boiled lobsters addressed to them. Some one sent a squirming object about the chamber and stampeded the timid ones. It reached Speaker Scott, who dropped it into a basket. It proved to be a "rubber snake."

The legislative agents for the various railroad men's organizations, who have declared against the one-commission bill, gave to each House member a statement denouncing the bill as one "pregnant with commercial and industrial disaster, legislative humbuggery, legal ambiguities, and Constitutional difficulties."

Senator Judson, the Republican leader, who won a victory in the upper branch with the one-commission bill against a majority of the Judiciary Committee, this afternoon condemned a substitute bill offered as an amendment for the bill which has passed the Senate. The new bill was drawn by Daniel Davenport, law partner of Representative Banks, who is the Republican House leader.

Gov. Baldwin is supposed to regard the bill as Constitutional, as after reviewing it he suggested amendments to improve it, and these changes the Senate made.

The debate in the House to-morrow is expected to draw a large attendance. Two years ago, in a somewhat similar debate, lobbyists were pointed out as interfering with members, and the floor was ordered cleared. Such a demand is expected tomorrow.

LAWYER ANGERS CAMORRISTI

Lloy Fails to Appear in Court and the Trial Is Adjourned.

VITERBO, June 14.—Because of the failure of Alessandro Lloy of counsel for the defense to appear in court to-day, President Bianchi adjourned the trial of the Camorristi until Friday. Lloy withdrew from the proceeding in a huff yesterday after he had been accused of tampering with witnesses for the crown.

The prisoners were much disappointed over the delay, for which they held Lloy responsible.

"I wish," said Enrico Alfano, (Erricone,) the alleged actual head of the Camorra, "that Lloy would keep away altogether. The incident he caused yesterday is making us lose precious time."

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

GUATEMALA CITY, June 14.—Juan J. Estrada, the ex-President of Nicaragua, who recently resigned his office and left the country, has been in this city but left here yesterday for a northern port, whence he has planned to sail for New Orleans on the steamer Heredia. The Heredia is en route from Colon for New Orleans and intermediate ports.

QUEENSTOWN, June 14.—The United States naval collier Vulcan arrived here to-day and will await the arrival of the American Naval Academy Summer practice squadron under Commander Coontz, which is due here on June 19.

BRUSSELS, June 14.—A Cabinet has been formed by M. de Broqueville to succeed the Schollaert Ministry. M. de Broqueville is Premier and Minister of the Interior.

The celebrated Mendel Wardrobe Trunks

¶ The Mendel has created order out of chaos. Into the meaningless void of trunk interiors it has introduced system. It has segregated the sartorial phenomena, fenced off man's linen from his clothes, restored peace between Madame's millinery and her gowns, and placed an impassable barrier between shoes and toothbrushes for all time.

¶ We are so convinced of Mendel merits that we unhesitatingly advise every man and woman who travels, occasionally or regularly, to invest in a Mendel Wardrobe Trunk at Saks', which is the New York centre for Mendel distribution.

WOMEN MEDICOS LEAD IN HONORS

Four of the Eight in Cornell's Graduating Class of Fifty-five Distinguish Themselves.

FIRST PRIZE MISS DUDLEY'S

President Schurman of the University Tells Young Doctors That Service Counts More Than All Else.

The thirteenth annual commencement of Cornell University Medical College was held yesterday afternoon in the college auditorium, at First Avenue and Twenty-eighth Street.

The graduating class, eight of the members of which were young women, numbered fifty-five. The first honors of the class were carried off by Helen Dudley of Brooklyn. Second honors went to Elvira Dudley Dean of Mineola, L. I., who ran Miss Dudley a close race for first honors. Two other young women, Margarete Darvas and Frances Shostac, were on the class honor roll of ten. As a professor of the college laughingly remarked, it was a field day for the young women M. D.'s, all of whom stood high in their class.

To Miss Dudley was awarded the first Polk prize of $300 for the student having the highest standing for a record of four years, while the second prize of $125 was awarded to Miss Dean. The degrees were conferred by President Schurman, who delivered the address to the class.

There were surprise and regret among the student body when the retirement from the college of Prof. R. A. Wittaus, who held the chair of chemistry, toxicology, and medical jurisprudence, was announced. Prof. Wittaus was one of the founders of the college and a member of its governing council. Prior to the conferring of degrees a special meeting of the Faculty was held, at which that body presented a set of engrossed resolutions to Prof. Wittaus commemorating his years of distinguished service in the institution and expressing regret at his retirement. He will not, however, lose all connection with the college, as he has been made a professor emeritus.

Dean Polk presented President Schurman to the students.

President Schurman told the class that they had won a single honor by the record they had made, and a double honor by the winning of their diplomas, while a triple honor went to those who had won the prizes. Touching briefly on the problem of labor, he said he favored more leisure for certain classes of workers. He believed that the highest efficiency in labor could be developed by a well-balanced regulation of the wage-earner's hours of rest and toil.

Speaking of the progress that women were making in the world he said: "Women everywhere are giving a splendid account of themselves. Two women have carried off the highest honors here to-day. At Cornell it is the same. The women stand exceptionally high in their classes."

Addressing his remarks to the class he said: "I suppose the first consideration with you to-day is that of self-support. I do not believe that any member of this class is entering the medical profession for any financial reward it may offer, for its rewards as a rule are not large, and in your desire to practice medicine I am sure you are thinking of something infinitely higher. Our age regards service, which is a particular privilege of your profession, higher than anything else. It will be your privilege to render the highest kind of service to the community. It will become your privilege to alleviate suffering, which is the most terrible thing that afflicts our race. And the men and women who fight pain stand out as living angels in the lives of humankind."

After the reading of the honor roll the prizes were awarded. Both Miss Dudley and Miss Dean were tumultuously applauded by their classmates as they walked to the platform to receive the envelopes in which checks for the amounts of their prizes were inclosed. Miss Dudley is the daughter of William Dudley, a Brooklyn merchant. She expects to sail for Europe to-day. While abroad she will give some attention to further studies in her profession, and on her return she will enter the Worcester Memorial Hospital.

The honor roll follows: Helen Dudley, Elvira Dudley Dean, Wesley M. Baldwin, Walter Lester Mattick, Margarete Darvas, Charles Fleet Scudder, Albert Virgil Franklin, Frances Shostac, Arthur William Justin, Henry Robert Kutil.

The graduating class has with two exceptions received hospital appointments. The list of the class, with the names of the hospitals in which they have received appointments, so far as known, follows:

Louise Auerbach, Detroit Hospital for Women and Children; Aaron G. Baldwin, Red Cross Hospital; Wesley M. Baldwin, Red Cross Hospital; George T. Banker, New York Hospital; Samuel Berkowitz, Beth Israel Hospital; John H. Blauvelt, Westchester County Hospital; Roscoe C. Borst, Lincoln Hospital; Harry Gifford Bull, Vassar Brothers Hospital, Poughkeepsie; Thomas W. Carey, St. Vincent's Hospital; Margarete Darvas, Worcester Memorial Hospital; George R. Dempsey, St. Luke's Hospital; Florence T. Donovan, S. R. Smith Infirmary, Staten Island; Elvira D. Dean, William G. Doran, St. Vincent's Hospital; Helen Dudley, Worcester Memorial Hospital; Elsie Fox, Albert V. Franklin, Presbyterian Hospital; Irving Friedenreich, Har Moriah Hospital; Jesse D. Friedman, Brooklyn Jewish Hospital; Oscar C. Frundt, Jersey City Hospital; Ralph H. Garlick, Kings County Hospital; Serafino Genovese, St. Mark's Hospital; William E. Glanville, City Hospital; Harold H. Golding, New York Hospital; Walter G. Hallstead, St. Mary's Hospital; Robert C. Howard, New York Hospital; Arthur W. Justin, Bellevue Hospital; Henry R. Kutil, New York Hospital; William F. Lee, Bellevue Hospital; A. L. Levy, Mount Sinai Hospital; Walter W. Lowell, Brooklyn German Hospital; Nils O. Lundell, St. Francis Hospital; J. E. McCormick, Newark City Hospital; Edward Mahler, Mount Sinai Hospital; Walter L. Mattick, Bellevue Hospital; Stanley H. Mellen, Lincoln Hospital; Carl H. Mueller, Brooklyn German Hospital; Arthur C. There was no essay received for the prize offered in neurology, therefore no prize on that subject was awarded.

HONORS FOR VASSAR GIRLS.

Dr. Taylor Suggests New Faculty for Social and Moral Culture.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 14.—Two hundred and twenty-eight Vassar girls presented their beaming faces to the Faculty at the forty-sixth annual commencement exercises in the chapel to-day and received the degree of A. B. For the first time in Vassar's history the Faculty members wore the caps and gown.

President James Monroe Taylor announced at the close of the commencement programme that the sum of $220,429 had been received by the college in gifts, the largest of which was that of $150,000 by Mrs. Russell Sage for the "Olivia Josselyn Hall," and $50,000 from the Alumnae for educational advancement in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of the college and the twenty-fifth year of President Taylor's administration. Dr. Taylor conveyed a message from the Board of Trustees that in case a professor has taken no previous year of absence, his fifteenth year shall be granted him with full pay.

In his address Dr. Taylor expressed his conviction that Vassar, as well as many other American colleges and universities, needs a more direct means that it possesses for the social, moral, and spiritual culture of youth. He advocated a separate Faculty to accomplish this with a separate social life, looking entirely to the spiritual and moral interests of youth.

The graduates were all gowned in white. The commencement day Marshal was Mrs. Harlan Ward Cooley, Vassar, 1886, of Chicago, Ill. Essays were read by Miss Marjorie MacCoy, Miss Julia Fiberger, Miss Beatrice Eulia, Miss Valerie Atherton, and Miss Ethel Quarles. The second degree in art, A. M., was conferred on Caroline Seely Cummins, A. B. 1910; Quaseti Cromwell Drake, A. B. 1910; Ruth Evelyn Marceau, A. B. 1910, and Alice Dorothea Snyder, A. B. 1909.

In the class those who received honors numbered twenty-eight, among whom were Mary Valerie Atherton, New York; Helen Edith Brewster, Wappingers Falls, N. Y.; Virginia Lacey Butler, Bridgeport, Conn.; Julia Ford Fiberger, West Point, N. Y.; Henrietta Gibson, Albany, N. Y.; Edna Lulu Kroner, Wakefield, R. I.; Helen Huel Law, Fort Ann, N. Y.; Eleanor Louisa Secour, Brooklyn; Frances John Shriver, New Brighton, N. Y.; Helen Josephine Simpson, Brooklyn; Kathryn Helene Starbuck, Saratoga Springs; Emily Thallon, Brooklyn; Genevieve Janet Williams, Brooklyn.

SETON HALL GRADUATES.

Ten of the Bachelors of Art Will Study for the Priesthood.

SOUTH ORANGE, June 14.—For the thirteenth consecutive year, weather conditions were all that could be desired for the commencement programme at Seton Hall College, the fifty-fifth in its history, held here this morning. The exercises were presided over by the Right Rev. Dr. John J. O'Connor, Bishop of Newark.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts was conferred upon the following: James F. Birmingham of Jersey City, James R. Byrne, Francis X. Derivaux, Stephen L. Martin, and Francis A. Monaghan of Newark; John D. Carty of Glen Ridge, Michael J. O'Connor of Wards Island, N. Y.; John P. Reilly of Philadelphia, Joseph A. Shevlin of Jersey City, John Salamon of Passaic, John A. Tracy of Orange, and Constantine Ciaramella of White Plains, N. Y. Ten of these twelve young men have already made application for admission to the Seminary of the Immaculte Conception, where they will take a theological course of four years, preparatory to their ordination to the priesthood. The officers of the class are: President—Mr. Martin; Vice President—Mr. Reilly; Treasurer—Mr. Birmingham; Secretary—Mr. Derivaux.

The degree of Master of Arts was conferred also upon these members of the class of 1909: Andrew L. Adzima, John J. Clark, Cornelius A. Corcoran, Timothy J. Hurley, Edward L. Jennings, John A. Matthews, John C. McClay, Matthew J. Toohey, and Eugene S. Shalvoy.

Addresses were delivered by Messrs. Birmingham, Carty, and Monaghan, who discussed "The Ethical Phase of the Labor Problem." Mr. Birmingham was also valedictorian. The address to the graduates was delivered by the Rev. Dr. William Cantwell of Long Branch, a graduate of the class of 1879.

A happy surprise was given the students and friends of the college, when Bishop O'Connor announced at the close of the exercises that Dr. James F. Mooney, President of the college, has received the title of monsignor from the Pope. The recipient of the honor was showered with congratulations.

GRADUATED AFTER 25 YEARS.

Five Expelled Students Given Degrees by Wesleyan University.

DELAWARE, Ohio, June 14.—Twenty-five years after being expelled from Ohio Wesleyan University, during their senior year, for attending a theatre performance at Columbus, in violation of rules, five men to-day were granted degrees at the sixty-fifth annual commencement.

The five men are Probate Judge Clarence Murphy of Hamilton County; F. P. Blackford, a Findlay attorney; S. R. Greer, St. Louis lumberman; F. B. Irwin, a Piqua (Ohio) banker, and E. D. Stout, a Circleville (Ohio) banker.

Among the honorary degrees conferred were Doctors of Laws—Homer Folks, New York, and Melville E. Stone, New York.

NEW CADETS AT WEST POINT.

Cuba, Porto Rico, and Philippines Represented in This Year's Class.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 14.—To-day 249 young men who successfully passed the entrance examination held in January and May reported and were admitted as cadets to the Academy. This is the first class to enter since the increase of the corps of cadets was authorized by Congress and is the largest that has ever entered.

Among the new cadets there is one from Cuba, Melchor Batista, who is receiving instruction under the provisions of a joint resolution of Congress. From Porto Rico comes Luis Raul Esteves, and from the Philippines Anasticio Ver Quevedo. The young men were rapidly uniformed, and by the time supper call sounded to-night they had been drilled sufficiently to give a creditable performance in marching to the mess hall.

The second and third classes went into Summer encampment this morning where they will remain until Aug. 28. This year's Summer camp has been named Camp Merritt in honor of the late Gen. Wesley Merritt.

Carnegie Honors Mrs. Cleveland.

AUBURN, N. Y., June 14.—Commencement exercises at Wells College took place at Aurora to-day under a drizzling rain which interfered with the dedication of the new Frances Folsom Cleveland library given by Andrew Carnegie in honor of the widow of the late President Cleveland. Mrs. Cleveland, an alumna, was present and took part in the deliberations of the Board of Trustees, of which she is a member.

Victor Herbert Doctor of Music.

PHILADELPHIA, June 14.—Among those honored by Villanova College at its Sixty-eighth commencement to-day was Victor Herbert, the composer, who received the degree of Doctor of Music. The degree was conferred in absentia, Mr. Herbert being in the Adirondacks. The Most Rev. Diomede Falconio, Papal Delegate at Washington, presided at the exercises.

FREY LIKELY TO RECOVER.

Dr. Mazzoni Sets the Injured Airman's Fractured Bones.

RONCIGLIONE, Italy, June 14.—Herr Frey, the only competitor in the Paris-Rome-Turin aviation race to attempt the final leg of the course, lies in the hospital here with his right arm and left leg broken and his lower jaw fractured. In periods of delirium he again fought the battle with the fog that was his undoing yesterday.

Dr. Mazzoni, the noted surgeon who operated on Pope Leo XIII., came to Ronciglione to-day and made an examination of Frey. He set the fractured bones, after which the injured aviator seemed to rest more easily. Dr. Mazzoni predicts that if Frey recovers it will take not less than two months.

Strangely enough, Frey does not appear to have been injured internally. The physicians think he will recover. The airman's wife came from their home in Florence last night and is with him to-day.

The time limit for the Paris-Rome-Turin race will expire to-morrow.

Mr. Belden's Condition Favorable.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 14.—Third Secretary Belden of the American Embassy, who was thrown from his horse yesterday, passed a comfortable night and is now resting easily. There is not the slightest cause for anxiety, although the physician has ordered Mr. Belden to remain in bed for at least a week. Many cablegrams of inquiry arrived from America to-day.

$5,000,000 FOR MELLEN ROAD

Boston & Maine Buys New Line—Notes Out for $27,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., June 14.—It was announced this afternoon that the Boston & Maine has borrowed $5,000,000 for a year at 4 per cent. mainly to finance its purchase of the Worcester, Nashua & Rochester on a low money market. The purchase of the Rochester road was authorized yesterday by the stockholders of the Boston & Maine in special meeting, and the purchaser of the notes is the First National Bank of Boston.

This makes a total of $27,000,000 one-years notes issued within six months by the Mellen system. The notes announced to-day, will, it is said, be publicly offered at a figure somewhat above par. They will be in coupon form of large denominations, and will bear interest payable semi-annually.

STEEL MARKET IMPROVED.

Trade Organs Report the Recession Over and Reaction Here.

Improvement in the steel market is noted by the representative organs of the trade, the recovery being particularly in evidence in the prospects for steel rail orders.

The Iron Age says:

> The steel market presents a more cheerful aspect. The feeling in Pittsburg is that the worst is over, and that from this time improvement is to be expected. The recent reduction in prices appears to have made good. The volume of new business of steel manufacturers has quite considerably increased in the past ten days, and the bookings of the past week were larger than those of the previous week. Specifications against contracts are more liberal in all lines except those which are influenced to some extent by the approach of the inventory period, about July 1.
>
> It may be said with regard to the position of the Republic Iron and Steel Company in the market that in taking the initiative in reducing steel bar prices its action was not hasty, but was taken after protracted efforts had been made to prevail upon other bar manufacturers to make the revision of prices which appeared necessary.
>
> Contributing to the cheerfulness are some developments outside of mere market circles. The investigation at Washington of the United States Steel Corporation, instead of uncovering anything of disadvantage to that great interest, has so far been distinctly disappointing to the investigators.
>
> The pig iron trade is better, although prices are a trifle lower, particularly on Southern iron.

The Iron Trade Review says:

> A note of optimism comes from the great West, where improved crop prospects and greater willingness on the part of railroads to buy, have caused a more cheerful feeling, and in other parts of the country, including the Pittsburg district, there is less despondency. In some branches of the iron business, however, notably iron ore and lake trade, there are no indications of improvement. Some of the leading steel makers report increased new business and specifications, especially in rails, structural, and sheets. The daily bookings of the United States Steel Corporation are better than for several months. Western railroads especially are specifying more freely for material. The report of the Subway Committee in New York as to grants for extensions of present traffic facilities is expected to result in construction starting shortly, which will provide an enormous steel requirement for this work.

Czar to Visit Our Ships To-day.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 14.—Emperor Nicholas will visit the American battleships at Kronstadt to-morrow. On Saturday Rear Admiral Badger will give a reception on the Kansas. The division will sail on Sunday, and immediately after the departure of the ships the imperial family will begin a cruise in the Gulf of Finland.

Smith Gray & Co.
Foremost Clothiers Since 1845

Unquestionably the most appealing attribute of this tremendous underpriced event is that only in price is it suggestive of what is generally understood by the word "sale."

For here, instead of odds and ends, left-overs and broken sizes is practically all of our Summer stock in all its wealth of assortment, just as if it would have been May 1st, had it not been for that six weeks delay in our tailoring plant.

In the four or five weeks of this selling season that remain, we must do ten or twelve weeks' business. The prices, which these Summer Suits have been marked, make for greater value, all things considered, than the Smith Gray & Co. history has known.

Included are practically all of our lightest weight two and three piece Summer Suits, in the most exclusive and advanced styles in both fabrics and models, many of which will not be shown outside the Smith Gray & Co. stores for at least another season.

15.50 for two and three piece Summer Suits—regularly 18.00, 20.00, 22.50 and 25.00.

Here you will find Canadian homespuns of excellent quality, in metal, steel and Oxford grays, also blue, brick brown, tan and olive shades, light and very light worsteds, velours, worsted cheviots, in new gray, brown, tan and olive shades, as well as blue and black fancy serge weave worsteds in stripe weaves, pencil stripes and silk mixtures. Among the models are two and three button designs for men, young men and boys. Your choice at these special prices is broader than you will find in most stores even though you paid 18.00 to 25.00 instead of 15.50.

22.50 for two and three piece Summer Suits—regularlarly 27.50, 30.00 and 32.50.

18.50 for two and three piece Summer Suits—regularly 22.50, 25.00 and 27.50.

In wonderous assortment are worsteds in handsome grays in hair line stripes, pin checks and neat overplaids — homespun crash Norfolks, smart velours and cravenetted mohairs in correct grays and an excellent assortment of new mixtures; yarn dyed worsteds, worsted cheviots, Saxony cassimeres and velours in new grays, browns and tans; blue and black grounds in fancy weaves, silk stripes and silk mixture effects—and blue serges of finest Australian stock. There are more than a dozen two and three button distinctively styled models for men, young men and boys.

27.50 for two and three piece Summer Suits—regularlarly 35.00 and 37.50.

MAYOR PAYS A VISIT TO THE CITY'S POOR

Met with "God Bless Yous!" by the Blind Women and Roses by the Children.

CHEERS FOLK ON ISLANDS

Declares Beer Better Than Vinegar—Praises Band of the Feeble-Minded—Shortcomings He Found.

Mayor Gaynor, as a guest of Commissioner Drummond of the Department of Charities, made a visit of inspection yesterday to the institutions of that department and of the Department of Correction, on Blackwell's Island and Randall's Island. The tour took up the entire afternoon, and before it was over, toward nightfall, the Mayor had spoken to and hobnobbed with more defectives, cripples, feeble-minded persons and prisoners than on any day since he left the bench. Although he would not make more than passing comments on the conditions he saw, he seemed glad that he had undertaken the trip, and announced that he would make similar tours of inspection to study conditions in other departments of the City Government in the near future.

The Mayor, with Lieut. William Kennel, left the City Hall soon after noon, without announcing whither he was bound. He had intended to inspect the Charities and Correction Departments last week, but had to delay his trip on account of the heavy rains. He therefore counted on finding those in charge of the institutions of the department unprepared for his coming. At the Charities Department pier he was met by Commissioner Michael Drummond and his Deputy, Frank J. Goodwin; Commissioner Patrick Whitney of the Department of Correction and his Deputy, William Wright; Dr. John F. Fitzgerald, General Medical Superintendent of the Department of Charities; J. McKee Borden, Secretary of the department; Dr. Walter H. Conley, the Rev. Father John W. Casey, chaplain of the City Home and Metropolitan Hospital on Blackwell's Island; Dr. Beard, the Episcopalian chaplain, and William Flannigan, architect of the Department of Charities. All of them went aboard the Charities Department boat Lowell, which took them to the northern end of Blackwell's Island.

They visited in turn the Workhouse, the female tuberculosis wards, the Metropolitan Hospital, and its nurses' home, the New York City Home for the Aged and Infirm, the penitentiary, and the City Hospital and its nurses' home. Dr. Charles B. Bacon, General Superintendent of the institutions of the Charities Department on the island, met them at the pier.

In passing through the Workhouse the Mayor declared it was much too crowded, three and four women often being lodged in a single cell. This, he said, permitted of evil influence by the more hardened upon the newer inmates, and should be remedied. He deplored a similar condition in the female tuberculosis section of the Metropolitan Hospital, where 750 patients were crowded together, although the building has a normal capacity of only 600. There were 990 patients there last Winter, he was told. Further evidence of the crowded condition of the place was furnished by six one-story frame shacks that had been barracks in the civil war, but now house the servants and some of the attendants at the hospital. Mayor Gaynor expressed surprise also at the overcrowding in the male tuberculosis ward, but found this otherwise in good condition.

"Those beds are well taken care of," he said. "I wouldn't mind sleeping there myself. There is more air space here than in the crowded east side sections of the city."

Outside, in one of the pavilions, he found an old negress taking the sun. He walked up to her and asked her how she was doing. She replied that she was "doing fine, Mr. Mayor." Dr. Conley informed him that she had both tuberculosis and leprosy.

As the party neared the female blind ward, Father Casey announced to the 180 blind women who were on the porch that Mayor Gaynor was present. Immediately all of them rose, crying:

"God bless you, Mayor, and you, Father Casey!"

The Mayor doffed his hat and entered the building. He asked who took care of all the blind women, and was much surprised to learn that there are only two female helpers at $15 a month for the 180 women. He said he would look into that matter and try to have it improved. He also said he would consider the proposition of providing four more keepers for the Workhouse, so that 100 prisoners now unemployed may be set to work building roads on the island.

The Mayor visited the messroom in the Workhouse while the prisoners were at dinner there. He singled out one who had a bottle before him and asked him what drink the bottle contained.

"Vinegar," replied the prisoner.

"You ought to drink beer," said the Mayor. "It's better than vinegar."

He asked another prisoner whether he liked his coffee and whether he took sugar in it. When the prisoner replied that he did both, the Mayor clapped him on the shoulder and said:

"You smile as if you're happy. Many people outside would like to smile and feel half so happy, but can't."

Mayor Gaynor questioned a third prisoner of burly build, who told him he lived in Brooklyn, and had arrived at the Workhouse by way of broken windows.

"I have a mind to take you out," said the Mayor.

"You can't, Mr. Mayor," said the prisoner.

"Yes, I can. We can break out together, you and I, can't we?" replied the Mayor, clapping the man's broad shoulders.

From Blackwell's Island the Mayor and his party proceeded on the Lowell to Randall's Island.

There several hundred crippled or feeble-minded children of the New York City children's hospitals and schools were lined up in brilliant dresses of red, white, and blue, on the green near the river; and on the bank a band of boys played "Hail to the Chief." Mayor Gaynor was informed that the boys were all feeble-minded.

"They beat the bands we have in New York, anyway," he replied. "You can't find a sane band there."

One of the little girls met the Mayor as he approached the lawn, and in a little speech of welcome, which nobody could hear in the din of tug whistles all along the river, presented him with a bouquet of roses. The Mayor thanked her and all the other children. Thereafter a company of thirty feeble-minded boys performed most skillfully difficult military evolutions, which the Mayor applauded enthusiastically. Before he left the island, he passed along a line of several hundred feeble-minded boys and girls, ranged along the river. They cheered him with strong-lunged if feeble-minded hurrahs, to which he doffed his hat repeatedly. One big girl in particular, whose eyes were aimed in opposite directions, nearly shouted herself hoarse with this grinning salute:

"Three cheers for Mr. Baker and Mr. Bingham."

At which, too, the Mayor doffed his hat.

He examined the heads of several boys who were small and cucumber-like as to that extremity, and described by one of the physicians as microcephalic and of other boys with big heads that bulged over their eyes as with a world of thought and care. These, he was told, were hydrocephalic. The doctor added, taking one such head in his hands, that there was no hope for that one.

After a brief refreshment at the home of the Superintendent, Miss Mary Dumphy, the Mayor and his party departed aboard the boat, amid the cheers of all the children, still ranged in holiday array along the bank.

MORE POLICE TRANSFERS.

Four Men Taken from the Chief Inspector's Office by Waldo.

Commissioner Waldo yesterday announced more transfers in the Police Department. The transfers are attributed to the general weeding out following the inauguration of a new executive.

Four men were transferred from the Chief Inspector's office. Among them was Sergt. Buckridge, who has been transferred several times before, always to return. He keeps what is known as the "consolidated sheet" on which is tabulated the time off of every member of the department, and it is possible at any time to see from the sheet just where a policeman is. Other policemen have been tried in the place, but so far no one has been found who can fill it as well as Buckridge.

Three men have been transferred from the Bureau of Information, and it is rumored that Commissioner Waldo will abolish the Telegraph Bureau in connection with the Detective Bureau. This small bureau calls for the services of one Lieutenant, one Sergeant, and six patrolmen. The regular Telegraph Bureau will be continued.

A few men will be transferred from the complaint clerk's office, and some will go from the Pension Bureau. Twenty-two have been retired in the last two days, and others are to follow.

POLICEMAN IS HELD FOR SHOOTING WOMAN

Pistol Went Off Accidentally When He Tossed It Aside, Says Delaney.

BLAMES THREE PLATOONS

Explains That He Was Tired Out and Was Careless—Mrs. Lufborrow Improving.

Patrolman John J. Delaney of the East Twenty-second Street Police Station, a shot from whose pistol on Tuesday afternoon dangerously wounded Mrs. Delia Lufburrow of 148 West Sixty-fourth Street, mother of the girl whom the young patrolman is to wed, was arraigned in the West Side Police Court late yesterday afternoon before Magistrate Freschi and held for examination this morning. He is charged with felonious assault and must answer charges at headquarters for failing to report the shooting immediately after it happened.

The shooting, all witnesses say, was accidental, and was caused by temper, inflamed, according to the policeman's story, by a quarrel with his sweetheart, after being aroused by the irregularities of the new three-platoon system, which had caused him to be on his feet almost continuously for thirty-six hours.

Delaney has for years boarded with the Lufborrow family, and he was to marry Helen, the only daughter, next September. On Monday night he reported at 11 o'clock for duty at his station and patrolled until seven the next day, expecting to have four hours off, followed by eight hours of reserve. Instead he was compelled to do duty in the courtroom of the Grand Jury and did not get home until 4 P. M. on Tuesday. He was scheduled to report for duty again at 11 P. M., and having had no rest he said that he was irritable when he prepared to retire.

Moreover, he had quarreled with Miss Lufburrow, according to his story to Lieut. Sullivan at Headquarters, an dthis, added to his long hours of work, had excited him. Delaney's room adjoins Mrs. Lufburrow's on the fifth floor of the Sixty-fourth Street apartment house, and the door was open when Delaney was talking to his fiancée. His helmet lay in a corner where he had angrily tossed it, and his coat lay crumpled on a chair near the door. With a jerk he drew his pistol from its holster, according to his story and that of his fiancée, and tossed it carelessly in the direction of the chair.

As the pistol hit the chair a shot rang out, and Mrs. Lufburrow, who at that moment appeared in the open doorway, fell to the floor with a bullet in her side. Her daughter ran across the hall and knocked at the door of Mrs. Newland's apartment, crying for some one to summon a doctor, as her mother had been shot. Delaney remained to minister to Mrs. Lufburrow.

When Dr. D. B. Allen of 150 West Sixty-fourth Street arrived with Mrs. Newland he found Mrs. Lufburrow unconscious and on the bed, with Delaney bending over her trying in vain to stop the flow of blood. Dr. Allen sent the policeman from the room, but the latter returned in a few minutes with Dr. Byrne of 23 West Sixty-fifth Street. The two doctors succeeded in restoring the woman to consciousness.

Inspector Russell, hearing of the serious condition of the woman who was reported to have been accidentally shot, ordered Delaney's arrest.

Mrs. Lufburrow's cndition grew worse and she was taken to the Harlem Hospital in a taxicab by Dr. Donnelly, an interne, who is a relative. Yesterday afternoon her condition was so much improved that she was confronted by Delaney, whom she identified. She told a similar story of the shooting to Supt. O'Neil, and expressed no enmity towards Delaney. It was said at the hospital that the bullet had entered her left thigh and had turned upward toward the stomach, and that no operation would be performed for some time. Although dangerously wounded the doctors said she would probably recover.

Lieut. William Jones, a pistol expert of the Detective Bureau, whom Inspector Russell detailed to investigate the case, said that Delaney carried his revolver with the hammer down instead of half-cock. He said that when thrown the pistol had struck the doorjamb, and that he considered this explanation of its discharge very plausible. Moreover, he said a piece of the jamb had been chipped by the flying revolver, indicating the truth of the patrolman's story.

Delaney has been six years on the police force and has never had a charge preferred against him. When arraigned he appeared calm, but his eyes indicated physical exhaustion. He refused to make any statement.

Unveil Tablet to Betsy Ross.

PHILADELPHIA, June 14.—The principal exercises in observance of Flag Day was the unveiling of a tablet in memory of Betsy Ross, maker of the first American flag, by the Flag House Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The tablet was unveiled by Donaldson Beale Cooper, great-great-great-grandnephew of Betsy Ross.

STOCK EXCHANGE LISTINGS.

The following issues were ordered listed by the governors of the Stock Exchange yesterday:

Additional general mortgage bonds of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company, on which interest has been increased from 3½ to 4 per cent., to the amount of $7,500,000, making a total to be listed of $30,271,000 3½ per cents. and $22,500,000 4 per cents.

American Cotton Oil Company 5 per cent. twenty-year gold debenture bonds to the amount of $5,000,000 out of a total authorized issue of $15,000,000, in exchange for interim certificates outstanding.

Additional 6 per cent. convertible debenture bonds of the Kings County Electric Light and Power Company, to the amount of $1,299,000, and to the further amount of $201,000, to be issued from time to time, making the total $4,000,000 of an authorized issue of $5,000,000.

GAVE MRS. FORD $22,000.

Cooke Told Her It Came from the Big Four, Says Woman Witness.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 14.—The trial of Edgar S. Cooke on the charge of embezzlement from the Big Four Railway, for which he was once a bookkeeper, dragged somewhat to-day because of numerous objections made by Charles W. Baker, Cooke's attorney, to questions put to Charles L. Warriner by the prosecution in redirect examination.

The big moment of the trial came when Mrs. Ford was called to the stand following Warriner. Before she had testified more than a few moments she startled the courtroom by declaring that Cooke had given her $22,000 in cash. The money, Mrs. Ford testified, was in packages.

"Cooke would visit me at my flat two or three times a week," she said. "Each time he would come he brought packages which I concealed in a trunk. Later I went to New York, engaged a safety-deposit box, and put the packages in it.

"Cooke and I went to New York in September, 1901. We went to the safety deposit vaults and opened the packages and counted the money. It came to $22,000, all in $10, $20, $50, and $100 bills."

"While you were in New York did you have any talk as to where this money came from?" she was asked.

"Yes, from the Big Four," was the reply. "Cooke explained how and why he got it. He said other men were getting it, and that when they let him out he would just help himself."

Charles L. Warriner, a former official of the road, now serving six years for defalcation, to-day resisted successfully attempts by attorneys for the defense to lead him into an exposure of "men higher up." He denied that there were any such men; that he had pleaded guilty and accepted a prison sentence at the behest of Big Four officials, or that he had ever, as an officer of the road, paid out money for illegal rebates. Warriner was then dismissed and led back to the county jail.

MEN'S SUMMER SUITS

Something Saved to put in the Pockets.

Men like their coat collars to fit snug round the neck.
Men like their trouser legs to fall in symmetrical lines.
Men like their clothes to be all-wool.
Men like their suits to be THE STYLE.

That's why men like clothes at Macy's.

Quite a relief to them to come to the store where they can get exactly what they set out to get without having to pay higher prices for the "privilege."

That comes of showing them a wide assortment.

They couldn't fail to find a suit that is THE Suit.

Of course, if alteration is necessary, we make it. Just like the custom tailor.

We don't let that man go away unless his suit fits.

Wouldn't do us any good for a man to be walking about with a Macy suit that wasn't all that a good suit should be.

Passing of the Corner Bond Printer

EVERY investor has a right to know who engraved the securities he is asked to buy. He should not be content with less than the highest margin of safety which modern manufacturing facilities can give.

The time is passing when the corner stationer can print securities on stock forms with no responsibility and without investigation.

Every one concedes that the work of engraving and printing bonds and stocks should be confined to concerns with Known responsibility and ample equipment.

The American Bank Note Company provides the highest margin of manufacturing safety.

It invites no risk by farming out any part of an order. It minimizes the danger of unauthorized duplication by inspection and records of great accuracy.

It handles the small order with the same fidelity as the big one. It has the men and machinery to deliver the biggest order at the time agreed upon.

WORK UNDER COVER FOR RACING BILLS

Tammany Legislators Hope to Pass Them Before Public Antagonism Is Aroused.

DEAL ON WITH REPUBLICANS

"Old Guard" Ready to Take the Places of Democratic Insurgents—Would Help Restore Betting.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 14.—Less is heard regarding the two Gittins bills introduced at the behest of the race track interests with a view of weakening the statutes now in force against race track gambling than regarding any other measures of equal importance now pending before the Legislature. This is in strict accord with the wishes of those who advocate this legislation at the Capitol and elsewhere.

They fear that publicity at this time would result in another moral uprising throughout the State such as that which compelled the enactment of laws, placing race tracks within the constitutional prohibition against gambling in the second year of the first Hughes administration and supplementary legislation of last year. But beneath the calm surface there has been no end of activity on the part of agents for the bookmakers and the race track interests to promote the two bills. These activities have not been fruitless. The two Gittins bills now occupy an advantageous position on the general orders calender in the Senate, and there is every prospect that they will be passed in the upper house.

While the Tammany element which dominates the majority both in the Senate and Assembly is heartily in favor of the proposed emasculation of the anti-race track gambling law, no attempt will be made to make party measures out of the two Gittins bills. Tammany Leader Murphy, who is the de facto head of the Democratic State organization, is anxious that a Democratic majority shall be returned in the Assembly elections this Fall and is not willing to endanger that prospect by having the Democratic organization assume responsibility for the passage of measures which may form an entering wedge toward the resumption of open gambling at the race tracks. He is aware that this would be eagerly seized upon by the opposition as a welcome issue in the campaign.

Bi-Partisan Deal On.

But either as the result of some subsurface deal akin to the bi-partisan combine which was in vogue during the two Hughes Administrations or for other reasons, there will be a division on the Republican side in both houses at a time when Republican lawmakers of the independent type are a unit in declaring that there is political capital ready at hand for the Republican organization in presenting a united front to the proposed legislation breaking down the restrictions against race track gambling.

In the Senate at least half a dozen Republican members are telling their friends that they will support the Gittins bills, and there are Republicans in the Assembly who will follow suit. Republican State Chairman William Barnes, Jr., is known to favor the proposed legislation.

The two bills—one of which does away with the present provision in the law holding owners and Directors of race courses responsible for any gambling carried on at their respective tracks, regardless of whether it is with their knowledge and consent or not, and the other, which defines bookmaking as "publishing odds and accepting wagers from all comers"—were reached on the Senate calendar late in the afternoon session.

Senator Gittins of Niagara, who introduced the bills, moved that they be advanced to third reading. Senator Josiah T. Newcomb of New York (Ind. Rep.) objected. The bills were immediately laid aside and now cannot come up until next week.

Wagner in a Tight Place.

It is expected that Senator Thomas F. Grady, as in the past, will lead the fight for the race track bills in the Senate. In connection with this it developed to-day that there may be a most notable dissenter against their passage within the Tammany ranks in the person of President Pro Tem Robert F. Wagner of the Senate.

Senator Wagner just now is said to be in grave doubt regarding his future course. While, naturally, he is anxious to vote with his Tammany brethren on measures the passage of which would be so pleasing to interests which always have been exceedingly close and useful to Tammany Hall, he has never forgotten that he owed his first election to the Senate three years ago to the sentiment aroused in his district against his predecessor's action in voting against the Hughes race track reforms in violation of a pledge made to Senator Agnew, who introduced them.

There are twenty-nine Democratic Senators—a majority of four. Should Senator Wagner vote against the Gittins bills this majority would be wiped out in all probability, for Senators Franklin D. Roosevelt of Dutchess, Howard R. Bayne of Richmond, and George B. Burd of Erie, all Democrats, will vote against them, too, if they follow present inclinations.

To make up for this Democratic defection, the advocates of the bill expect to receive the votes of the following Republicans: Senators Edgar Truman Brackett of Saratoga, leader of the Senate minority; Henry A. Sage of Albany, James A. Emerson of Warren, Herbert P. Coats of Franklin, Frank C. Platt of Steuben, and George F. Argetsinger and William L. Ormrod of Monroe. Senator J. Henry Walters of Onondaga, on whom they had counted, will in all probability vote against the Gittins bills.

Majority Leader Alfred E. Smith of the Assembly said to-day that in the lower house the bills would have to stand or fall on their merits solely. It is known that a number of the up-State Democrats, in deference to sentiment at home, will vote against them, and every indication points to a division among the Democrats from New York City as well. Assemblyman Edmund R. Terry, a Brooklyn Democrat, for instance, told THE TIMES correspondent to-day that he would vote against the bills.

The Republican Assemblymen from New York City, it is expected, will vote as a unit against the Gittins bill, the only possible exception being Assemblyman Frederick M. Ahern of Kings County. The Republican support in the Assembly will come chiefly from a handful of members of the "Old Guard." Minority Leader Merritt said he would vote for the bill amending the Directors' liability law, but against the bill defining bookmaking.

The opponents of the bills place their chief reliance in Gov. Dix, who has promised a hearing on the bills before he acts, should they go through in both houses. Gov. Dix, according to his friends, while he does not believe that any great moral purpose to make up for the loss to the race track interests was served by the enactment of the Hughes race track reforms, may be depended on to take no action which would run counter to an aroused sentiment throughout the State.

Senator Gittins told THE TIMES correspondent that he was ready to meet all comers in open debate regarding the merits of the bills.

FELL BEFORE ELEVATED TRAIN

Mortally Hurt, Though Wheels Missed Him—Another Falls in Subway.

Just as a northbound Second Avenue elevated train was rolling into the station at 117th Street last night John Murphy, the switchman there, saw one of the men on the platform double up as if in sudden pain and roll over screaming. Before anyone could reach him he rolled off the platform directly in the path of the incoming train. Though Motorman Edward O'Neil applied the brakes, the train passed over him.

O'Neil and Murphy jumped to the tracks and peered under the cars. Under the second they could see the injured man lying in the middle of the track, just clear of the car wheels. For fear of the third rail, both were unwilling to crawl under the cars to get the man out.

Policeman Ruth, whom they called to the station by sounding the siren train whistle, disregarded the third rail. He crawled under the cars and dragged the injured man out.

Although the wheels missed him, the man was badly injured about the head and chest, where the motor box and fittings under the car had struck him. He could only stammer his name, Abraham Altman, and then became unconscious. At the Harlem Hospital it was found he had many scalp wounds, a fractured right arm, possible internal injuries, and that he would probably die.

Louis Carzergues, a teacher of languages, who lives at 171 West Ninety-ninth Street, was pacing the platform of the Brooklyn Bridge Subway station in the rush hour late yesterday afternoon when he was seized by an old heart trouble, and, reeling, he toppled over and fell, stretched across the tracks, as an express train was pulling into the station.

Sickened at what they saw, several women fainted, and others covered their eyes and struggled toward the steps to get out into the air. Others, men and women, sent up such a chorus of mingled horror and warning, that the motorman applied his brakes in time to bring his train to a stop within a few inches of the prostrate man.

Mr. Carzergues was carried unconscious to the Hudson Street Hospital, where the doctors found that the fall had given him several contusions of the head.

BROAD STRIKE INJUNCTION.

Offering of Money to Workers Forbidden in Jersey City Case.

If any of the striking machinists formerly in the employ of the Standard Motor Construction Company shall offer money to the men who are taking their places at the works, or shall offer to give them transportation expenses, or try to coerce them into leaving the place, by either threat or inducement, they shall be liable to contempt of Court, according to a decision handed down to-day by Vice Chancellor Stevenson.

The decision restrains the strikers from loitering about the plant, but the Vice Chancellor refused to restrain the men from entering the works, as there was no evidence that they had attempted any violence to the new men or had interferred with their work.

The motion for the injunction was made by Charles D. Thompson on behalf of the officials of the Standard Motor Construction Company.

BEGINS QUARANTINE INQUIRY

Ex-State Prosecutor Bulger to Open an Office Here—Sees Dr. Doty To-day.

Ex-Deputy Attorney General Charles N. Bulger of Oswego, who has been appointed by Gov. Dix to investigate conditions at the Quarantine Station under Health Officer Doty, commenced work yesterday by a visit to the State Controller's office, where he examined some of the vouchers sent in by Dr. Doty with his annual report.

To a TIMES reporter last night Mr. Bulger said he intended to open an office in the Knickerbocker Hotel, where there would always be some one to receive callers who had any information to give in regard to the Quarantine Station. He said he hoped that citizens who could throw any light upon the matter would give their assistance. He added:

"Gov. Dix asked me to come here and clean up the situation and thoroughly to investigate all the circumstances and ascertain the truth regarding reports which have been made. If there are any charges of a serious character they will be heard at a public hearing, when witnesses will testify on oath. Everything will be done openly and above board in this investigation. There will be no dark-lantern work.

YACHTSMEN RETURN AFTER CUBAN WRECK

Commodore Benedict and His Friends Tell of Disaster That Ended Their Trip.

UP AMAZON 1,000 MILES

Enthusiastically Received Everywhere in Brazil—Hear the Virginia Was Floated on Their Arrival.

The story of a trip a thousand miles up the Amazon, ended on May 28, when his chartered yacht Virginia went ashore on Colorado Reef, eighty-five miles from Havana, was told yesterday by Commodore E. C. Benedict and his guests, who arrived from Cuba on the Ward liner Saratoga. As the liner was entering port Mr. Benedict received word by wireless that the Virginia had been floated.

Smiling and sun tanned were Commodore Benedict and his guests when they landed after what they agreed was a most pleasant shipwreck. Commodore Benedict was at the rail, and when the Saratoga reached Quarantine yesterday morning he saw his yacht Oneida lying not far away with launch lowered to take him on board. His guests, James McCutcheon, Colgate Hoyt, Henry Robinson, Dr. F. M. Smith, Hasell Howells, Harry Rowe Shelley, and Edward Beers, had to remain on the liner until it reached its pier.

Commodore Benedict's yacht took him first to the Ward Line pier, where he was detained some time looking after personal effects saved from the yacht. From the pier he was taken to the New York Yacht Club yacht landing at the foot of East Twenty-third Street. He was welcomed on the Oneida by Commodore Frank Hastings, and awaiting him on the landing were Mrs. Clifford B. Harmon, his daughter; Mr. Harmon, Mrs. Ramsey Turnbull, another daughter, and Miss Turnbull. After a few minutes on the pier the party got into a launch and boarded the Oneida, which started at once for Greenwich.

The grounding of the yacht on Colorado Reef ended one of the interesting yacht trips in which Commodore Benedict delights. The stranding of the yacht, Mr. Benedict said, was a new experience, and a very delightful one. He said that Capt. Bond of the Virginia was standing by his craft, and he preferred that the Captain tell the story of striking the reef.

The trip up the Amazon, however, was the most interesting feature of the jaunt. As mementos of that trip Mr. Hoyt brought back two monkeys and a parrot, Mr. Beers had a yellow-haired monkey, a marmoset, and a large green parrot. The marmoset is named Violet. The others are unnamed.

Dr. Smith said that they had a great reception when they got to Manoas, where the Commodore and his guests were entertained by the local Chamber of Commerce. On his last trip to Manoas Commodore Benedict presented a gold trophy to be rowed for annually. This contest was one of the features of the visit. It was pretty warm, said the doctor, especially as the Commodore and his party had to go on shore in high hats and frock coats.

"We had a splendid time," said Dr. Smith. "We made a side cruise 110 miles up the Topajos, a tributary to Itatuba. We followed pretty much the course of the trip six years ago, except that we went further up the river. Ours was about the largest ship that ever visited Itatuba. Everywhere we received the kindest treatment and the most enthusiastic welcomes awaited us."

Among the strange sights reported by the party were snakes that attacked cows, and fish which, after overcoming its foes, cut them to pieces with a sort of cleaver under its stomach before devouring them. Commodore Benedict smiled when he heard this story, but would not confirm it. He did, however, confirm the story of the hearty welcome given the yachtsmen at the cities they visited and the plantations inspected along the river.

BEARS BREAK UP MEETING.

Pittsburg's New Council Driven Out by One Member's Joke.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., June 14.—Two black cub bears broke up the first official meeting of Pittsburg's new Council of Nine. They escaped from a box in the corridor of City Hall, drove the Councilmen to the street, and took possession of the Council Chamber.

Dr. J. H. Kerr, one of the Councilmen, intended to present the bears to Highland Park Zoological Garden.

As a joke the bears were delivered at the City Hall this afternoon just previous to the meeting. The bears escaped from the box, and just as the Councilmen were taking up business there was a scratch at the door. One of them opened it, and in walked the two bears. They made for the Councilman, who ran to the street and eight Councilmen followed him.

The bears finally went to sleep upon the President's desk. A rope was thrown over their heads and they were again caged.

A RAILWAY MASTERPIECE

IN the remarkable short period of three years and by the accomplishment of many amazing engineering feats, the fifth great transcontinental railway was built. It is the masterstroke of railway construction—the shortest line between Chicago and the Puget Sound. It has opened a vast new empire to American enterprise—millions of acres of the richest territory to the settler, and a new wonderland of scenic grandeur to the tourist.

FAULTS BIDDERS FIND IN SUBWAY REPORT

Interborough and B. R. T. Exceptions May Open Up Negotiations and Cause More Delay.

SEVERAL POINTS IN DISPUTE

Chiefly B. R. T. Objects to Five-Cent Coney Fare and Interborough to "Cost Per Passenger" as Basis of Expenses.

The prospect either of amendments or of the resumption of negotiations with one or both of the competing subway bidders opened up yesterday ahead of the McAneny report, which will come before the Board of Estimate next Wednesday for action. Saturday morning there will be a conference of the members of the Board of Estimate at which objections entertained by some of them will be considered. It is certain, however, that unless modifications are there agreed upon amendments to the report will be offered when the time arrives for final action.

These amendments, there is reason to believe, will concern largely two sections of the report, one of the parenthetical clause in the operating section which provides that operating expenses shall be determined on a "cost per passenger basis" or other basis equally acceptable to the city. Enough became known yesterday to indicate that the Interborough will not accept this basis for its extensions without suggesting a modification which would open up this subject, and, as the question involved is one of the most technical in the report, it is considered unlikely by members of the Board of Estimate, who are anxious for a speedy determination, that the difference could be thrashed out without considerable delay.

On the side of the B. R. T., although no official statement was forthcoming, the company's displeasure at the Coney Island five-cent fare requirement to the extent of a definite refusal to grant such a condition became known from authoritative sources. At the same time the fact came out that the Coney Island five-cent fare was a subject of controversy during the conferences of the past Winter and Spring; it was suggested twice and the refusal of the company noted, but down to the time the conferences with the Publice Service Commission and the McAneny Committee of the Board of Estimate closed the five-cent fare was never considered at length or in a manner which led the representatives of the Brooklyn company to believe it was one which the city's negotiators laid stress upon.

Matters Shaping for Delay.

Since the Public Service Commission and the McAneny Committee reached their announced agreement on the terms underlying the report, a week ago Monday night, the fact has become known that the Coney Island five-cent fare discussion was revived by members of the transit conference who had previously been favoring the Interborough offer, after the sessions with the representatives of the Brooklyn company were over. Officials of the B. R. T. discovered this circumstance and coupled it with the offer of President Shonts of the Interborough through the editor of an evening newspaper last week to waive the guarantee which the company sought previously on the operation of extensions to Coney Island.

The B. R. T. officials have concluded that the injection of the Coney Island fare into the report reflects an effort on the part of certain interests to obtain in the general compromise for which Chairman McAneny of the Board of Estimate Committee was working, conditions which the Brooklyn company would find it necessary to reject, and thereby bring about the elimination of that company from the situation. The position of Mr. McAneny was understood to be that the refusal of the B. R. T. to grant this lower fare will be thrashed out in the Board of Estimate or else referred back to the board's Conference Committee for further negotiation. In such an event the prediction was made yesterday that the Interborough's probable proposal of an operating basis "just as good" as the per passenger basis and the B. R. T.'s arguments on the Coney Island five-cent fare would materially delay the final determination of the subway matter.

Another Item in Dispute.

In the desire to obviate such delay amendments to the report were taken up for consideration yesterday by members of the Board of Estimate, and will probably be discussed at the conference on Saturday and presented to the meeting the following Wednesday, with or without the agreement of Mr. McAneny. It has become known that the city's conferrees in drawing the report admit that the section relating to the proposed exchange of leases by the Interborough below Forty-second Street contemplates such an indefinite contingency if the city undertakes to acquire at the end of ten years as to be practically of no effect whatever.

The report provides that the Interborough shall now agree that at the end of ten years it would trade its franchises, subject to an appraisal of value and an adjustment between the city and the company. No terms, however, are laid down for this appraisal, and it is, therefore, contended that on that point alone indefinite delay might occur, were the company disposed to agree with the city, while in the necessity of legislation at this future time would still further militate against the effective exercise by the city of its apparent rights under this section of the contract. An effort will undoubtedly be made to get a more definite provision into the report on this point.

The Interborough had no statement to make yesterday, but word that came from the offices of the company unofficially was that the Directors were still angry about the city's insistence on the admission of the B. R. T. to Broadway, and were disposed to fight rather than concede that point. On the other hand, the Brooklyn company, in addition to its grievance over the Coney Island fare, entertains, it is learned, objection to a provision of the roport requiring the company to construct with its own funds an extension from its Brighton Beach line to the Fourth Avenue Subway and then arranging the recapture provisions of the report, so that the city after ten years could take over the Fourth Avenue subway by paying the then value of the equipment and leave this Brighton Beach connection a valueless line, incapable of operation.

Still More Objections.

As to the Coney Island fare itself, officials of the Brooklyn company base their objection on the fact that the company in accepting a fixed return on its present elevated lines, surrenders its prospects of increasing profit on those lines, and then has as its only hope of future profit the division with the city on the net profits of the whole extended system. The new capital provided both for the extension of the present lines of the B. R. T. and for the equipment of the enlarged system receives only its interest and sinking fund until the city's capital is self-sustaining and a balance of net profits appears. Under these condtiions, the officers of the B. R. T. contend, to saddle the enlarged system with deficits which the Public Service Commission itself has found to be inherent in a 5-cent fare to Coney Island, amounts to an invitation to the B. R. T. to withdraw its offer on the ground of the improbability that any profit would be devisable on the enlarged subway and elevated system.

What seems to irritate the officers of that company further is that the city in the case of the Manhattan Elevated lines, which the Interborough proposes to extend and third track with its own money, allows the company to retain the present earnings—a sum equivalent to approximately 9 per cent. on the stock—and then participate in all future increases of earnings half and half with the city and without any merging of these lines in a general pool for the purposes of operation. This, it is contended, amounts to discrimination against the Brooklyn company, which its officers assert gives them still further justification for refusing to grant the Coney Island 5-cent fare.

The Triborough the Alternative.

Representatives of the city nearly all explained yesterday that they were engaged studying the report, and would not have anything to say until such examinations had been concluded. Chairman Willcox of the Public Service Commission issued a statement in which he said that the recommendations of the report were "clear and definite, and if accepted by the Board of Estimate the delay in subway building can be considered at an end." He rehearsed the history of the subway negotiations, and then continued:

"If the conclusions of the report meet with the approval of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, it will then be possible to come to a definite understanding with the companies along the line of the recommendations of the conferree, unless these recommendations prove to be unacceptable to the companies, and in that event, contracts for the building of the triborough route can at once be awarded. The Board of Estimate has entire control over the appropriations of city money, and as no plan has been before the conferrees for consideration which does not call for city expenditure, it is manifest that no progress can be made until it is known what course will be favored by that body."

SUBWAY COST, OLD AND NEW.

Comparisons Show an Increase of 29.8 Per Cent. for Construction Now.

An examination of the appendix of the McAneny subway report relating to the cost of the proposed subway construction makes possible now for the first time an approximate comparison of the increase in the cost of subway building between the time when the existing subway was constructed and the present. Absolute comparisons of cost are impossible, according to the explanation made yesterday by Chairman Willcox and Chief Engineer Craven of the Public Service Commission. The difference in the size of tube and the difference in methods of construction as well as differences in physical characteristics all serve to render inexact any comparison of the figures.

However, the records of the Public Service Commission show that the present Subway from the Battery to Ninety-sixth Street, with one branch leading to Dyckman Street and the other branch leading to 149th Street in the Bronx, has cost $43,673,275, including expenditures of $1,150,000 and $450,000 respectively for the lengthening of the platforms and the construction of extra exits. Inasmuch as the new subways are to be built with the long platforms and ample exits, Engineer Craven considers it proper to take the gross cost as a basis of comparison. This subway consists of 1.2 miles of two-track road from the Battery to City Hall, 6.3 miles of four-track road from City Hall to Ninety-sixth Street, 2.05 miles of three-track road from Ninety-sixth Street to 145th Street and Broadway, 2.69 miles of two-track road from 145th Street to Dyckman Street, and 4.04 miles of two-track road from Ninety-sixth Street to 149th Street in the Bronx.

All Figured Out.

This figures out to 16.87 miles of general construction, or 47 miles of single-track subway. It does not include track, ballast, and station finish, which is a part of the equipment of the present Subway. The figures on the proposed new subway do include these expenditures, which are assumed by the engineers to be about $20,000 a mile of single track. The nearest comparison physically with the links of the present Subway above enumerated is obtained by taking the estimates of the cost of the proposed Interborough extensions up Lexington Avenue from Thirty-fifth Street to 135th Street, and down Seventh Avenue from Times Square through Seventh Avenue, Varick Street, and West Broadway to the Battery.

The Lexington Avenue leg has 5.1 miles of four-track subway, which would be 20.4 miles of single track, and the Seventh Avenue leg has 4 miles of four-track subway, which would be sixteen miles of single track. The Lexington Avenue leg, like the Bronx branch of the existing subway, includes a tunnel under the Harlem River, although this tunnel has two tracks in the present subway and four tracks as proposed for the Interborough extension.

The estimated cost of 20.4 miles of single track in the Lexington Avenue leg, including the tunnel, is $27,700,000, and the estimated cost of sixteen miles of single track in the Seventh Avenue leg is $21,000,000, making a total of $48,700,000 for the two legs. This latter figure, however, includes an estimate of 10 per cent. for the carrying charges during construction, which is not included in the figures stated for the existing Interborough subway, and must be taken out in any comparison. Deducting, therefore, the 10 per cent. makes a net cost of $43,830,000 for 36.4 miles of single track subway.

Making the Comparison.

This figures to a basis of $1,205,000 a mile, as against $929,200 a mile for the existing subway within the limits described. An increase of cost amounting to 29.9 per cent. is indicated, and a flat increase of $276,800 a mile. Projecting such an increased cost over an additional mileage, equivalent to the balance of the forty-seven miles of existing subway, and a total cost of $56,635,000 would appear if the system from the Battery to Ninety-sixth Street, with branches to Dyckman Street and 149th Street, in the Bronx, were built at present figures.

The engineers will not undertake to state exactly, or even approximately, the elements of increased cost. The cost of labor is recognized as very important, and also the cost incident to the size of the tunnel, which is increased in all the present estimates over the size of the existing Interborough tunnel. The latter was found to leave so little head room that the ties and ballast had to be cut down below the amount generally required on railroads to allow for the operation of trains. The cost of material, according to the engineers, has decreased in the aggregate since the first subway was built. Of the three important materials, steel, cement, and lumber, lumber alone has increased, while steel and cement have both gone down in price.

What is probably the largest increase element of cost, however, is in that the new tunnels will have to be built without disturbing the surface of the streets, whereas the existing Interborough Subway was built on the cut and cover principle. This runs into very large figures, but just how large, according to Mr. Craven, no engineer could tell.

Cost Varies in Districts.

The wide variation in figures appears from the comparison of some of the different estimates in the committee's report itself. It has already been noted that sixteen miles of single track in Seventh Avenue were to cost $21,000,000, or about $1,310,000 a mile. In Broadway, according to the Brooklyn Rapid Transit's figures as revised by the McAneny committee, 17.2 miles of single track from the Battery to Fifty-ninth Street are to cost $30,700,000, or $1,780,000 a mile, less 10 per cent. for carrying charges during construction. Two miles of proposed new subway in Spring Street and Nassau Street single track are scheduled to cost $4,000,000, or $2,000,000 a mile. On the Fourth Avenue Subway, in Brooklyn, however, 22.8 miles are costing as a matter of actual construction $20,000,000, or $877,000 a mile, while on Flatbush Avenue and Eastern Parkway, in Brooklyn, 12.8 miles of subway are to cost $10,500,000, or $780,000 a mile.

Heavy as some of these construction costs appear, the McAneny committee and the Public Service Commission believe that the future traffic will warrant them, and that running the Broadway line through the heart of what the Interborough has heretofore considered "its territory" will not make the Interborough's extended lines unprofitable. On this point the report of the McAneny committee says:

"It has been urged that the linking of the Brooklyn system with the projected Broadway line—upon which the plan for the broader relief of Brooklyn depends absolutely—would result in a reduction of the present revenues of the Interborough Company to a point that would forbid the carrying of its own proposed new lines. We believe, however, that fears of this sort are without basis. The conferrees have accepted throughout their consideration of the matters before them estimates of future traffic prepared, from every available source, by the statisticians of the Public Service Commission.

The Increase in Traffic.

"The figures of the past show that street railway traffic generally in New York City increases in the ratio of the square of the increase in population. Even if future growth falls beneath this rate, it is certain, at least, to increase at a rate not less than double the rate of increase of population—provided, of course, that additional rapid transit facilities are available. The rate of increase in the current decade (1910-1920) has been estimated variously from 38.7 per cent. (the rate in 1900-1910) to 45 per cent. No one has estimated it at less than 35 per cent.

"With these conservative figures as a basis, it is assumed that the traffic of the next ten years will increase not less than 70 per cent., which would mean that the traffic of 1920 would give the rapid transit lines 1,000,000,000 additional five-cent fares annually. The experience of the Manhattan surface lines, as shown in the tables bearing upon this point, indicates that practically all of this increase is likely to accrue to the new lines. This would mean an advance, at the end of ten years, of at least $50,000,000 annually in the gross receipts; indicating the ability of the traffic of ten years hence to carry an investment of $300,000,000 over the investment in the present rapid transit lines.

"The Interborough Company's earnings upon its investment in the present Subway are between 17 and 18 per cent. The figures of the Public Service Commission indicate that, although the percentage of profit on all the old lines must, of necessity, fall temporarily within the first years of operation of the new, the margin remaining to the Interborough Company would be ample to carry its present investment."

SUBWAY FINANCING UNCHANGED

Bankers Say Compromise Plan Doesn't Disturb Construction Work Funds.

That the compromise award of new subway routes recommended by the McAneny Committee's report would not disturb any tentative financing plans arranged by either the Interborough or B. R. T. was the opinion of bankers who have been prepared to advance the necessary funds for construction to the successful bidder. If the proposed division of territory is acceptable to the companies it is believed they will have no difficulty in financing the construction work.

It was estimated by the committee that the Brooklyn company would be called upon for a total of $50,400,000 for construction and equipment, and the Interborough for $75,800,000.

A "Morgan" syndicate composed of the First National Bank, the National City Bank, J. P. Morgan & Co., and perhaps others, has been prepared to advance any sums necessary to make good the Interborough's bid, while Anthony N. Brady and the Central Trust Company are understood to have given President Williams of the B. R. T. assurance that whatever sums are needed to enable the company to enter the subway field will be forthcoming as required.

A representative banker, familiar with the negotiations, said that the Interborough could raise its money now on the same terms as it would have been offered had it received all of the lines asked for, and that the compromise decision had not disturbed the bankers.

"When the company has decided what financial results will follow an acceptance of the committee's award they will submit the figures to us," he said. "If in our opinion they have made out a case the money will be furnished. It is a matter for the engineers to pass on rather than the bankers."

Both of the traction companies will confer with the banking interests and reach an understanding with them before committing themselves to the construction of any new lines, so that if they accept the city's proposals there will ensue no delay while the financing details are being arranged. The present conditions of easy money and a good bond market would, it is said, facilitate financing measures undertaken at this time.

OPINIONS ON THE REPORT.

Mr. Steers Thinks "It Looks Good" —Mr. Pounds Enthusiastic.

Borough President Steers of Brooklyn yesterday declined to discuss the McAneny subway report, saying that he would wait until the people of the borough had a chance to digest it.

"I will then know how best to vote for them in the Board of Estimate," he said. "The report, however, as a whole looks good."

Lewis H. Pounds, Commissioner of Public Works in Brooklyn, was enthusiastic over the report.

"That subway report is the greatest document on transit matters New York or any other city ever has had for its consideration," he said. "It is a magnificent report, and the conferrees are to be congratulated for their painstaking efforts in preparing so comprehensive, complete, and conservative a statement. They have gone to the very bottom of all phases of the question, and have shown careful regard for the best interests of the entire city. While I have not had time, as yet, to study the report thoroughly, I think it is an excellent one so far as Brooklyn is concerned."

SHRINERS PLAN OWN HOME.

Mecca Temple May Put Up a 25-Story Building Near Times Square.

Plans are being considered for the erection in Broadway, near Times Square, of a twenty-five-story building, to be the headquarters of Mecca Temple, the largest and oldest lodge of the Mystic Shrine. The 7,200 members have been meeting for many years in the concert hall of Madison Square Garden, but the recent sale of that structure, with its impending demolition on or before Feb. 1, next, caused them to hunt for a new home.

The Broadway plot for which negotiations are pending is the northeast corner of Broadway and Thirty-seventh Street, owned by the Garret A. Hobart estate. It has a frontage of 130 feet on Broadway and 150 feet on Thirty-seventh Street and is now occupied by eleven old buildings. The plan is to lease this corner for eighty-four years and erect an office building, of which one or more floors will be fitted up for the use of Mecca Temple. Tentative plans have been prepared for the structure, which it is estimated will cost about $2,500,000.

Besides this site, three others are being considered by a committee appointed by William J. Matthews, Grand Potentate of the Temple. These are in 125th Street, west of Lenox Avenue, in Sixty-seventh Street, east of Third Avenue, and a large plot in the Bronx. All of these are under option to purchase. It is expected that a decision will be made at a special meeting of the committee on June 26.

1,400 SMALL WATER CENSORS

School Principal Celebrates Flag Day by Appointing All Her Charges.

Flag day was celebrated in the public schools. In No. 79, at Lexington Avenue and Sixty-eighth Street, Principal Mary A. Magovern varied the programme by reciting the details of the threatened water famine and cautioned all against the willful waste of water. In the end she had raised so much enthusiasm by her appointment of each of the 1,400 pupils in her school as individual water monitor or censor that the applause interrupted the exercises for several minutes.

"Water is as necessary to human beings as it is to the fish," said Miss Magovern. "The fish live in it and we live by it, and we don't fully appreciate it; but we will if this threatened water famine comes to pass.

"Now, there is a way we may all aid the city in preventing a waste of water. If we each look after our own hydrants, see that they are turned off after using, and also keep an eye on our neighborhood, we may do a world of good in curtailing the waste.

"I think it an excellent idea to appoint each of you a monitor, or censor, and charge you to look sharply toward your assignment, just as much as if you were paid for it."

ASK RECEIVERS FOR UNITED WIRELESS

Corporation Declared to be Practically Officerless Since Recent Convictions.

ASSETS MAY BE SALVED

Petitions Presented in Both Federal and State Courts—Opposed by Certain Stockholders in Latter.

An application was made yesterday in the United States Circuit Court for the appointment of a receiver for the United Wireless Telegraph Company. The State of Maine has already taken this action, as far as it own jurisdiction is concerned, and Supreme Court Justice Cohalan heard argument in a motion yesterday for like action on the part of this State.

In the Federal Courts yesterday the complainants were Haskins & Sells, the accountant firm; Howard S. Gans, the lawyer, and the Corporation Trust Company. They alleged that the company is insolvent and owes about $65,000, all of which, with the exception of $18,500 in the form of mortgages, is overdue. The rent of the offices of the concern at 42 Broadway, amounting to $7,807, has not been paid. The defendant company, it was alleged, has at present only $100 cash on hand.

The creditors asserted that the assets of the United Wireless Telegraph Company at a fair vaulation are more than enough to pay off its indebtedness, but that if there was a forced sale they would bring only a nominal amount. Independently of its patents and patent rights and an income of about $25,000 from steamships, its assets are at least worth $1,010,500. They include factory equipment and material in Jersey City worth $65,000, real estate in Jersey City worth $8,000, factory equipment and material at Seattle, $15,000; real estate in Seattle, $22,000; sixty-one land stations, $383,000; 410 steamship stations, apparatus, contracts, and leases valued at $1,250 each, $512,500, and office furniture worth $5,600.

The complainants mention the sentences of the President of the company, Christopher Columbus Wilson, and his associates, and their imprisonment in the Tombs, and say that the company is practically without officers to manage its affairs, while the notoriety of the trial of Mr. Wilson makes it impossible for the concern to borrow money to carry on its business or pay its debts.

Haskins & Sells are asking $1,272 for installing an accounting syestem and auditing the capital stock records of the company. Mr. Gans claims $565 for professional services, and the Corporation Trust Company $400 for services.

E. Bright Wilson of 141 Broadway, attorney for the corporation, filed an answer to the complaint in which he admitted the allegations of the complainants and consented to the appointment of Federal receivers.

In the State Supreme Court the application for a receiver, made by Samuel P. Williams and other stockholders, was adjourned until to-morrow, on the request of George Gordon Battle, who has been retained as counsel by the opposing stockholders. He said that he would resist the charge of collusion that had been interjected in the case through the appointment of receivers in Maine, and would call United States District Attorney Wise to the stand to show that one of the Maine receivers had done everything possible to help him in the trial of the officials of the corporation.

An Automobile Accident
AND WHAT IT COST THE ÆTNA LIFE

William Porter, of the New York Stock Exchange firm of Erickson, Perkins & Co., was returning to New York from his country home on May 22d with a party of friends. Just outside of Paterson, New Jersey, in avoiding a driverless horse and cart his automobile ran into a ditch and upset. His friends escaped serious injury, but Mr. Porter was crushed under the machine and died June 1st.

On Feb. 5, 1908, Mr. Porter bought a $25,000 Accumulative Accident Policy of the ÆTNA LIFE, on which he paid four annual premiums of $125. Under the ten per cent. yearly ACCUMULATION FEATURE the insurance increased to $32,500.

On Oct. 22, 1910, he bought a second Accumulative Accident Policy for $25,000, paying a single premium of $125.

So for $625 the ÆTNA LIFE on June 2d paid $57,500. Weekly indemnity and surgical operation fees added $1,107 more, making $58,607 in all.

$58,607 for $250 Annual Premium

How can an automobilist with any business foresight go a day longer without Accident Insurance? The ÆTNA LIFE has paid over $16,000,000 because of accidents.

TAXATION FOR POLITICS ONLY.

"The" income tax is to come to a vote upon the motion of Chairman LEVY, who has frankly declared that his convictions were opposed to its merits. It might be thought that such a confession that his vote was in another man's keeping would be rare. On the contrary, one after another of those who had supported Chairman LEVY in his opposition to "the" income tax, which is defective in form on the admission even of those who defend its principle, declared that they would follow him and support the amendment to the Constitution when it comes to a vote. Among all those partisans pleading guilty to such unprincipled politics there was just one who referred to his personal convictions, or to the wishes of his constituents. Assemblyman TERRY's constituents would do well to keep him on duty against whatever "the organization" can do to punish his independence. The point is broader than the merits of the income tax. Never has there been a more shameless confession that the action of the Legislature is controlled by those who are not legislators. Under such conditions opposition to the success of such tactics becomes opposition to the system of boss rule, and is a duty on the part of all who have the idea that intelligence and conscience should guide legislation rather than the discipline of an irresponsible boss.

Under such conditions also there is no burden of argument on the opponents of the tax to show its demerits. In the rage for reform by taxation it has been too readily granted that any proposal for giving the Government money to spend was self-demonstrating. Opponents of "the" income tax have in some cases too meekly accepted the aspersion that opposition to "the" income tax was in some way indicative of defective patriotism, or treachery to the people, or hardness of heart toward "progress." This is a curious reversal of the appropriate attitude. There might better be an indignant demand that the proposers of the tax should justify their imposition of a burden which no country would endure if it could get rid of it. The assertion may be hazarded that any country now enjoying an income tax's blessing, and which could possibly reduce its debt burden to that of the United States, would repeal its income tax as the first relief to its taxpayers. And we are asked to assume this burden joyously at a time when the Treasury is showing a surplus above expenditures which are something more and worse than prodigal.

During this week the Treasury is asking bids on fifty millions of 3 per cents., and the bids are being made by the thousand, on a higher range of credit than any other country in the world enjoys. This issue is not to supply any deficiency of revenue, but merely to recoup the cost of the Panama Canal, which thus far has been constructed out of income, or pocket money. The Treasury has so little immediate use for the funds that it will deposit them in the banks, and there is so little prospective demand for money in the future that a couple of hundred millions more money may be had in the same manner. These facts, considered in connection with the current expositions—not to say exposures—of how money goes when it is supplied in superabundance, make it the duty of those consulting only the necessities of Government to oppose rather than support "the" income tax. Let those proposing the measure defend it and themselves. And let them take notice that they can defend neither by any argument regarding an ideal income tax. This is not that sort of tax. Neither can they justify it by any plea of hypothetical necessity of the Government in any unseen emergency of the future. "An" income tax now can be levied in any amount in a Constitutional manner. In other words, "the" income tax amendment is practically a proposal to levy such a tax in a manner not now Constitutional, or in evasion of the present Constitution. Doubtless this rallies many yeasty patriots to the support of "the" amendment. It ought also to rally more patriots of a more sober sort to the defense of the Constitution as it is until it can be amended in a workmanlike manner. As a general proposition that ought to be indisputable, and it is stronger regarding "the" income tax than regarding any proposition which is less objectionable.

THE NEW BANKING SITUATION.

The entrance of the trust companies into the Clearing House this week affects the methods of doing business, and not the amount of business done. The collections which were made in front of the counters of the companies during the panic of 1907 will be made privately through the Clearing House, with excellent effect in the future upon the sentiment of any similar situation, and upon its substance as well. The offsetting of credits is always an easier matter than the finding of cash for the same amounts, and the latter method is peculiarly unsettling when currency is worth a premium. But that is a smaller consideration than the unifying of the banking situation. Hereafter there will not be two jealous factions among our financiers, with discordant views and standards of action. The reserves of the metropolis are massed and are at the service of worthy associates. Instead of two reserves, each feeding on the other, there will be one reserve, and a united interest to protect it.

Already this factor has made itself felt in the prohibition of the rules of the Clearing House against the substitution of bonds for reserve in certain cases. Nothing is reserve in any strict sense which must go through liquidation before becoming available. No matter how excellent bonds may be they are not available for payment to a man who wants legal tender. The rules of the Clearing House never have recognized bonds as reserves, and it may be assumed that they will not do so because of legislation allowing financial institutions to keep their accounts in that manner. The payment of cash on demand is the essence of sound banking, and nothing can justify the imperiling of that fundamental requirement. It matters not that the proposed law may assure the ultimate payment of depositors as well or even better than the holding of a cash reserve. Cash only will stop a run or prevent one. The suspension of cash payments again is a humiliation not so soon to be risked in even the least degree.

SAVE THE CITY HALL PARK.

The men who are ready to destroy what remains of the beautiful and valuable City Hall Park by erecting a Court House in it have been balked in their first attempt. The mandatory Stilwell bill is dead in the hands of the Assembly Rules Committee. Its authors have accordingly resorted to a somewhat more roundabout method of accomplishing their end. They have secured from the Cities Committee of the Senate a favorable report on a bill that, after a possible delay of four months, during which another site may be selected, provides imperatively for the use of the park.

On this bill a public hearing should be held. It is absurd and wrong to rush it through at the heel of the session with no opportunity for the proper expression of the deep-seated public feeling against the destruction of the park. It has been shown plainly that there are other and better sites for the Court House, better for the Judges and the public quite independently of the duty of preserving the park. One of these should be adopted. It will be if the true interests of the city are respected. We appeal to the civic pride of the Senators from New York not to permit this hasty and harmful scheme to go through.

THE KERNEL OF RECIPROCITY.

The sections of the reciprocity legislation dealing with the trade in paper materials and paper are a fair expression of the substance of the project. Senator LA FOLLETTE thus describes the conditions surrounding that business:

> The newspaper publishers are promised a free market for print paper, for which they expend about $55,000,000 annually. No one who investigates the conditions under which the newspapers of this country have been compelled to purchase their supply of print paper can escape the conclusion that the publishers have been subjected to extortion. Prices have been arbitrarily fixed for them, and to keep their enterprises going they have been forced to submit to exactions unwarranted by conditions in the wood pulp and paper-making industries — conditions rendered possible only because of the unlawful trust organizations of the paper manufacturers.
> It is a matter of common knowledge that the newspaper publishers have had to accept whatever contracts the Print Paper Trust offered them to sign or be denied a paper supply with which to continue business. It is true the hearings of the committees of Congress contain many denials by paper manufacturers of the existence of this trust, but against these are the indictments, pleas of guilty, convictions, and fines, all of record, in more than fifty instances.

He goes on to say that these conditions are "intolerable." He is quite justified in the statement. Yet, on the ground that the project does not give the country all the relief it is entitled to, he insists that the measure shall be amended at the risk—one might almost say, with the intention—that the whole plan shall be defeated.

Senator JOHN SHARP WILLIAMS, with the same view as to the conditions to be met as those professed by Senator LA FOLLETTE, follows a different line of action. He would take the agreement as it stands, and, as soon thereafter as possible, he would seek freedom of exchange as to all matters of the class of paper and paper materials. It is the dictate of common sense and sincerity. He explains the practical effect of defeating the Root amendment. That would offer a distinct inducement to the provinces that tax the export of wood pulp to repeal that tax.

> If print paper and wood pulp made out of wood in provinces which have removed the restriction be permitted to come in free to us while the duty remains upon print paper and wood pulp and pulp wood made out of Canadian wood in provinces which have retained the restriction, then it is evident that it becomes to the immediate interest of the wood and wood pulp and paper people of Canada to bring to bear every inducement upon the provinces not removing restrictions to get them to remove the restrictions, thus benefiting our consumers and our manufacturers of paper.

We believe that this spirit will ultimately prevail in the Senate and that the reciprocity bill, as it came from the House, will be passed. We cannot persuade ourselves that the majority of the Senate can so betray their trust to the entire Nation, can so misread the signs of the times, as to block the first great step toward a rational adjustment of the undue burdens of our top-heavy tariff.

THE DEITY OFF THE STAGE.

It would not do to say that Gov. DIX has signed a bill providing for an ungodly stage. But his approval of the Black bill, prohibiting the performance of plays "in which there shall be a living character representing the Deity," removes from the sight of New York's public such thoroughly reverent productions as the morality play "Everyman," many of the historic mystery and miracle plays which were first staged in churches, ROSTAND'S "La Samaritaine," and MAETERLINCK'S "Marie Madeleine."

MAETERLINCK'S "Sister Beatrice," which represents the Virgin Mary, and KENNEDY'S "Servant in the House" might also be construed as coming within the law's inhibition.

THE DRUNKARD.

For centuries the drunkard has been despaired of, and treated, at great expense to the community, as a criminal. The person occasionally found intoxicated in public also has been despaired of. Society has pushed him down, at expense and to its detriment, into the ranks of confirmed inebriates and criminals. Reform has been little thought of; the moral and economic waste has been fearful. The special committee appointed by the Board of Estimate of this city to consider the advisability of establishing a Board of Inebriety and a hospital and industrial colony for inebriates reports that the centuries of mistaken treatment have involved "a heavy expense," yet were "wholly fruitless." The Board of Estimate will, this morning, consider its committee's report and take steps to check this waste.

According to the committee, this city is spending $80,000 a year for the cases of intoxication committed to Blackwell's Island, and $65,000 a year for the cost of the "overflow" wards at Bellevue; moreover, the proportion of expenses for these cases in the Magistrates' courts "is at least $125,000 a year," besides the great expense incurred in policing the inebriate inmates of the city prison and the alcoholic wards of hospitals. "As a result of all these expenses under the present system," the committee says, "there is a complete lack of accomplishment. There is no pretense even that the individual is helped, quite the contrary."

The inebriates law of 1910 for this city would tend to prevent drunkenness. It would release the occasional offender, and would place on probation the second offender. If the probation officers fail, the inebriate would go to a hospital, not to a jail, and to an industrial colony, not to evil associations with criminals. Only the hardened offenders who have actually developed into criminals would find their place in jail.

Alcoholism is a disease. Its victims are neurasthenics. It is inhuman to treat them as criminals. It is inhuman not to restore them to health, and, to the last degree, contrary to public policy to help them away from lives of reformation, recovered self-respect, and renewed usefulness to their kin and the State. Massachusetts, Iowa, and Minnesota have followed the lead of England, Germany, and other European countries in demonstrating that drunkenness can be prevented by the measures which the Board of Estimate of this city is now duly empowered to adopt. A site for the city's new institution of thrift and healing should first be selected at a cost not to exceed $50,000, and a Board of Inebriety must be constituted in order that the work may be commenced.

THE SLAUGHTER OF BABY SEALS.

Dr. WILLIAM T. HORNADAY, who is a leading authority on the protection of wild game, states that the investigation of the fur seal industry of Alaska by the House Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Commerce and Labor has revealed damaging facts. Dr. HORNADAY says:

> The proof from the London fur market that nearly 8,000 pup seals—and many of them females—were killed last year, utterly contrary to law, under the shadow of the American flag, is, in my opinion, absolutely incontrovertible; and, incidentally, most damaging to the Department of Commerce and Labor.

Dr. HORNADAY has sent us a copy of the first number of the hearings before the committee, containing the testimony of Mr. HENRY W. ELLIOTT, concerning the itemized list of 12,920 skins in the official report of the Bureau of Fisheries, given last January to the Fur Trade Review. The testimony reads:

> Now, in that list of 12,920 there are 8,000 of them that are classified as "small pups" and "ex. sm. pups," which sold at an average of about 126 shillings. Bear that in mind. The size above them, the "middling pups," which grade in between the large two-year-olds and the small three-year-olds, sold for 164 shillings. So you can see there is a jump there. These "small pups" and "ex. sm. pups," 8,000 of them, are all classified this way in London; each one has a mark traced directly from the head to tail of its fleshy skin side, and on that mark the measurements of its length is placed, and then each one of those 8,000 skins has a mark traced directly across the flippers, called the girth-mark, and on the girth mark the inches are placed. These measurements are certified in here as the measurements of "small pups," "ex. sm. pups," and "ex. ex. sm. pups."

In 1872, when there were millions more seals than now, the native and white clubbers were instructed to take "nothing under a seven-pound skin." The "ex. ex. small pups," noted above, known on the islands as "runts," yield skins weighing under four pounds. The skins of "ex. small pups," known as "eyeplasters," are five and one-half pounds, and those of "small pups" and "middling pups," even when preserved with salt, which makes them heavier than the "green" skins, fall under the seven-pound limit. The killing of seals in these classes, excepting the "middling pups," and of all female seals, is prohibited, save under a special dispensation of the Secretary of Commerce and Labor. Mr. ELLIOTT charges that Secretary NAGEL, being ill-advised, has exceeded his discretionary power, so that the seal herd is being exterminated through the wholesale slaughter of its young.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Water Meters Not Foes of Cleanliness.

MAYOR GAYNOR'S contention that if everybody's bill for water were proportioned to the amount he used, an equally close relation between uncleanliness and economy would be established, with the result, among others equally regrettable, of a decrease in the already insufficient number of baths taken, undoubtedly has a certain plausibility. On examination of the argument, however, one sees that it rests on an assumption which has little or no basis of known facts, and that what the Mayor says people would do is not in accord with what they have done—in other words, contradicts experience.

Private water companies, invariably, so far as we know, make every consumer have a meter and pay for what he gets. Their usual plan is to have an irreducible minimum, which the customer has to pay anyway, and then to charge him for all used in excess of a daily amount fairly well adjusted to the decent needs of an average family. In the many towns where this system prevails, though there is a lot of complaint about high rates, nobody has proved—apparently nobody has even said—that any use of water except wasteful use is abandoned. Certainly nobody in those towns goes thirsty, and it is more than doubtful if even the mildest of inclinations toward cleanliness is vanquished by the desire to save money.

It is the luxury, rather than the reality, of cleanliness that takes a whole lot of water, and, just possibly, water is better appreciated and therefore more used where it costs a definite price per gallon than where it is treated as if much of it was worth no more than a little. Moreover, whether the universal meter system be introduced or not, the water does have to be paid for, in proportion to the amounts used and wasted, and it has to be paid for by the consumers.

The price varies with circumstances, but the inexhaustible supply of the Mayor's ideal, with everybody privileged to use unlimited quantities of it—well, nobody knows better than he what it will cost New York to approximate that ideal not at all closely. The big cities on the great lakes have the inexhaustible supply, but they have to pay for every gallon of water that passes through their pumps into their mains, and what they waste costs just as much as what they use. Meters distribute the expense equitably, and though they diminish waste, there is no reason for believing that they diminish use.

New Science of Efficiency.

An enthusiastic lecturer on the new science of efficiency, so much talked about of late, prophesies that after it has come into general application in the world's industries, nobody's work day will be over four and a half hours long.

The efficiency engineers are undoubtedly great men with a great idea, and actual experience has proved again and again work to the benefit of all concerned, but promises of this kind will be taken by most people as belonging to the category of the too-good-to-be-true. We have all heard machinery described as "labor-saving," yet men work about as hard and as long as in the old days, in spite of the increased production which the machinery renders possible. Perhaps it will be the same with "efficiency." That may enable men to do as much in four and a half hours as they now do in eight or nine or ten, but that all the difference will be gained to leisure does not necessarily or even probably follow.

Needs grow at least as fast as the ability to meet them, and the "efficient" man will not long be content to live as he does now. That fact casts a gloom over the lecturer's prophecy, without, however, making his enthusiasm for the new idea at all the less warranted.

To Compete With the Magazines.

There is an element of common sense, and something of grandeur, in Representative TAYLOR'S suggestion that The Congressional Record should be sent out for a price, instead of for nothing. He would make the rate $1 a year, and, with every Postmaster acting as a subscription agent, he thinks that this valuable publication would in time obtain the larger circulation which it deserves.

Perhaps the chief merit of the Colorado statesman's idea lies in the probability that, as in the case of other journals and magazines, the existence of paying subscribers would create for it a feeling of responsibility, an obligation to be at least plausible, which The Record does not now always display. The people who get it for the mere asking can make no complaint, no matter how many unspoken speeches it prints or how far its chronicle departs from the actual proceedings of the two houses. Contributors to its columns do about what they please in the way of editing their offerings, and the result is that the reader does not always get either a clear or a correct view of what the legislators have been doing.

Whether The Congressional Record could ever be made what is called lively reading is questionable, but even now it often has value, and occasionally has interest, for the sober-minded student of events, and if it had a wider circulation the guardians of the public would be better guarded. Perhaps everybody who wants The Congressional Record gets it now; certainly there are a good many of us who wouldn't read it for several times $1 a year. That, however, does not disprove the excellence of Mr. TAYLOR'S scheme, or justify ridicule of the bill introduced by him to carry his purpose into effect.

The price he has set on The Record seems small, since $1 would not pay for more than a fifth or sixth of the white paper each subscriber would receive. That is not an insuperable objection, though a grave one, since the paper has to be printed for Congress, anyhow, and the principle of "additional cost" comes into play as regards the extra production. Just the same, the surplus in the National Treasury would suffer if Mr. TAYLOR'S bill passed and the people should suddenly develop an eager hunger for The Record at $1 a year. So it may be just as well that there is no great danger of either the passage or the hunger.

THE FLOOD OF LAWS.

Legislatures Are Pouring Them Forth in Increasing Ratio.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Any citizen who has observed their trend cannot fail to regard with considerable apprehension the enormous (and ever increasing) volume of laws which has appeared as the result of the productive efforts of our legislation millers. The increase in the number of legislative proposals during the past year is tremendous. The extraordinary session of Congress, which convened on April 4 last, witnessed the introduction of a little less than 10,000 bills. An investigation of the sessions of the various State Legislatures during the same period shows that approximately the same number were proposed in their chambers. This great mass of legislation, in such a short period, would indicate a notable increase over the grand total of 44,366 bills which were introduced during the sessions of the Sixty-first Congress, just ended. That America is certainly a land of legal terms is made evident from the fact that in five years the legislative production by our Federal Congressional legislators has grown from 20,893 bills in the Fifty-sixth Congress to 44,366 in the last Congress.

According to competent authorities, we propose in this country one new law for approximately every 1,000 of our population, while England and all of her colonies are contented with one legislative proposal for every 77,000 of the population. While there is no accurate means of obtaining the total number of legal measures introduced in the various States in recent sessions, a Federal official gives assurance that in forty-six States, during the sessions of 1906-1907 and 1907-1908, there were no less than 22,917 (enacted) laws created. It is further assured us that, in all probability, the proposals for legislation were ten times as great.

While there is no doubt that some of the demands which society makes for legal protection are most wise, it is also just as true and undoubtedly more important to realize that such a mass of legislation does not tend to insure that simplicity of government by law and by the people which is so necessary to every democratic nation, and especially so in view of the widely diversified component parts of our citizenship.

APPEAL FOR SICK CHILDREN.

Toys and Trinkets Wanted for Little Hospital Patients.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Let me make an appeal, through your columns, for a special kindness to sick children.

We have about a hundred little sufferers here, most of them convalescing from measles. Separated as these tiny tots are from home, playmates, and from familiar surroundings, their days are very long and the hours pass wearily.

If some among your readers who have toys and trinkets to spare will send a few to me, it will be a help just now. Even when worn or slightly damaged, such playthings are welcomed gladly by these small people.

Those who are planning to go away to the country and dealers in toys will please note the address given. Should we receive more than we need, other hospitals for children will share our good fortune.

The Valley Stream Road.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your article, "New Pavements Needed Everywhere," is most timely, and I only wish it had been more extended and had gone into the matter in greater detail.

The main road leading from the Queensboro Bridge to Valley Stream, in Queens County, is in a most disgraceful condition, and has been so for more than a year. If money has been appropriated to repair this road it has never been expended upon it. If no money has been so appropriated, it would seem to be because the authorities do not wish to have this road kept in repair, but rather to wait until it becomes impassable and then turn the road over to some contractor. It is useless to say that it is impossible to keep it in order on account of the fact that it is so largely used by automobiles, for the road immediately beyond the city line has always been kept in good, or, at least, passable, condition.

A great main road like this should be under constant repair from the moment it is opened to the public. After every rain a cart full of fine gravel should be sent over it and every depression in which water has gathered should be immediately filled in.

Wasteful Hydrants.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Why should we, householders and tenants, "be careful of the water in our sinks, bathrooms and other 'taps'" when the city authorities do not seem to care a bit how much water is wasted? Several weeks ago two hydrants were put in place on Pacific Street, Brooklyn, between Bedford and Franklin Avenues, and ever since that time the manhole at the corner of Franklin and Pacific has been leaking at the rate of a good many gallons a minute.

Drivers Jeer at Women.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

One of the most striking things in connection with life in New York City to one who takes up his residence here after living in smaller places is the impunity with which drivers of vehicles such as trucks and express wagons jeer at and insult women whom they drive past. I walk up University Place as far as Tenth Street at 5:30 every night, and have ample opportunity to note this rowdyism.

WILL HARD TO UNDERSTAND.

Surrogate Could Only Make Out That One Man Is to Get $500.

A decision of Surrogate Fowler, handed down yesterday, gives to Joseph Hansen a bequest of $500 under one of the most peculiar wills ever admitted to probate in New York County. The will was addressed to "My dear Joe," and Surrogate Fowler identifies Hansen as the "Joe" meant and concurs in his appointment as executor of the will, of which this is a literal copy:

> N. York Ocktob the 19th. 1908.
>
> My dear Joe!
>
> There are 3000 Doller in the Bowery Bank an 50 Dollar in the Bank of Savings an is it my last Wisch that you could agree with my brother that ewery think will be keept together, but in case yous could not agree together, is it my last will that you get 500 Dollar from my Mony after my Brothers dat is everything yours what belongs to me an have I written to my Brother that I Wisch that he leaves ewerything to you after his dat.
>
> Try that you get along together
> (Sgd) MARGARETHE HINNERS.
>
> This is to certify that Margarethe Hinners is of sound mind and wishes this to be her last will. In witness of which I sign my name (Sgd) CHARLES HUBER, M. D.
> Rudolph H. Bertram, 411 E. 90th. St. N. Y. City.

"The 'My dear Joe,'" said the Surrogate, "is unquestionably her old and intimate friend, Joseph Hansen. He it was who visited her thrice a week for sixteen years. The testatrix brought this Joseph Hansen to the surgeon who operated on her and stated to him that she knew Joseph Hansen for 'many, many years, very intimately.'"

The will, outside of the Hansen bequest, Surrogate Fowler found to be invalid, because Miss Hinners left two brothers, Johan and Henry, and it could not be decided which was meant. Under his decision the property left to the indeterminate brother will be divided among Johan, Henry, a sister, Mrs. Sophie Knopp, and three nieces and three nephews, the children of a deceased sister, one-fourth to each of the brothers and sisters, and one-twenty-fourth to each of the nephews and nieces.

BLAME FOR BAD STREETS.

Board of Trade Adopts Report of Civic Bodies Suggesting Remedies.

The New York Board of Trade and Transportation at its regular monthly meeting yesterday adopted a report made by various civic organizations, including the City Club, criticising the Borough Presidents and other city officials for the bad condition of the streets and pavements and tendering advice as to how improvements may be made. The report was presented by W. H. Gibson, Vice-President of the Board of Trade. James Talcott, the banker, in voting for the adoption of the report, said the streets of the city are in such a bad condition that he had told his wife it was not safe for her to ride out in an automobile.

"From my personal knowledge I know that many streets are not safe either for an automobile, wagon or carriage," said Mr. Talcott. "There are deep and dangerous holes. While driving the other day I saw men filling in some of these holes with tar and sand near Riverside Drive. The first rain will wash out this filling."

The report says that the condition of the streets is "not due to insuperable obstacles, but to persistent and mistaken adherence to types of pavement proved by long experience to be defective and unsatisfactory, to unsuitable materials, laying asphalt on old stone pavements and put down in sheets without suitable foundations, and these continuous bad pavements are the result of administrative persistence in a fundamentally wrong method."

It is advised that the city make tests and try to procure pavements like those of Paris, London, and other foreign cities, and to establish in the Department of Public Works a repair bureau so that the city will be independent of the corporations which control the paving work in this city.

A resolution was passed requesting the Board of Aldermen to appropriate $50,000 required by the Corporation Counsel's office to fight in the courts the attempt of New Jersey to empty sewage from twenty Jersey cities into the harbor near Robbins Reef Light. A report of a special committee was approved requesting Congress to authorize the establishment of a United States Court of Patent Appeals.

The Committee on Railway Transportation, through D. S. Ramsey, its chairman, reported its efforts to prevent the railways from adding 10 cents to their charges for carrying a package weighing from five to fifty pounds, this increase being made on all classes of freight. The old rate was 25 cents, which it is proposed to advance to 35 cents. The committee stated that it expected to get help in this movement either from the Public Service Commission or the Inter-State Commerce Commission.

SENATE'S GIFT TO THE TAFTS.

Silver Service for Wedding Anniversary—President Here Next Week.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Among the gifts to President and Mrs. Taft on the celebration next Monday of the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding will be a silver service from the members of the Senate. All of the Senators placed their names on the contributing list today, and Senator Bacon gave rush orders to the jewelers for the present.

President Taft will have a busy time next week. He will start for New York on Tuesday morning, will spend the afternoon there, and depart for New Haven that night, where he will attend the Yale University commencement exercises and the meeting of the Yale Corporation.

Thursday night the President will speak at Manhattan Beach to the New York Bankers' Association and the Canadian Club of New York. That night he will sail from Sea Gate, L. I., on the Mayflower for Fall River, Mass., where on Friday afternoon he will make an address at the two hundredth anniversary celebration of the New England cotton industry.

From Fall River the President will go to Providence, R. I., to be the guest of the Conservative Club. He will leave Providence on Friday night on the Mayflower for New York, and from there return to Washington.

The President has canceled his engagement to address the Mountain Lake, Md., Chautauqua on Sunday, June 25.

Money for the Charity Society.

THE NEW YORK TIMES acknowledges receipt of $1 from M. Albert in response to an appeal by the Charity Organization Society.

For a reduced gentlewoman $1 has been received from A. S. M.

I REMEMBER, I REMEMBER.

I remember, I remember,
The house where I was born.
The sight of that lop-sided shack
To-day would make me mourn:
The crooked little brick-paved walk,
The hen house in the rear,
With cabbage growing at the side,
And pig-sty rather near.

I remember, I remember,
The corn-cob father had:
(A five-cent piece of Navy Plug
In those days made him glad.)
The old stove in the kitchen,
And father's stockinged feet—
All that was ere prosperity
Swept us on Easy Street.

I remember, I remember,
The pump in our back yard,
Where father watered all the stock
And found it rather hard.
But now he has another way
And needs no trough or pump:
He waters stock down in the Street
And makes the lambkins jump.

I remember, I remember—
But oh! The changes wrought
Are queerer than the little duke
That Sister Helen bought!
Since father goes to twenty clubs
And mother has her set,
We have no use for Mem'ry's art—
We're trying to forget!

JACOB J. LEIBSON.

TAFT AND ROOSEVELT ADVISE FISK NEGROES

President Writes That More Than Technical Training Is Needed for Leaders of the Race.

COMMENDED BY ROOSEVELT

President Stowe, Son of Harriet Beecher Stowe, Says the Peace and Safety of Country Is the Problem at Stake.

NASHVILLE, June 14.—The forty-fifth commencement of Fisk University, the college for negroes, at Nashville, Tenn., was observed here to-day. The largest class but one in the history of the college was graduated and received bachelor degrees. The Rev. Charles Edward Stowe, son of Harriet Beecher Stowe, made the commencement address, and read letters from President Taft and Col. Theodore Roosevelt.

Mr. Stowe read the following extract from a letter written by President Taft:

> The White House,
> Washington, D. C.
>
> I am not one of those who believe that it is well to educate the mass of negroes with academic or university education. On the contrary, I am firmly convinced that the hope of the negro is in his industrial education throughout the South, and in teaching him to be a better farmer, a better carpenter, a better machinist, and a better blacksmith than he is now; and to make more blacksmiths and more good farmers than there now are among the negroes.
>
> But I have studied the matter considerably, and have also become convinced that it is necessary to have a few high-class negro universities for those who are to be the leaders of the race and who are to figure prominently in a professional way—their ministers, their physicians, their lawyers, and their teachers—because we have got to treat the race as distinct from the white. I believe that nothing can do so much toward establishing a real nucleus for leadership among them as the maintenance of such a university as Fisk.
>
> It has the largest number of negro college students of any school of the standard which it sets, and if any university of the kind is to be encouraged it is Fisk University. This is proved not only by an examination of its college statistics, but by the testimony of the best white men in the community where it exercises its influence. Sincerely yours,
>
> WILLIAM H. TAFT.

> New York, May 24, 1911.
>
> I am genuinely concerned to hear that Fisk University is in real need of assistance. The General Education Board has heartily indorsed Fisk, and, as I am informed, will do all it can in helping lift the burden of debt and improving the property. Its proposal is to give $60,000, provided $300,000 is raised, $200,000 of which is for endowment. Of this nearly $185,000 remains to be raised.
>
> I most earnestly commend your work. You do not need to be told how emphatically I favor industrial education for the colored man no less than for the white; but I cordially agree with Booker Washington in his support of Fisk, because it is eminently undesirable that the negro should have only a chance to get technical education in industry and agriculture.
>
> With the negro, as with the white, while such training is that of which there is fundamentally the greatest need for the greatest number, it is yet imperative for the sake of the race that there shall be opportunity of furnishing a different type of training for a certain proportion of the race. Fisk has behind it a long record of proved efficiency, and its present work is of high merit, not only from the standpoint of the colored man, but from the standpoint of the good citizen generally. I very earnestly hope that the burden resting upon Fisk may be quickly lifted. It would be a calamity not only to the cause of education, but to the cause of good citizenship, to have Fisk crippled in its work.
>
> THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

President Stowe said: "It is not the interest of the negro race alone that is at stake; it is the peace and safety and prosperity of our common country, both North and South, for the negro is not the problem of the South alone, but of the whole Nation. And as long as prejudice against the colored man continues it will be absolutely essential that there should be institutions devoted especially to his training."

GROSSCUP TRUST REMEDY.

Says If the Right to Regulate Dividends Is Reserved, Control Will Be Easy.

IOWA CITY, Iowa, June 14.—Declaring the Sherman act, "even as now interpreted, an ineffective remedy in the just complaint of the ordinary man against monopolies," Judge Peter S. Grosscup of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals proposed in the commencement address before the University of Iowa today a new method of dealing with trusts.

"To recognize the combination and monopoly as something necessarily here, and then, as a condition to granting corporate power at all, reserve the right to regulate dividends," is the remedy Judge Grosscup advances.

Judge Grosscup's discussion of the remedy proposed by him was prefaced by a review of the Sherman act, in which he said:

"As interpreted prior to May of this year, the Sherman Anti-Trust act was believed to be a weapon in the hands of the men who happened to constitute the Administration at Washington to destroy such specific monopolies and combinations as the Administration chose to consider hurtful to competition in enterprise. Instead, the Sherman Act became a sunken mine over which nearly every form of enterprise had to sail—the fuse that would set it off or keep it harmless running direct to the office of the Attorney General at Washington.

"But will big business," continued Judge Grosscup, "with no restraint hanging over it other than the Sherman Act, as now interpreted, desist from being brutal? Will one of these big business enterprises, caught now and then employing the prohibited accessory methods and ordered to rehabilitate, as the Standard Oil and Tobacco combinations have been ordered to rehabilitate, prevent others from taking their chances along the same lines, or from taking chances along other lines?"

Judge Grosscup discussed price supervision as a method of Government regulation as distinguished from restriction on dividends. "Price supervision by Government," the speaker said, "would always and necessarily be indirect and inexact, always open to fluctuation through the hostility or favor of those who, for the time being, were in power, always open to manipulation by the trusts themselves."

PEARY TALKS TO STUDENTS.

Tells Rensselaer Polytechnic Boys About the Trip to the Pole.

Special to The New York Times.

TROY, N. Y., June 14.—Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary delivered an address before the students and visitors attending the commencement exercises at the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute to-day, taking for his subject the trip to the pole. He said in part:

"The attainment of the gaunt, frozen apex of the earth has occupied the attention of the scientists, the geographers, the romanticists of the world, and has claimed the most strenuous efforts of the bravest and most persistent navigators and explorers for nearly 400 years before it yielded.

"During that time human conceptions of the problem changed pronouncedly with the advances of knowledge and discovery, but even to the last the subject was deeply tinged with romance, mythical ideas, and strange theories and imaginings."

Following a summary of the trip north and the preparations for the final dash, Admiral Peary said:

"The Winter night was passed in preparing the sledge equipment and training men and dogs. In February the sledge parties left the ship; on the first of March they headed due north from Cape Columbia; on the 6th of April the pole was reached; on the 23d of April Cape Columbia was regained; on the 27th of April the last man was back on board ship; on the 18th of July the ship broke out and began her battle homeward through the ice; on the 26th of August the last of my faithful Eskimos were landed at Cape York, and on the 6th of September, 1909, the dispatch went flashing southward from the wireless station at Indian Harbor: 'Stars and Stripes nailed to North Pole.'

"That dispatch marked the victory of twenty-three of the best years of a man's life."

MISS LANG, BRIDE OF BYRON D. ROGERS

IN CHURCH OF ASCENSION

Lady Lang, Mother of Bride, Gives Reception at Ritz-Carlton—Couple First Met at Constantinople.

Miss Mary Alice Lang, second daughter of Sir Robert Hamilton Lang, K. C. M. G., and Lady Lang of Dedham, Essex, England, and Assistant Paymaster Byron Demont Rogers, U. S. N., were married yesterday afternoon in the Church of the Ascension. The Rev. Percy Stickney Grant, rector of the church, officiated.

The bride wore a gown of ivory satin and a large white picture hat. She was unattended. Her mother, Lady Lang, gave her in marriage. Lieut. John W. Wilcox, U. S. N., was Mr. Rogers's best man.

The wedding was a small one, only a few of the very intimate friends of the bride and bridegroom being present, owing to the illness of the bride's father, who was not able to come over for the ceremony. After the wedding a small reception and tea were given by Lady Lang at the Ritz-Carlton.

After a short honeymoon trip, Mr. and Mrs. Rogers will make their home in Charleston, S. C., where Mr. Rogers is stationed at the navy yard.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers first met at Constantinople a few years ago, when Mr. Rogers was stationed there on the United States ship Scorpion, and when Mr. Rogers's father was Director General of the Imperial Ottoman Bank.

Sir Robert Hamilton Lang is one of the best known of England's financiers. He is a graduate of Glasgow University and was made a K. C. M. G. in 1886. He was manager of the Imperial Ottoman Bank's agency in Cypress from 1863 to 1872, and her Majesty's Consul for Cypress from 1871 to 1872. He was manager of the Imperial Ottoman Bank's agency in Egypt from 1872 to 1875, and became Director of the Imperial Ottoman Bank at Constantinople in 1875.

Mrs. Rogers is a cousin of the Most Rev. Joseph A. Lang, Archbishop of York, the youngest Archbishop in England.

WED UNDER HISTORIC TREES.

Marriage of Miss Henry and C. E. Clewell Unites Old Families.

Special to The New York Times.

BETHLEHEM, June 14.—Miss Ruth Henry, a great-granddaughter of William Henry of Lancaster, Penn., who was the inventor of the rifle used by the revolutionary army during the war of 1776 and closely associated with Robert Fulton, inventor of the steamboat, was married at the country home of her parents in Boulton to-day to Clarence E. Clewell of Williamsburg of the Westinghouse Electric Company. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. John H. Clewell, President of the Moravian Seminary and College for Women here, father of the bridegroom.

A coincidence of the wedding, which took place under the spreading branches of two historic hemlock trees, and which was the second to take place at the Henry homestead in a century, is that nine generations ago the Clewell and Henry families were intimately related.

MISS MILDRED BRAHE WEDS.

The Bride of Prof. Farley D. McLouth of New York University.

The wedding of Miss Mildred Brahe, daughter of Mrs. Charles Henry Brahe, and Prof. Farley D. McLouth of New York University took place at 8 o'clock last night at the residence of the bride's brother, Keith S. Brahe, 400 Convent Avenue. The Rev. Charles Baldwin officiated.

The bride wore a gown of satin trimmed with point lace and a tulle veil edged with point lace and seed pearls. She carried white marguerites and roses. Her sister-in-law, Mrs. Keith S. Brahe, who was married on April 18, was the only attendant. She wore her wedding gown.

Prof. Lawrence A. McLouth of the New York University waited upon his brother as best man.

There was a reception after the ceremony, and later the couple left on their bridal trip.

Miss Betz Bride of Senor Pulido.

PHILADELPHIA, June 14.—Miss Rosalean Sybilla Betz, one of the wealthiest young women in Philadelphia, and Señor Don Augusto F. Pulido of Venezuela were married here to-day. The ceremony was performed in St. Matthew's Lutheran Church by the Rev. Dr. Edwin Heyl Delk. The bride is the daughter of the late J. Fred Betz, Jr. Señor Pulido was for many years First Secretary of the Venezuelan Legation at Washington, and was recently appointed First Secretary of the Venezuelan Legation at Berlin.

POWER—SMITH.

The wedding of Miss Gladys Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Imbrie Smith and Stanley L. Power of Birmingham, England, took place last evening in the Church of the Intercession, Broadway and 158th Street. The Rev. Milo H. Gates, rector of the church, officiated. Miss Julia E. Smith was her sister's only attendant. George Denhard acted as best man, and the ushers were Edwin Corlies, Frederick Harper, Max Foster, and Charles Imbrie Smith, Jr., brother of the bride. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 525 West 155th Street.

ROLSTON—HOOLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 14.—In the presence of 100 guests Miss Mabel B. Hooley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Hooley, and Brown Rolston, son of William H. Rolston of New York, were married this evening at the home of the bride's parents on Rockview Avenue. The Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson of Grace Episcopal Church performed the ceremony. Miss Helen Ray Hooley, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Roswell G. Rolston, brother of the bridegroom, best man. The bride received among other gifts a newly built house adjoining that of her father, it being a present of the latter. Mr. Rolston was graduated from Princeton University last year.

TUCKER—FORTE.

Miss Eva Sophie Forte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Forte of Springfield, Mass., and Atherton Howe Tucker of Ilion, N. Y., were married at 19 West 129th Street yesterday afternoon by the Rev. G. L. Forte of Rockland, Mass., a brother of the bride. The wedding was a quiet home one, only relatives and intimate friends being present.

The bride is an instructor at the Normal College of this city, a graduate of Smith College, class of '09, and of Radcliffe, class of '08. The bridegroom is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, class of [illegible], and is connected with the Library Bureau in this city.

The couple left for the White Mountains to spend their honeymoon. They will make their home in Ilion.

SHAW—BRANDON.

The marriage of Miss Isabelle W. Brandon, daughter of Mrs. Cora W. Brandon, to Ernest V. Shaw, son of the late George Mitchell Shaw of this city, took place yesterday afternoon at Villamead, the country home of the bride's mother at Mamaroneck, N. Y.

The bride wore a gown of white satin and a veil of old point lace, which has been in the family for four generations. Miss May W. Brandon was her sister's only attendant.

Alfred C. Shaw was his brother's best man, and the ushers were Douglas M. Shaw and Harry C. Shaw.

A small reception for the relatives and intimate friends of the bride and bridegroom was held after the ceremony. Later the couple left on an automobile trip.

RUSSIAN BALLETS AT WINTER GARDEN

A MAD WHIRL OF COLOR

Mlle. Lopoukowa Applauded in Solo Dance as Leader of Greek Bacchanale—Acted with Realism.

Gertrude Hoffmann began her "Saison des Ballets Russes" at the Winter Garden last night, and New York was introduced to another novelty to be added to the list the season has afforded. Just how much New York will like this new entertainment remains for further nights to decide. Last night's audience liked much of it a great deal.

It, the entertainment, comes in three parts, three ballets of differing types. The first, "Cléopâtre," is a short love drama, with a tragic ending; the second, "Les Sylphides," is a series of dances to Chopin's music, and the third, "Sheherazade," is another love drama, with another tragedy to end it. Scenery, costumes, light effects, and the ensemble of the company are of high merit in all of them.

The scene of "Cleopatra" is at a shrine on an oasis in the desert. The stage represents a high columned hall of Egyptian type, with a view of the Nile between the pillars at the back. Here an archer and girl meet, love, and are joined by a priest. Then Cleopatra, the queen, arrives, attended by slaves of half a dozen different nations. For some reason, presumably symbolic, she arrives in a mummy case, and has to be relieved of numerous bindings of colored scarfs. She falls in love with the archer, wins him from the girl, and permits him to drink poisoned wine at the end.

Whirling draperies of Greek dancers, the brilliant colored costumes of Hebrews and Egyptians, fill the stage during this ballet, with the music by S. Taneieff, Rimsky Koraskow, and A. Glazounow. There are solo dances, and ensemble numbers and marches, all of them well done, if not excellently performed. Opportunity to see dancers of this sort has been so slight that it is impossible to judge the merits of the players in this ballet.

Gertrude Hoffmann appeared as the amorous Queen, but did not dance. Marie Baldina had the rôle of the archer's sweetheart, Theodore Kosloff played the archer, and Lydia Lopoukowa and Alexis Kosloff had the rôles of slaves. Toward the end of the ballet Mlle. Lopoukowa had a brief solo dance as leader of Greek Bacchanale, and to her went much of the applause at the end of the first number.

"Les Sylphides" comes back to the more conventional ballet, with the filmy, wide skirts, and the toe dancing. In this the music was Chopin's, and the dancers were Lydia Lopoukowa, Alexander Volnine, Mlle. Cochin, Marie Baldina, and Mlle. Gluck, with a corps de ballet of twenty-two. With a background of a forest, a nocturne was first danced by the principals and the coryphees, and then followed a waltz, a mazurka, another waltz, another mazurka, winding up with a waltz brilliant.

And for this the audience applauded again and again, calling back all of the principals, demanding to see the coryphees again, and finally insisting on the director, Theodore Kosloff, and one of the managers, Morris Gest, being brought before the curtain. Even then the applause continued, and large floral pieces continued to go over the footlights, until Mlle. Lopoukowa took a call alone. Then the enthusiasm increased. Whatever the public is going to do about the ballets, this particular principal will hold the place she acquired last night for a long time. It will be remembered, in this connection, that she was one of the Russian dancers who appeared in "The Echo" this season and whose début was marred by a slippery stage.

"Sheherazade," the final ballet, is called on the programme a "chorographic drama." Its story is the introduction to the Arabian Nights Entertainments, and its scene is the harem of the King of India and China. The costuming, the setting, and the arrangement of the music suggest ancient Persia. The King and his brother start on a journey, leaving their wives in the keeping of the chief of the harem. No sooner have the monarchs departed than the women wheedle the keys from the keeper and let in the men slaves from another part of the palace. A noisy revelry takes place, during which the King and his brother return. Soldiers are called in and all are killed except the King's favorite. She begs for mercy, and, when her husband orders her execution, she kills herself with a knife she has taken from one of the soldiers.

The effect in this ballet of Oriental languor, followed by the cumulation of passion that has vent in wild dancing, is extremely well managed. The stage is crowded with men and women in kaleidoscopic costumes, and the finale before the entrance of the King and the soldiers is a mad whirl of color that brought a burst of applause last night. In this piece Miss Hoffmann has the rôle of the favorite wife, and wears a costume of less meagre dimensions than the Cleopatra dress. Mlle. Lopoukowa, Mlle. Baldina, and Mlle. Cochin appeared as odalisques, and the principal male rôles were taken by Alexis Bulgakow, Nicolas Solanikow, Theodore Kosloff, and Alexis Kosloff. The music is by Rimsky Korsakow.

The orchestra, much enlarged, was directed by Max Hoffmann, who succeeded in obtaining excellent results.

Much money and good taste have been bestowed upon the preparation of these ballets, but whether the taste that selected the Cleopatra and the Arabian Nights number was as good is a matter about which individuals will probably differ. Their stories are erotic and the scenes are played with much realism—as far as dancing and pantomime can be realistic. The audience liked "Les Sylphides" probably as much for its delicacy as for its good performance.

JULES LE FEBVRE DEAD.

French Painter's Works Include "La Cigalel" and "Diane Surprise."

PARIS, June 14.—Jules Joseph Le Febvre, the painter, died to-day.

Jules Le Febvre won the grand prize of Rome in 1861 for "The Death of Priam." Among his best-known paintings are "La Cigalel," in the museum at St. Louis; "La Verita," museum of Luxembourg; "Diane Surprise," in the museum at Buenos Aires. He was decorated with the Legion of Honor in 1870 and elected a member of the Academy of Fine Arts in 1891. M. Le Febvre was born in 1836.

ROW OVER SUNDAY TENNIS.

Clergyman Objects to Sports of the Garden City Club.

Special to The New York Times.

GARDEN CITY, L. I., June 14.—Rumors of trouble in the Garden City Club, the sheltering wing of the social life of this cathedral town, are rife, all over the question of permitting Sunday tennis. On the one side are the devotees of sport who devote six days to labor and spend the seventh according to their lights. On the other side may be found the Dean of the cathedral and sympathizers with his view, who belong to an old-fashioned order of beings that like to spend Sunday peacefully.

For the last three or four years Dean John R. Moses has watched visitors to the Salisbury golf links crossing the lawns of the Cathedral of the Incarnation by scores on their way from the station. Now that Sunday tennis is in progress almost under the eaves of his house, it is said that he has delivered the ultimatum —his resignation unless the play is discontinued.

Members of the club admit that a meeting is to be called to discuss the vexing question.

Dean Moses gave his opinion freely. He said: "The point I make is that if people desire to play tennis on Sunday there are plenty of places where the matches can be carried on not so publicly and within a stone's throw of the cathedral. The courts of the Garden City Club are quite public. They must be passed by nearly every one going to church. Just as there are people who wish to dispose of Sunday in sports and otherwise, so there are others who like equally well to spend the day according to the spiritual significance which it holds for them, and it is unfortunate if they may not be allowed to do so, especially within the shadow of their own church."

FOUND SHE HAD NO RIVAL.

Miss Blaney Marries Model Salesman After Year's Careful Research.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 14.—The only traveling salesman who never had a girl in any port until he bacame a fiancé, is married. At least his wife so declares, and she took a full year to slip quietly over his regular territory with her sparkling blue eyes alert for any indications of attachments or matrimonial engagements.

George C. Heilman is the model salesman, and Mrs. Heilman, until yesterday Miss Frances V. Blaney of New Orleans, vouches he is hers and hers alone. They were married at 1 P. M. to-day by Justice Werremeyer at Clayton, Mo.

As salesman for the Standard Oil Company Heilman frequently visited St. Louis. He proposed marriage, but Miss Blaney was of a skeptical nature. Her friends had warned her of traveling men. She put him on a year's probation and did a little detective work of her own. The time expired at noon yesterday and Heilman was present to learn his fate.

"Call a taxi," she said.

Miss Blaney is an orphan and was reared by friends of her family in New Orleans. They left for Louisville, Ky., Heilman's headquarters, to-night.

MLLE. LENCLUD TO MARRY.

French Actress Announces Her Engagement to Comte d'Aultremont.

Mlle. Marthe Lenclud, who has been one of the features at the Folies Bergere, announced her engagement yesterday to Comte d'Aultremont of Brussels. She will leave the Folies Bergere on Saturday night, and with her mother will sail on La Lorraine next Thursday. She expects to be married in Paris within a month.

Mme. Lenclud has been a favorite in Paris for several years. She was trained at the Paris Opera House, and appeared in gala performances before the Shah of Persia and King Alphonso of Spain. She sang the role of Fifi in "The Belle of New York" in Brussels, and there met Comte d'Aultremont. Here at the Folies Bergere she has been billed as the "Venus Apache," and has been popular with the audiences.

Comte d'Aultremont is known in Paris particularly as a racing man, but holds a diplomatic office. Besides wishing Mlle. Lenclud to come back from New York, he also desires that she leave the stage entirely, but she has a three-year contract with the Apollo Theatre, beginning this Fall.

Dillingham to Star Emmy Whelen.

Charles Dillingham, who is now in Paris, yesterday made a contract by cable with Emmy Whelen, the young Austrian singer who appeared here in "Marriage a la Carte," by which she will be starred under his management next Fall. Miss Whelen has just closed her season in "Marriage a la Carte," and will sail for Europe next week for a short visit to her home in Munich. Mr. Dillingham has several plays under consideration for her, and expects to see one at a special performance that is to be given for his benefit at the Stadt Theatre, Carlsbad, during July.

Miss Merle-Smith's Wedding Plans.

Plans for the wedding of Miss Dorothy Merle-Smith, elder daughter of the Rev. Wilton Merle-Smith and Mrs. Merle-Smith, to David McAlpin Pyle, a son of Mr. and Mrs. James Tolman Pyle, have been completed.

The ceremony will take place at 4 P. M. on June 26, at the residence of the bride, 29 West Fifty-fourth Street. No one but the relatives and a few friends will be present at the ceremony, which will be followed by a small reception. Miss Merle-Smith will have Mrs. John Junius Morgan as her matron of honor, and the bridesmaids will be her sister, Miss Anita Merle-Smith, Miss Mary Waller of Chicago, Miss Emily Fox of Philadelphia, the Misses Adelia and Sarah McAlpin Pyle, sisters of the prospective bridegroom, and the Misses Edith Cook, Julia Loomis, and Mary Sturgis.

Mr. Pyle will have his brother, James McAlpin Pyle, as his best man, and there will be no ushers.

Miss Gibson to Wed Dr. Freeman Allen

The engagement is announced at Nahant, Mass., of Miss Mary Ethel Gibson, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hammond Gibson of Boston and Nahant, to Dr. Freeman Allen, only son of the Rev. Henry Freeman Allen of Florence, Italy, late rector of the Church of the Messiah, Boston, and a grandson of Harriet Beecher Stowe.

The wedding will take place in Nahant in July.

Miss Doughty to Wed Wm. L. Nicoll.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Marion Rutgers Doughty, daughter of the late William Howard Doughty of Troy, N. Y., and Williamstown, Mass., to William Leonard Nicoll of New York. Mr. Nicoll is a son of the late Dr. Henry Denton Nicoll, and is a member of the class of 1911 of Princeton University. No date has been set for the wedding.

Spring Lake Fears No Negro Invasion.

SPRING LAKE, N. J., June 14.—Local real estate men are paying little attention to the stories of a threatened negro invasion of a fashionable section of Spring Lake. David R. Riddle, a Belmar real estate man, has a tract of land here, and has declared that unless it is bought from him at a price which is high he will sell it to negroes. Riddle has written, among others, to Martin Maloney, who owns two houses occupied by employes about two blocks from the property. Mr. Maloney's big residence is several blocks away.

JOHANN SVENDSEN, COMPOSER, IS DEAD

Noted Norwegian Had Been the Court Conductor at Copenhagen Since 1883.

EARLY STUDENT OF VIOLIN

His Works Marked by a Strong Individuality and the Finish of the Classical School.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, June 14.—Johann Severin Svendsen, the Norwegian composer, died here to-day.

Johann Severin Svendsen was born in Christinia on Sept. 30, 1840, and was the son of a military bandmaster. He early studied the violin, and composed his first work at the age of 11. After serving in the army as a bandmaster for six years, he went in a traveling orchestra to Lubeck, where he came under the notice of Charles XV. By him he was sent to the Leipzig Conservatory, where he studied under David, Hauptmann, Richter, and Reinecke.

There young Svendsen suffered from paralysis of the hand, and took up composition, writing his quartet in A, his quintet and octet for strings, several quartets for male voices, and his symphony in D. In 1868 he visited Paris, and was a member of Musard's and the Odéon orchestras. He composed the incidental music for Coppée's "Le Passant," in which Sarah Bernhardt and Agar appeared. He also wrote a concerto for the violin in A, and began his Sigurd Slembe overture.

In 1870 Mr. Svendsen visited Weimar and there met Liszt and Tausig, and his fame as a composer was established by the performance of his symphony in D at the Gewandhaus. It was in this year also that he composed his concerto for the 'cello in D, and visited this country, to marry an American. Returning to his native land in 1872 he became for seven years the conductor of the Christinia Musical Association. In 1878 he paid his first visit to London, where he met Sarasate, who assisted him in the performance of his works. For two years he lived in Paris, and he then returned to his native city. Since 1883 he had been Court conductor at Copenhagen.

Mr. Svendsen is best known for his romance in G major for the violin. He was cosmopolitan in the character of his compositions and was not specially influenced by his Scandinavian ancestry and upbringing. His works are marked by a strong individuality and much conciseness, and he gave to them all the finish of the classical school.

Patrick Francis Lynch.

Patrick Francis Lynch, Democratic leader of the Twenty-third Assembly District, Brooklyn, died last night at his home, 1,270 Herkimer Street, that borough, of kidney disease. He had been in poor health for several years. Mr. Lynch was born in Ireland forty-eight years ago, and had lived in Brooklyn about a quarter of a century. For several years he sought unsuccessfully to wrest the Democratic leadership of the old Sixteenth Assembly District from James S. Regan, now Deputy Excise Commissioner in Brooklyn. Several years ago Mr. Lynch, with six other district leaders, bolted the county leadership of the late Senator Patrick H. McCarren. McCarren declared war on the rebels and in subsequent primaries several of their number lost their leaderships, but Mr. Lynch was too strongly intrenched to be overthrown. Mr. Lynch was at one time Superintendent of Wallabout Market. After his break with McCarren, he was made Superintendent of Highways in Brooklyn by Borough President Coler. Mr. Lynch is survived by his wife, two sons, and two daughters. County Leader John H. McCooey will to-day issue a call for a meeting of the Democratic General Committee of Kings County to take action on the death of Mr. Lynch.

Frederick J. Fay.

Frederick J. Fay, Cashier of the Union Trust Company of this city, died at his residence, 410 Macon Street, Brooklyn, Tuesday night of a complication of diseases. He had been connected with the trust company for forty-seven years, and was highly regarded in financial circles. Mr. Fay had been unable to attend to active business for nearly a year. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity, the Royal Arcanum, the Art Collectors' Club of Philadelphia, the Crescent Athletic Club, and the Invincible Club, a Brooklyn Republican organization. He was born in Owego, N. Y., and was in his sixty-second year. Mr. Fay is survived by a widow, six sons, and two daughters.

Miss Irene E. Dixon Dies of Cancer.

COLUMBIA, Conn., June 14.—Miss Irene E. Dixon, prominent socially in New York City, Washington, D. C., and Savannah, Ga., died at her Summer home here last night of cancer. She was born in 1869 in Savannah, Ga., and had lived with her mother at 70 East Seventy-seventh Street, New York City, during the Winters for several years. Three brothers, James M., Charles H., and Meritt W. of Savannah, Ga., also survive. Two years ago Miss Dixon was driving a pair of horses when they bolted, throwing her to the ground. She was injured and later a cancerous growth developed. The funeral service was held this afternoon, the Rev. J. H. Logie of the Fifth Avenue Episcopal Church, New York City, officiating. Burial will be in Oak Hill Cemetery, Washington, D. C.

C. A. Bogardus, Rifle Shot, Dead.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 14.—C. A. Bogardus, for years the world's champion rifle shot, died last night at the Springfield Hospital, where he was taken one week ago suffering from uremic poisoning. He was 50 years old.

Obituary Notes.

JAMES B. WILSON, 60 years old, glove manufacturer and President of the Village of Northville, N. Y., died suddenly on a train between that village and Gloversville yesterday. Death was due to heart disease induced by running to catch the train.

LAWRENCE DILWORTH, a Pittsburg steel manufacturer, died of heart disease at his home in that city on Tuesday. He was 57 years old. He was a member of a pioneer family of Pittsburg and received his education at Lafayette College. He was twice married. His second wife, who was Miss Mary McNeal, daughter of Capt. Albert P. McNeal of this city, survives him. Mr. Dilworth was a member of the Dilworth-Porter Company, Limited, steel manufacturers, and of the wholesale grocery firm of Dilworth Brothers.

Mrs. MARY E. RUSHMORE, widow of Dr. Edward C. Rushmore, died at her home, 202 West Seventy-fourth Street, on Tuesday. She was 81 years old. In 1906 her son, Charles Edward Rushmore, was a Republican candidate for Justice of the Supreme Court in New York County.

The Rev. Dr. FREDERICK D. POWER, known as "Garfield's pastor," having been pastor of the Vermont Avenue Christian Church, in Washington, when President Garfield attended it, and also conducted Garfield's funeral services, died at his home in Washington yesterday. He was 60 years old, and from 1881 to 1883 was Chaplain of the House of Representatives.

VICTOR DUPONT, Jr., aged 58, brother-in-law of Gen. T. Coleman Dupont, President of the Dupont Powder Company, and a distant cousin of Senator Dupont, died at his home in Wilmington, Del., yesterday from a heart affection. He was until his retirement recently a Vice President of the powder company. Mr. Dupont was a son of the late Victor Dupont. He is survived by a widow and son. He was noted as a numismatist.

Mrs. DAISY ACKERMAN MULLER, wife of Paul W. Muller, Assistant Secretary and Treasurer of the Passaic Trust and Safe Deposit Company, died at her home in Passaic, N. J., yesterday. Her husband is the son of the Rev. Dr. I. C. Muller of Paterson.

FRANK W. FOLEY, Secretary to County Clerk Henry A. Molloy of Brooklyn, and President and leader of the young men's Democratic organization of the Eighth Assembly District, died Tuesday night at his home, 472 Degraw Street, that borough. Mr. Foley was 40 years old, and was one of the most active Democratic politicians in Brooklyn. In 1885 he organized the Frank Foley Mutual Aid Association.

Mrs. SARAH ANN BLUNT, who celebrated her one hundredth birthday on last Christmas, died at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Henrietta Harris, 520 Vanderbilt Avenue, Brooklyn, Tuesday night. Mrs. Blunt was born in Maryland, and was a slave before the civil war. For many years she was a servant in the family of Andrew Green of 91 Park Avenue, Manhattan.

THE 'RESURRECTION' ON VIEW

Panel by Perugino Now May Be Seen in the Art Museum—Other New Things.

The beautiful "Resurrection," by Perugino, recently bought by the Metropolitan Museum of Art, is now on view in the recent accessions room on the main floor of the Museum. The picture is a panel 10⅝ inches high by 18 inches wide, and is part of a predella, the other parts of which, the "Nativity," "Baptism," "Christ and the Woman of Samaria," and "Noli Me Tangere," are owned by Martin Ryerson of Chicago. It is not known to what altar they belong.

The "Resurrection" shows a beautiful landscape with Christ in the centre standing upon the open tomb. Three soldiers are sleeping, and a fourth flies to give an alarm. The banner and the vestments of Christ are in red and there is red in the uniform of the soldiers.

In the much-discussed Vatican picture of the "Resurrection," very similar to this, and credited also to Perugino by many authorities, the figure of one of the sleeping soldiers is said to be a portrait of Raphael, who studied under Perugino, and the moving figure Perugino himself. The models who posed for the Vatican and the Metropolitan pictures evidently were the same.

"Winter Light," a landscape by Leonard Ochtman, a gift of Emerson McMillin, is also on exhibition in the Recent Accessions Room. "The Meadow," by W. L. Lathrop, is lent by Grenville Lindall Winthrop, and is on the second floor, Room 13, and a Gainsborough, "Lady Lethbridge," an anonymous loan, may be seen in Room 24.

A bronze statuette of Hermachos, a disciple of Epicurus, said to be one of the finest Greek portraits on a small scale known at the present time, is on exhibition for the first time in Gallery 10 on the first floor. It was purchased by the Museum last year, but has been undergoing cleaning and repairs. It represents a bearded old man, wearing a long mantle and sandals, standing in a thoughtful attitude.

Important additions to the Museum last month were the eighty-nine pieces of Mexican majolica, the most important part of the collection of Mrs. Robert W. De Forest. Mrs. De Forest, who has been collecting pottery for many years, became interested in the Puebla pottery while visiting Mexico in 1904 and obtained the nucleus of her collection at that time. Since then she has added many rare and valuable pieces, and recently acquired the collection of Albert Pepper, an architect of Mexico City.

It has recently been ascertained that the majolica found in Mexico was not of Spanish origin. The Dominican friars of Puebla, finding their Aztec parishioners doing excellent work in their own crude pottery, sent to Spain for members of their own order understanding the Spanish pottery making, and they trained the native workmen. Mrs. De Forest's collection contains specimens dating from 1600 to 1860.

The museum announces this month a new room for ancient glass, and has issued a special bulletin upon the subject. Its collection of ancient glass is now the finest in the world, and it has been arranged in a special room, Gallery 37, adjoining the second vase room. The collection is so large that even with the new arrangement not all of it can be shown. It consists of the Cesnola collection from Cyprus; the Charvet collection, which formerly was considered the finest private collection in France; a collection of Syrian vases, and the Gréau collection, loaned by Mr. Morgan.

A lace mantilla, Spanish, nineteenth century, gift of Mrs. Zelia Nutall, is a recent acquisition. Following the installation of electric lights, the galleries of decorative arts in the new wing now are open Saturday evenings.

Marriage and death notices intended for insertion in The New York Times may be telephoned to 1000 Bryant.

Time of game—One hour and forty-five minutes.

The runaway Detroit Tigers, who are traveling toward the American League pennant on a gallop, struck a snag on the Hilltop yesterday and pulled up short when the Yankees jumped in their path and told them to halt. In an afternoon's skirmish that was invigorating and surcharged with fireworks, the rush of the snarling Bengal was stopped and the New Yorks corralled the game by a score of 5 to 3. There were moments in the clash when the vertebrae of the 12,000 onlookers were magnetized to a point where folks bobbed up and down in their seats in careless glee.

For six innings it was a nip and tuck game, and the fighting teams swung into the seventh chapter with the score tied 3 to 3. In this fitful session Detroit's sawed-off catcher, Joe Casey, exploded like an Anarchist's bomb and threw the ball so far past third base into left field that two Yankees strolled across with the victory. Hartzell was on third at the time and Cree at first. Cree stole second, and Casey made a fake motion to toss to second. Instead he heaved the ball toward Moriarty at third to catch Hartzell napping. Casey's throw was a weird and awful thing to behold. It went by Moriarty to left field, and Hartzell and Cree scored.

Detroit outhit the Yankees, but it was when calamity hovered over the home team that Russell Ford tightened up and spun over tangents that made such sluggers as Ty Cobb and Sam Crawford bow humbly to his craftiness. Right up to the last minute of the game Detroit clamored loudly for victory. An impending rally in the ninth inning put the outcome of the whole show right up to Mr. Ford. Drake, a pinch hitter, opened the ninth, and he fanned.

The heavy end of the Detroit batting order was up. Davy Jones slammed a single to centre field and Owney Bush waited out Ford and walked.

Two on, one out, and Cobb up. 'Phone for the ambulance.

If Ford was ever put to a test it was right here. Remember, Cobb is larruping this cork centre sphere at a .452 tune. The Georgia cracker swung viciously and with evil intent, but Ford had the ball wrapped with elusive hops, and it ducked over and under the slugger's bat playfully until he whiffed once, twice, three times, and was out. Crawford was next, and the danger wasn't over yet. Ford was pitching as he has never pitched before. Amid a boiler-shop rumble and roar the master of the moist toss struck out Waho Sam and the game was over.

There were sparkling bits of fielding throughout the game. Gardner, the Yanks' second baseman, made a great stop off Cobb's bat and also made a fine reach catch while covering first. Bush was a wizard around short stop, and Cobb in centre field made a wonderful grab of Daniels's long fly in the seventh inning, saving the ball from a hard bruise into the centre field bleachers.

Cobb was out yesterday to burn up the base paths on the Hilltop, as he has been burning them up all over the circuit. In the third inning he slammed a stinging grounder through Gardner for a single and raced right on to second. No, he did not perform the miracle. Daniels got the ball back and nailed him at second. In the fifth Cobb got another scratch single, and on the next ball sped down to second at express train speed. Ed Sweeney made a beautiful throw, and Knight pinned the ball on the Georgian as he leaped into the base, his dangerous spikes gleaming as they came.

This, that's to be chronicled now, isn't a transcript from a tablet of the ancient Lithuanians, but is merely a hand full of the jargon which Hugh Jennings has voluntarily contributed to literature. Hear him: "Come on Davy, with the old pepper—'Ataboy—'Atawaytohitem—make it be good, Owney—Whoa-a-a-a !! Eh, yah-h-h!!!—Make it good—give Ty a chance to clean up—Nowsatime—Here we are, you Ty-boy-Not too hard, Tyrus—La, la, la—Ee, Yah-h-h!! Whoa-a!—Ty, not too hard—Stick to 'em, you baby—Here we are, Samuel—I can see it going now. Touch every base, Sam—'Ataswingin'—One of the old timers—Putta old ood to it—Whe-e-e-e, la, la! 'Ataoldpep!!"

The Yankees started out by handing Detroit a run. Davy Jones sent an easy grounder to Hartzell, who tossed it so far past Chase at first that Jones traveled around to third and scored while Gardner was throwing out Cobb at first. Lively, who started on the mound for Detroit, didn't last long. In the second inning the Yankees gathered three runs off him. Cree walked and scored on Knight's double to the score board. Chase sent a bunt to Lively, who threw it wild to first. Chase took a big lead off first, and Casey pegged the ball down to get him. The bulb went far enough out of the groove to let Knight score. Gardner then hit a terrific liner through short, which just tipped the glove of Bush, and Chase rushed home.

Lively opened the third inning with a screeching three-bagger to the right field barracks. Jones and Bush, the next two men up, fanned, but Cobb lammed a lucky hit through second base, scoring Lively. The new Detroit pitcher opened the third inning by walking Wolter. He was immediately dismissed and Eddie Summers was brought on to save the day. Hartzell forced Wolter, and Cree succumbed when Bush made a wonderful catch of his high fly back of short. Knight walked, but Summers got his knuckle ball working and struck out Chase.

With one down in the fourth, Jim Delehanty slammed a ripping three-bagger to left field and scored on Cap Moriarty's single to the right meadow. That tied the score, and the situation became critical. Both teams were playing an airtight defense and were dangerous on the attack and the first slip-up meant the game for the side which didn't slip.

Here's where poor little Casey's unpardonable transgression came. Seventh inning. Daniels smashed the ball high and far into centre field. It was headed for the bleachers and labeled home run. Cobb turned and ran back, almost colliding with the fence in front of the stands. He reached on high and plucked the ball out of the winds. Wolter jammed a hot grounder through Delehanty at first and was safe. Hartzell singled to centre, sending Wolter to third. Cree pushed a grasser at Bush, who scooped it up and chucked it home in time to get Wolter at the terminal.

Cree was off to second like a rabbit. Casey didn't throw to second to get him, not he. He wound up and let the ball fly toward third. The sudden move by Casey surprised Moriarty, and the lurid throw that was coming his way surprised him still more. See the ball bounce and bound all over the lot in left field. Hartzell and Cree romped in and then everybody remarked with surprise, "What a wonderfully strong arm Mr. Casey has."

Chicago's Errors Cost Them the Game

PHILADELPHIA, June 14.—Chicago was defeated in a pitchers' battle of ten innings between Bender and Walsh here to-day, 2 to 1. Both of the home team's runs were made possible by Chicago's errors. Score:

Speaker Hurt; Boston Wins.

BOSTON, June 14.—Boston won from Cleveland, 5 to 1, in the fifth inning to-day, when the locals connected with Mitchell, the visiting pitcher, for four hits, tallying four runs. Speaker of the Boston team strained the ligaments of one of his legs in a slide to the plate and was carried from the field. While painfully injured, his condition is not considered serious, and he is expected to return to the game in a few days. The score:

YALE'S ERRORS GIVE PRINCETON VICTORY

Tigers Win Deciding Game of Series from Elis at Washington Park, Brooklyn.

Princeton and Yale got together at Washington Park, Brooklyn, yesterday in their decisive struggle of the 1911 baseball series, and the Tiger lived up to his custom by taking a fall out of the Bulldog. The game was one of the best played and most bitterly contested struggles in the long series of diamond battles between the two institutions, and the Tiger triumph was not secure until Capt. Sam White tossed Badger out at first base for the final out in Yale's half of the ninth inning. The score was 1 to 0, the lone count being pushed across the plate in the fourth inning, when one of the Tigers' four safties was sandwiched between the only two misplays made by the Eli team. It was the first shut-out scored against a Yale team by Princeton in fifteen years, and it gave the Tigers their fifth baseball triumph over the Elis in the past six seasons.

Steve White, who served up the benders for the boys from Jungletown, was the hero of the struggle. It was his last chance to carry the Orange and Black to victory, and he made the most of the opportunity by pitching the greatest game of his college career. One clean single, a pair of scratch hits, and a lone base on balls was all that White allowed the Elis to gather, and not one of his opponents was able to reach third base. Only five reached first, one getting a life on Sam White's error, and Burdette was the only Eli to reach second. As soon as the last Yale batsman was retired in the ninth inning the Princeton players made a rush for Pitcher White, and, with the assistance of a few hilarious undergraduates, they soon had the victorious pitcher on their shoulders. Then to the strains of "Old Nassau," sung by 3,000 Princeton rooters, they paraded to the clubhouse in deep left field with Princeton's newest hero.

The game drew a crowd of about 8,000 persons, practically all of whom were identified in some way with the two universities. The Princeton rooters occupied the right side of the stand, directly behind the Princeton players' bench, and Yale supporters held down the opposite section. Adherents of Old Nassau seemed to have the edge on the Elis in eevrything. The cheering indicated that Princeton led in numbers, and the cheer leaders saw to it that they also led in activity. From the time that Umpire Stafford announced Steve White as Princeton's pitcher until Badger's out in the ninth inning, Princeton rooters got no rest. The cheer leaders, a full dozen of them, working in relays of three each, were constantly in front of the Princeton rooters, beating time with clenched fists for the locomotive yell, or slowly raising their quivering fingers as they brought the sonorous Tiger growl to its full height. "Old Nassau" was saved until the last, and there was hardly a stir in the crowded stands while graduates and undergraduates alike, with heads bared and hats waving, impressively sounded the words of the greatest of college anthems.

Yale's cheering suffered in comparison with that of Princeton. One leader took care of the work, and he succeeded in getting enough volume on the brek-a-co-ax and the nine Yales, but they were heard very seldom as compared with the almost endless cheers from the Princeton side. In the eighth inning the Eli rooters made a dying appeal to their blue-hosed diamond warriors with Yale's stirring anthem, "For God, or Country, and for Yale," but it proved unavailing.

Spectacular fielding spotted the game from start to finish, both teams taking a hand in the fancy work. Hughes, the lanky first sacker of the Princeton team, was the most conspicuous performer, and yet his greatest play does not appear among his eighteen putouts. It was a one-hand catch of Steve White's futile throw after Burdette had beaten out a hit in the second inning, and although Hughes was thrown heavily as Burdette raced to the bag he held the ball. Later he raced to the stands to pull in a foul fly by Stevens, making another great catch. He handled several ground balls without the sign of a fumble, and altogether acquitted himself like a veteran first baseman. Worthington, Sam White, Merritt, and Stillwell also accomplished flashy work on the left side of the infield, and "Pop" Corey made a fancy stab and a throw to first for a double play.

Jud Hartwell, the Yale pitcher, can hardly be left out of the honor list, even though he did suffer defeat. It was no fault of his that the Tigers got that lone run, two errors being mainly responsible, and with proper support he would have forced the battle into extra innings. He allowed the Tigers only four hits, no more than one an inning, and gave but a single pass. He also made one of the three hits recorded by his team.

Capt. Corey was the guilty Eli who pushed the Princeton run across, but Stilwell must share half the blame, for it was his misplay that made Corey's bad toss possible. Sam White opened Princeton's half of tht fourth inning with a grounder to Stilwell, and he promptly hit the ground on his peg to Reilly at first base. Sterrett followed with a single to right field, and White decided to take two bases on the hit. Corey, in his attempt to get White at third base, threw far to one side, and Merritt had to cover some ground to get in the path of the ball. It bounded past him, and White, who had made third safely, had no trouble registering. Sterrett reached third base on Prescott's sacrifice, but was doubled when De Vito lined into Stilwell's hands. The Tigers got two other runners to third base, but two were out each time, and there was no scoring.

The Elis' lone chance came in the fifth inning, when Burdette reached second on Sam White's error and Merritt's sacrifice. He failed to follow Capt. Corey's orders to go back when Reilly flied to Pendleton, and was the second victim in a double play. The score:

FIRE STOPS NIGHT FLIGHT.

Aviator Fitzsimmons Has Narrow Escape When Gasoline Ignites.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., June 14.—Frank Fitzsimmons, a student of the aviation school at Garden City, to-night made a spectacular flight, and narrowly escaped serious injuries. He went up in a biplane and had reached a height of about 25 feet when the feed pipe of the his engine became clogged, igniting the gasoline in some unknown way. The machine was soon enveloped in flames and he made a hasty landing. He escaped from the biplane and with assistance put out the flames. He escaped with a few burns, but the machine was badly burned.

William Badger of Pittsburg, a pupil of Capt. Baldwin, also met with a mishap. While flying at about 10 feet from the ground something happened to the motor, and the machine fell to the ground, breaking the left plane. The aviator was uninjured.

The aviation field here has developed into a schooling ground and is more than ever popular as a result. This morning Capt. Thomas S. Baldwin had two pupils out, with his Red Devil biplane. Dr. H. M. Walden, in the monoplane over which he worked all last Summer and during the history of which success he narrowly escaped death, got off the ground this morning for a short flight.

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Boston Finishes Strong, but Loses.

PITTSBURG, Penn., June 14.—Boston today made its first appearance of the season in Pittsburg, and was beaten in a close game by Pittsburg, 4 to 3. Pittsburg scored three runs in the eighth inning. In the ninth Boston tied the score. Pittsburg won in the ninth, when, with the bases full, Byrne sent a single into centre field, scoring McKechnie, who ran for Ferry. Score:

Harvard Wins a Ragged Game.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 14.—Heavy hitting in the fifth inning, when Harvard scored seven tallies, insured the Crimson a victory over Holy Cross to-day, the game ending 10 to 5. There was ragged fielding on both sides. Lynch, who started the pitching for the visitors, passed enough men to force in a run in the opening inning, and was displaced by Dunne. After the disastrous fifth inning, Mahoney finished the game, preventing any further hitting. When the game was apparently safe in the fifth inning McKay retired. The score:

AERO CLUB OPENS NEW HEADQUARTERS

Formal Opening of Clubhouse Brings Out Members of Many Organizations.

The new clubhouse of the Aero Club of America, at Forty-first Street and Madison Avenue, was formally opened last night, when several hundred members and invited guests enjoyed the hospitality of the club. In the absence of President Allan A. Ryan, who is on his way to Europe, Dave Hennen Morris, one of the Vice Presidents, and James A. Blair, Jr., Chairman of the House Committee, received the visitors, many of whom represented the clubs affiliated with the organization. Although the furnishings are not quite completed, the visitors were able to form an idea as to the manner in which the clubhouse will be ultimately fitted up. The members and guests began to assemble at 8:30 o'clock and a steady stream passed through the doors until near midnight.

The new clubhouse was originally designed and built as a residence for Col. R. M. Thompson. Onyx and marble, brass and bronze, carved wood and cut glass, silk tapestries, Spanish leather, stained glass windows, and rich upholsteries make the headquarters for aviation one of the most sumptuous in the city. Very few changes were necessary to fit the interior for club purposes, and many of the home features of the house remain unchanged.

The dining room on the second floor, immediately back of the general room, is unusually attractive, and is one of the most beautiful and comfortable club dining rooms in New York. This is pre-eminently the social floor of the club, while the real purposes of the organization will be attained on the floor above, where are located the reading room and library, and the board room and Secretary's office. Reading and writing desks and comfortable lounging chairs are to be found in the library, in which is a splendid collection of works on aviation.

On the next floor are the model and card rooms, and on the top floor five bedrooms, which may be occupied by any member or guest from one day to two weeks. This is expected to be one of the features of the club, as it will be very convenient for out-of-town members or guests. Throughout the house the walls are hung with photographs and drawings of aeronautic interest, while one of the striking features of the club's aeronautic collections are the lantern slides containing views of ballooning and aviation from the early days of both in this country and abroad.

On the ground floor Frederick W. Dallinger, the house clerk, is installed in a large office, while the reception hall is of white marble, and rich red burlap on the walls gives the whole aspect an inviting appearance.

Since the advent of President Allan A. Ryan the Aero Club has made great strides both in membership and aeronautical importance. It is the most important aviation club in either North or South America, and in actual membership and activity compares very favorably with the London and Paris Aero Clubs. President Ryan's energetic administration has done much for the club and largely increased its popularity.

The officers of the club are:

President, Allan A. Ryan; First Vice President, Cortlandt F. Biship; Second Vice President, Dave H. Morris; Third Vice President, James A. Blair, Jr.; Treasurer, Charles Jerome Edwards; Secretary, G. F. Campbell Wood; Directors, Robert J. Collier, William W. Miller, Dave H. Morris, Lyttleton Fox, Lawrence L. Gillespie, Charles Jerome Edwards, Samuel H. Valentine, Alan R. Hawley, Cortlandt F. Bishop, James A. Blair, Jr., Major Samuel Reber, U. S. A.; Russell A. Alger, Detroit, Mich.; Jerome H. Joyce, Baltimore; Albert B. Lambert, St. Louis; Harold F. McCormick, Chicago; A. Lawrence Rotch, Boston; H. La V. Twining, Los Angeles; Rodman Wanamaker, Philadelphia, and Dr. A. F. Zahm, Washington.

Among those present were:

J. H. Wade, Cleveland; H. Holland Forbes, Augustus T. Post, Adelbert G. Lee, Hugo C. Gibson, Christopher J. Lake, Charles Jerome Edwards, Tom Sopwith, England; Alfred N. Chandler, Philadelphia; Col. Jerome H. Joyce, K. M. Turner, W. Benton Crisp, Capt. Thomas Baldwin, Ralph Lee, Erie, Penn.; Wilbur J. Kimball, Capt. L. V. Hoppin, Dave Hennen Morris, Major Samuel Reber, U. S. A., Thomas A. Hill, Lee S. Burridge, James King Duffy, Lawrence L. Gillespie, Charles Knoblauch, Clifford B. Harmon, St. Croix Johnstone, Philip Wilcox, R. F. Dey, Philadelphia; E. P. Langley, Philadelphia; W. E. Taylor, Charles Walsh, Kingston; G. F. Campbell Wood, W. W. Miller, W. Van Sleet, Pittsfield, Mass.; J. A. D. McCurdy, C. J. Legg, Bridgeport; Alfred Lawson, Henry A. Wise Wood, James H. Hare, Harvey Durand, Alan R. Hawley, and Albert Triaca.

NEW YORK GIRLS DEFEATED.

Miss Browning Reaches Semi-Finals in Women's National Tenis.

PHILADELPHIA, June 14.—The semi-final rounds in both singles and doubles were reached as a result of to-day's play in the Women's National championship lawn tennis tournament at the Philadelphia Cricket Club. Three of the four New York players who had survived the previous play were defeated. Miss Marie Wagner, the National indoor champion, was defeated by another New York girl, Miss Adelaide Browning. Miss Edith Handy succumbed to Mrs. Joseph Warren of Boston, while Miss Florence Sutton of California, proved too strong for Miss Edna Wildey, who is included in the Metropolitan district. In the other match Miss Eleanora Sears of Boston defeated Miss Wellington Hardy of Norfolk. To-morrow in the semi-final it will be Miss Sutton vs. Miss Browning, Miss Sears vs. Mrs. Warren. In the feature match in doubles Miss Sears and Miss Hazel Hotchkiss, the National champion, defeated Miss Elizabeth Moore of New York, a former National champion, and Miss Lois Moyes, the Canadian title holder, after a close struggle. Summary:

Singles.—Fourth Round—Miss Florence Sutton, Los Angeles, beat Miss Edna Wildey, Plainfield, 6—1, 6—3; Miss Adelaide Browning, New York, beat Miss Marie Wagner, New York, 6—3, 3—6, 6—2; Miss Eleanora Sears, Boston, beat Mrs. Wellington Hardy, Norfolk, 6—2, 6—2; Mrs. Joseph Warren, Boston, beat Miss Edith B. Handy, New York, 3—6, 6—2, 6—3.

Doubles.—First Round—Miss Wagner and Miss Clara Kutroff, New York, beat Mrs. Hardy and Miss Chase, 7—5, 6—3; Mrs. Gilbert Harvey, Buffalo, and Miss Claire Cassel, New York, beat Mrs. W. H. Pouch, Englewood, N. J., and Miss Handy, New York, 6—3, 8—6; Miss Sutton and Miss Dorothy Green, Philadelphia, beat Miss Bunce and Miss Fleming, New York, 6—0, 6—2; Mrs. Warren and Miss Fox beat M. Sayres and Miss Runk, Philadelphia, 7—5, 6—4.

Second Round—Miss Browning and Miss Wildey beat Miss Cassel and Mrs. Harvey, 7—5, 6—4; Miss Sutton and Miss Green beat Miss Wagner and Miss Kutroff, 7—5, 6—2; Miss Roberts and Miss Ostheimer, Philadelphia, beat Mrs. Warren and Miss Fox, 6—4, 6—3; Miss Sears and Miss Hotchkiss beat Miss Moore and Miss Moyes, 6—4, 4—6, 6—1.

ON THE TENNIS COURTS.

Reuben A. Holden, Jr., the Yale Captain; Karl H. Behr, the internationalist; Frederick C. Inman, New York State champion, and Artemus Holmes won their places in the semi-final round of the cup tournament on the turf courts of the Ardsley Club, Ardsley-on-Hudson, yesterday. The day's rest occasioned by the rain found all of the men keyed up to a fast line of playing, so that the ball was kept swiftly in action in all of the contests. The summary:

Ardsley Cup, Singles, (Third Round.)—Artemus Holmes defeated Hugh Tallant, 6—4, 8—5; K. H. Behr defeated G. F. Touchard by default; H. A. Plummer defeated C. F. Watson, Jr., 6—2, 6—1.

Fourth Round.—Artemus Holmes defeated Dr. W. Rosenbaum, 6—1, 6—4; F. C. Inman defeated W. M. Hall, 6—4, 9—7; K. H. Behr defeated C. M. Bull, Jr., 2—6, 6—1, 6—4; R. A. Holden, Jr., defeated H. A. Plummer, 6—3, 6—4.

Doubles, (First Round.)—C. F. Watson, Jr., and E. P. Larned defeated A. E. Thurber and W. H. E. Hackett, 6—3, 7—5; C. M. Bull, Jr., and H. C. Martin defeated Allan Sankey and S. A. Westfall by default; B. M. Phillips and Dr. W. Rosenbaum defeated R. A. Holden, Jr., and partner by default.

Second Round.—C. M. Bull, Jr., and H. C. Martin defeated B. M. Phillips and Dr. W. Rosenbaum, 4—6, 6—3, 7—5; Dr. A. Stillman, 2d, and Dr. E. E. Taylor defeated J. T. Shaw and G. H. Breed, 6—1, 6—0.

Though the courts were not in the fastest condition yesterday the Amakassin Club tournament was continued, and fair progress was made in the singles, doubles, and the women's singles. The play in the women's singles was considered enlivened by the appearance of Mrs. Frederick Schmitz, the ex-National indoor champion. In her match in the first round she played Mrs. H. C. Manvel. There was some smart work in the first set, which went to Mrs. Schmitz at 6—4. Apparently the effort took all the speed out of Mrs. Manvel, for Mrs. Schmitz won a love set in the second. The summary:

Women's Singles.—First Round—Mrs. Frederick Schmiz defeated Mrs. H. C. Manvel, 6—4, 6—0; Miss Feeter defeated Miss Fish by default; Miss Warner defeated Miss Robinson by default.

Men's Singles.—First Round—J. G. Steinacher defeated M. H. McGuire by default; A. D. Bell defeated E. H. Smith by default; J. C. Tomlinson defeated J. A. Ostendorf, 6—4, 6—2; G. A. Gordon defeated E. H. James, 9—7, 6—1.

Second Round—G. A. Gordon defeated J. B. Smith by default; A. D. Hammett defeated Dr. Rosenbaum by default.

Men's Doubles.—First Round.—J. C. Tomlinson and J. A. Ostendorf defeated J. P. Wyllie and W. A. Johnson by default; J. G. Steinacher and M. Aparicio defeated J. Seaman and A. D. Bell, 6—1, 6—3; G. A. Gordon and F. Washburn defeated H. L. Gilman and R. R. Johnson by default; R. L. Baggs and G. S. Groesbeck defeated M. H. McGuire and Dr. Littell by default; the Rev. E. A. Lowther and A. D. Hammett defeated Langford and Barton by default; S. Howard Voshell and F. C. Baggs defeated Bell and Parr by default.

Second Round—J. C. Tomlinson and J. A. Ostendorf defeated J. G. Steinacher and M. Aparicio, 6—1, 6—2; R. L. Baggs and G. S. Groesbeck defeated G. A. Gordon and F. Washburn, 6—0, 1—6, 6—4; S. H. Voshell and F. C. Baggs defeated the Rev. E. A. Lowther and A. D. Hammett, 6—4, 6—3.

Third Round—S. H. Voshell and F. C. Baggs defeated A. D. Brotton and A. F. Latimer, 6—3, 4—6, 6—3.

Cooperstown Poloists Beaten at Bala.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., June 14.—Bryn Mawr defeated the Cooperstown, N. Y., polo team in a Woodcrest cup series match to-day at Bala, by the score of 6 goals to 4¾. Each team is rated at 17 goals by the handicapper and started on an even footing. Van Stade, the Cooperstown back, scored after six minutes of play in the first period. Bryn Mawr was unable to get the ball behind the goal until the third period, when Strawbridge and Brown each scored. Brown and Harrison scored in the fourth, but the visitors came back strong in the fifth with goals by Van Stade and Stevenson. Beadleston also scored for Cooperstown in the sixth after Brown had made another tally for Bryn Mawr. Stevenson and Strawbridge each scored in the seventh, and the eighth period ended without any further scoring. Cooperstown lost ¼ for a safety.

Sterrett Princeton Captain.

The Princeton baseball team celebrated its victory over Yale at a dinner at the Princeton Club last night. Charles H. Sterrett, '12, catcher of the team was elected captain for next year. Sterrett's home is in Millroy, Penn., and he has played in several positions on the Princeton nine during the past two years.

We don't want to thunder about it, because we've hosts of soft rough cheviot suits.

But in seasons of thunderstorms—or plain rain, the smooth finished goods have distinct advantages.

They hold their shape better, and don't wet so fast.

Of course, they wear better in all weathers.

So we're glad to have plenty of smooth finished goods among this Summer's mixtures, even though our rough Scotch and Scotchy cloths have made such a hit.

because to a side thrust the Republic Staggard Tread presents the effective resistance of six long high edges.

These edges or ridges are higher and sharper than those obtained in any other stud design. Accordingly this tire is the most effective of its type—as a preventer of skidding—a fact which any experienced chauffeur will corroborate.

It withstands regular daily use (unlike the short-lived anti-skid "emergency" tires). With Staggard Treads you are always ready for slimy macadam or wet asphalt.

CORNELL AND PENNSY CREWS ON HUDSON

Coach Courtney Puts Sweet Tooth Freshmen Back in Boat After Suspension.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 14.—Rowing took on a livelier aspect at training quarters here to-day when Cornell and Pennsylvania joined Columbia and Wisconsin. Both squads arrived in good condition, and this afternoon the two coaches had their men out on the Hudson for their first paddle.

"The Oaks" was ready for Courtney when he arrived, and he seemed enthusiastic over the prospects of the next ten days of training. All of his men are in excellent condition, and he apparently is confident of all three of the crews winning, though his enthusiasm over the freshman eight is not as marked. After getting the boats carefully rigged, Courtney, with his squad, laid off until late in the afternoon, and then the order to go out was given. Instead of going downstream, as is his habit, the "old man" took the two eights up to the head of the course, and then sent both crews down over the full course. The four went up to the two-mile mark and rowed down.

The three sweet-tooth freshmen who were banished from their eight a day or so ago learned to-day that Courtney did not mean all that he hinted at. All three of the candy-eating first-year men went back into the eight this afternoon, and some of the members of the Cornell squad remarked that the boat went better for the change. The three men who returned to the freshman eight were Murfey, No. 2; Larrowe, No. 5, and Maclachlan, No. 7. They displaced Morrill, No. 2; Ott, No. 5, and Benson, No. 7.

The freshman eight as it went out on the river this afternoon was boated as follows: Eddy, bow; Murfey, 2; Keys, 3; Hyland, 4; Larrowe, 5; Spransy, 6; Maclachlan, 7; Howe, stroke, and Thorpe, coxswain. There were no other changes in any of the Red and White crews.

The Pennsylvanians did not arrive at Highland until nearly 2 o'clock, and yet at about 3:30 P. M. all the three Pennsylvania crews were on the river for their first paddle. Coach Ellis Ward did some quick work in rigging the boats, and he did not even give the men a chance to go up to their house at Highland before a row. As the 'Varsity swept down to the boathouse after their pull upstream the eight seemed to be rowing in surprisingly good form, and there is no telling what Ward will be able to do toward whipping together a top-notch crew before the regatta, regardless of the fact that he loses his regular stroke oar.

Since Reath has had to leave the first eight, all attention has been given to Hoagland, who was moved down from No. 2, and though he is not the easy, finished oarsman that Reath is, he nevertheless is filling the place fairly well and is working hard. To develop this new oarsman at stroke will require hard, patient work in the few days left, and on this account the Pennsylvania 'Varsity is prepared for long rows in the next few days.

The freshman eight is not very encouraging, and it is apparent that Ellis Ward has not much faith in his first-year crewmen. All through the year they have been more or less handicapped, and even to-day on their first row on the Hudson two of them had to stay out of the boat on account of boils. The afflicted ones are Crawford, at No. 4, and Lancaster, at No. 5, Rankin and Farson filling their places. These are the only substitutes that have been brought along by the Quakers, and there will not even be any substitute four to work out with the 'Varsity. This is the smallest squad that Ellis Ward has ever brought to Poughkeepsie.

The three Pennsylvania shells went out in the following boating order:

'Varsity Eight—Bennet, bow; Cartier, 2; Smith, 3; Delong, 4; Stifel, 5; Shoemaker, 6; Alexander, 7; Hoagland, stroke, and Williams, coxswain.

Freshman Eight—Watrous, bow; Griffith, 2; Hillier, 3; Rankin, 4; Farson, 5; Pennington, 6; Bloom, 7; Brion, stroke, and Newtauer, coxswain.

'Varsity Four—Mulford, bow; Barret, 2; Thompson, 3; Madeira, stroke.

A change was necessitated in the boating of the Wisconsin 'Varsity eight when Samp, at No. 5, who has been in the boat but a few weeks, when he displaced McMiller, had to stay out of the boat on account of an infection in one of his hands. It is thought that this will keep him out for several days. In the afternoon the Badger 'Varsity and freshman eights were taken over their courses in a time trial, the first that Coach Vail has held. Both eights went well, but the Freshman eight is relatively better than the 'Varsity.

The Columbia crews went out late in the morning and evening, and both times rowed up stream. Coach Rice let up a little on the crews after their hard work yesterday. So far, Rice has had very good fortune in none of his squad having ailments serious enough to keep any of the men out of the boats.

YALE'S FOUR-MILE SPIN.

Coach Kennedy Drives 'Varsity Eight Against Tide and Cross Wind in 23:38.

GALES FERRY, Conn., June 14.—Starting at a stroke of 25, which was maintained for two miles of the course and which after passing the two-mile flag was gradually raised until a 35 stroke was reached at the end, the Yale 'Varsity eight went over the full four-mile course down stream to-night in 23:38. Conditions were not favorable, the tide being against the boat, and there was also a cross wind. At the finish the men seemed to have stood the row in good shape, but were taken back to quarters in the launch.

The freshman eight was the first boat to go out to-night and, accompanied by Coach Kennedy, went down to the navy yard and back at an even, steady stroke. All three fours went down stream for two miles, trailing each other, no attempt at fast rowing being made. The first 'Varsity four, which was changed over for the morning practice was restored to its original line-up to-night.

Buckingham of the second four, who has been laid up with boils, left quarters temporarily this afternoon and it is thought that he will not be able to row again this season.

Light Work for Harvard Crews.

RED TOP, Conn., June 14.—Very little work was done by the Harvard crews at to-night's practice. The two eights went out together, the freshmen trailing the senior crew downstream for three and a half miles, and stopped and awaited the return of the 'Varsity, which continued down to the four-mile mark. Both on the way down and on the return the stroke was kept under thirty-four, and no attempt at a brush between the two was made. The three fours paddled up and down for about two and a half miles. Coach Wray gave all his attention to the freshmman eight, letting the other crews take care of themselves. Freshman Manager Amory was pushed into the river for the customary ducking to-night.

COACHING TO "CONEY."

Morris E. Howlett Drives Four-in-Hand with Guests on Meteor.

For the first time in the history of coaching, Coney Island was yesterday selected as the objective point for public coach runs.

At 5:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon Morris E. Howlett's four-in-hand coach Meteor left the Hotel Astor for the first run of the season, and on top were guests of Mr. Howlett and Louis Fischer, proprietor of the New Brighton Casino.

Over 100 enthusiasts were on hand to witness the coach's departure, and more than that number of sightseers were present to greet the coach on its return to Times Square.

The Meteor will make daily trips to Coney Island during the Summer, and on June 20 Mr. Howlett will put the old road coach Magnet in commission for daily trips to Arrowhead Inn. Miss Marion Hollins, youngest member of the Ladies' Four-in-Hand Club, will tool the Meteor on its trip from the Hotel Astor to Brighton Beach Casino and return today.

Heretofore the public coaches operated from Manhattan have started from the Holland House, but as they did not receive the support of the public, Mr. Howlett decided to make Times Square the starting point this year.

DE WITT LEADS TROTTERS.

Charles Weiland's Gelding Wins Point Trophy on Harlem Speedway.

With the awarding of eleven cups to the successful horse owners at Durando's road house after the final matinée, the Spring brushing season of the Road Drivers' Association of New York came to a successful close yesterday. Six of the cups were awarded to the owners of trotting horses scoring the greatest number of points throughout the season and five to the owners of pacers under the same conditions.

After the brushing of the last matinée was completed the members and many of their friends journeyed to the association's club room at Durando's road house. The committee then decided upon the winners of the cups and returned to the club room, where Dr. J. H. Ferster acted as master of ceremonies. The first cup awarded was that to Charles Weiland, owner of the bay trotting gelding De Witt. The latter during the season scored a total of 22 points out of a possible 24, a performance well worth the trophy and by far the best of the entire squad.

The second award was to Thomas B. Leahy, owner of the black pacer Princess Direct, which also scored a total of 22 points. The remaining nine cups were presented in a like order according to the scores of the horses until the last, which was given to The Aristocrat, completed the presentation.

In an address President Gibbons pointed out the increase in light harness racing, and mentioned the fact that the association was at the present time in a much better position than ever before in its history. The membership during the past year has been increased, and the sport of the last brushing season was the best ever witnessed on the Harlem Speedway.

The final matinée brought out some good sport among the various horsemen. In class A, trotting, De Witt, Sid Axworthy, and The Sailorman were pitted against each other, and the victory of Andrew Crawford's The Sailorman over De Witt came as a surprise.

Another remarkable finish was seen in Class A, pacing, when in the first heat Joseph Gibbons managed to bring Hugh Reilly's bay gelding, B. Ontime, home first in front of the famous Princess Direct. In the next two meetings, however, the Leahy pacer lived up to her reputation and won both heats, but by only small margins.

Point Standing, Series of Six Matinees.—Trotting—De Witt, 22; The Sailorman, 20; Elliott B., 20; St. Peter, 18; Trixie H., 18; Francis Milroi, 18. Pacing—Princess Direct, 22; Young Wicklow, 19; B. Ontime, 17; Clover Patch, 16; The Aristocrat, 15.

JUDGE MOORE HORSES WIN.

Novice Tandem Team Captures Blue Ribbon at Olympia Show.

LONDON, June 14.—Judge William H. Moore of New York was the winning American exhibitor at the Horse Show at Olympia to-day. He captured first prize in the class for novice tandems with his pair of bays, Marquise and Lady Auckland. In the class for novice pairs not exceeding fifteen hands, he won fifth prize with Charm and Memento Pride, and sixth with Bruno and Kara.

ELECTRIC SUBURBAN CONTEST

Eleven Starters in Run Finish in Good Condition.

The electric suburbaning contest of the Electric Automobile Dealers' Association took place yesterday on Long Island. Division A, in which men drivers were eligible, was won by R. E. Darling in a Detroit-Electric, who covered the route in 3:26:59. Division B, for women drivers only, was won by Mrs. C. Y. Kenworthy in a Rauch & Lang Electric. Mrs. Kenworthy drove her car over the entire route in 3:27, or one second slower for the secret time prize than the winner of Division A.

The fastest time for the run was made by a Baker ESlectric entered by the New York Edison Company and driven by Hugh Lynch. Lynch's time for the distance, including a stop for luncheon at Bellerose, was 2:33. There were eleven starters, several driven by women, and all finished in perfect order in approximately schedule time. There was no tire trouble on the 38.6 miles run, and no mechanical trouble was experienced, nor was any recharging necessary. The roads were in bad condition, having washed full of holes due to the protracted storms. It was a far more strenuous contest, with far more bumping, than had been anticipated.

It was to demonstrate that the electric vehicle is practical and desirable for trips to and from the suburbs, particularly for women. Inasmuch as several women drove their cars with success, the object of the run was fully achieved.

The cars that participated in the contest, the entrants and drivers and times are as follows:

Harris vs. Smith To-night.

The return bout between Morris Harris of Boston and Jim Smith of Westchester, scheduled for to-night at the National Sporting Club, promises to be one of the best heavyweight bouts of the year in New York. This pair came together several months ago, and the bout was marked by considerable action from start to finish, each handing out considerable punishment. To-night's bout will not only settle the disputed question of supremacy, but it will put the winner in line for considerable coin from bouts with Sam Langford and other prominent heavyweights. Three good preliminaries will be put on by Manager O'Rourke. In the semi-final Larry Ryan and Joe West will exchange punches.

Sullivan Defeats Evans.

Paddy Sullivan, the fighting Irishman, outpointed Young Evans, a Southern welterweight, in the ten-round feature bout at the Sharkey A. C. last night. The bout went the limit and Evans was never in any danger of a knockout, but he showed much less ring science than the Fighting Irishman at every stage of the game. He was several pounds heavier than Sullivan, and the extra weight proved to his advantage in standing the punishment that Sullivan handed out. At the end of the ten rounds Evans's left eye was partly closed from Sullivan's jabs, but he was as strong as in the opening round.

Sherman Defeats Young O'Leary.

Eddie Sherman defeated Young O'Leary, the east side lightweight, in the main bout of ten rounds at the weekly stag of the Brighton Beach Athletic Club last night. Both contestants put up a good fight for the entire ten rounds, and at no time during the bout did the spectators present lose interest in the affair. The east side fighter was in fine form, and put up a good fight, but Sherman was too fast and clever for him, and he earned the popular decision at the end of the bout.

Stone Outpoints Martin.

With a small attendance last night at the Long Acre A. A., the star bout between Harry Stone, the Ghetto champion, and Jack Martin of Brooklyn, was cut to six rounds instead of ten, which had originally been intended. Stone only played with his opponent in the first five rounds, and could have disposed of Martin had he wanted to, but instead he was satisfied with getting the better of each round, and allowed the Brooklynite to stay the limit.

Battling Hurley Gets a Beating.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 14.—Fighting Dick Hyland of California decisively defeated Battling Hurley of Passaic, N. J., in the main bout of ten rounds at the North End A. C. here to-night. Hurley took a severe beating in every round.

Kerrymen's Games at Celtic Park.

The annual outing and games of the Kerrymen's Association will take place on Sunday, June 25, at Celtic Park. The following events are on the programme: One-mile relay race for members of the Kildare and Kilkenny football teams, 220-yard dash for members over 40 years of age, 100-yard dash open to all members, and a running hop, step, and jump. The feature of the outing will be football games Cork versus Kerry and Kildare versus Kilkenny.

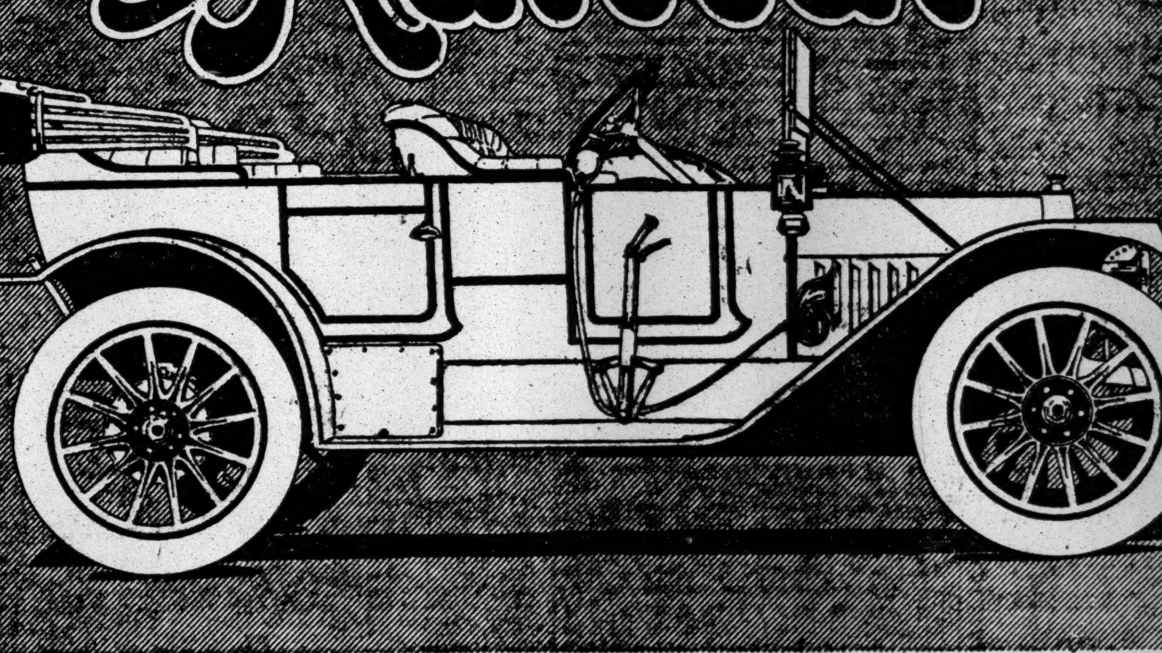
The Autocar



ANNOUNCEMENT

In announcing Model XXIV-B for 1912, we call attention to the graceful lines, luxurious appointments and perfect mechanical construction of this latest product of Autocar development. The new model closely follows, in appearance and design, its predecessor—Model XXIV—whose splendid performance in 1911 has aroused universal interest.

Model XXIV-B will be on exhibition at our Branch Houses in Philadelphia, New York and Boston this week. It is the best car that the Autocar Company—one of the oldest automobile manufacturers in the United States—has ever turned out.

Designed by Mr. Louis S. Clarke, who has built thousands of cars, this new model embraces the best features of American and foreign construction. Mr Clarke and his brother, Mr. John S. Clarke, founders of The Autocar Company, have made frequent trips abroad in the careful study of automobile development, and give to the Autocar the result of their fifteen years of experience.

The 1912 Autocar will give you more value and better service than you can get elsewhere at even a higher price. This is a strong statement, but a true one, as your investigation will prove. The more you examine other automobiles, the more certainly you will come back to the Autocar.

Model XXIV-B has thirty-seven inch wheels, one-hundred-and-seventeen-inch wheel base, and a thirty horse power motor. An important feature that makes for comfort is the low, roomy seats, upholstered in French hand-buffed leather with generous space for foot room between the seats.

Complete equipment is included in the price of Model XXIV-B—extra tire, trunk rack, speedometer, electric and bulb horns, rain vision wind-shield, mohair top and boot, motor-driven tire pump, clock, two gas lamps, three electric and oil combination lamps, gas tank, Truffault-Hartford shock absorbers and full set of tire chains.

Interchangeable Fore-Door Touring Car $2750 Touring Car without Fore-Door $2650

STEEL ORDERS GROWING

Heavy Subscriptions to New Chinese Government Loan—Good Foreign Trade in May.

Since June 1 the average daily orders received by the United States Steel Corporation have been a little larger than the average daily orders received in either May or April. This information gives definite support to the view very generally expressed in steel trade circles yesterday that conditions have improved since the price readjustments which were made three weeks ago. The steel trade organs in their usual weekly reviews referred to the more cheerful tone prevailing in the trade and told that the feeling in the Pittsburg district is that the worst is over and that from this time on improvement is to be expected. The satisfaction expressed in the highest steel trade circles at the course which business is taking is, nevertheless, tempered with some reserve, the feeling being that the Congressional situation, including tariff discussions, is a factor holding in restraint the improvement which otherwise might be even more marked. The better news regarding the steel trade found reflection in yesterday's trading on the Stock Exchange, the noteworthy feature of which was an advance of 1⅛ points in United States Steel. The market as a whole showed considerable irregularity, particularly during the earlier hours of the session, and the declines which occurred during this period left some of the leading issues lower at the close than they had been on Tuesday. A reaction in the copper shares following their noteworthy strength the previous two days was a feature of the trading.

Advance subscriptions for the Chinese Government bonds which were offered for public subscription yesterday were so numerous that the issue promises to be largely oversubscribed. It is realized that this financing and the participation in it of four of the great powers means much more than the mere investment of some $30,000,000 of foreign money in China. Really great interest attaches to this transaction by reason of the things which it implies, among which, in the estimation of those who have followed the prolonged negotiations which led up to the issue, is the fact that American trade in Manchuria may reasonably hope for advantages not now enjoyed, as a result of the position in Chinese affairs assumed by this country and the three European powers in connection with the present bond flotation. Looking further to currency reform in China, following a possible further international issue to be shared in by the United States, there is presented a prospect the realization of which may accomplish much good for our trade with the Far East.

The country's foreign trade for the month of May, the record of which was published yesterday, shows the largest exports and imports ever recorded for that month, with an excess of exports which is the second largest in the last five years. Compared with May a year ago, non-agricultural as well as agricultural exports show a large increase. For the eleven months the excess of exports, which is $501,000,000, has been exceeded during the last ten years only in 1908, when imports were curtailed and exports stimulated as a result of the financial disturbance of 1907.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Panama 3 Per Cents Advance to 103 3-16 in the Curb Market.

COPPER SHARES ARE FIRM

Studebaker Preferred Makes a New High Record and Common Stock Is Active—Manhattan Transit Up.

Trading on the Curb in Panama bonds, when issued, continued active yesterday, and on sales of $750,000 they reached the highest price yet attained, 103 3-16, closing at 103⅛. At the higher price the yield is below 2.80.

The copper group was firm, Inspiration leading in the activity, with sales of nearly 10,000 shares. Manhattan Transit was active, and gained 3-16. Studebaker preferred reached its highest price at 105⅝, closing at the top, and the common shares were active, moving irregularly.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Trading attention in the later dealings on the Consolidated Stock Exchange was particularly focused upon United States Steel common. Reports of improvement in the steel trade stimulated heavy buying of the stock. Its transactions accounted for about one-third of the total sales for the day. Near the opening 300 shares sold as low as 78⅛, which was ⅛ of a point under the New York Stock Exchange low price, but subsequently the tone changed with the price level much of the time a fraction above the other board. A good deal of irregularity was displayed in the market as a whole.

WESTERN UNION DIVIDEND.

Quarterly Declaration at Usual Rate—Loss in Net Revenue.

The Directors of the Western Union Telegraph Company declared yesterday the regular quarterly dividend of three-quarters of 1 per cent. Contrary to the general practice, the board in this company declares dividends just before the end of the quarter instead of after its conclusion, so that the figures submitted by President Vail were of necessity partly estimated.

They indicated a loss in net revenue for the fiscal year, of which this is the last quarter, of nearly $500,000. For the year ended June 30, 1910, the net was $7,274,900, and this year, with the last quarter estimated, it is $6,738,000. Last year the amount passed to surplus after the payment of the 3 per cent. dividend was $2,597,373; this year the estimate is $2,050,000.

President Vail said after the meeting that the falling off was due to increased wages and extensive improvements.

"The business of the company," he said, "has largely increased in the last year, and there has been a gratifying increase in gross revenue, but at the same time there has been a large increase in expenditures. The results of the betterments made will be reaped in the future."

The policy of keeping the dividends at 3 per cent., although the earnings are around 5 per cent., was adopted by the Executive Committee in April last year, when it recommended that no increase in the rate be made until the plant should be put in the highest possible condition, the working condition of employes improved, and salaries rearranged. Col. Clowry, who was then President of the company, added that all earnings above 3 per cent. would be put into the property in order to raise it to the highest standard of efficiency.

The surplus of the company on March 31, 1911, was $9,313,702. The net revenues for the quarter ending on June 30 are estimated on completed returns for April, partial returns for May, and estimating the business for June, at $1,615,000. Interest on bonds will be $433,734, and the dividend declared yesterday will require $747,876, leaving a surplus of $9,747,092.

$2,000,000 BOND OFFER.

Issue of a Missouri Corporation to be Sold Here.

Lee, Higginson & Co. have bought an issue of $2,000,000 5 per cent. sinking fund bonds of the Springfield (Mo.) Railway and Light Company, which they are offering at 96 and interest, to yield 5.4 per cent. The bonds will mature in 1926 and are callable as a whole or for the sinking fund at 102 on any interest date.

The issue is secured, through collateral, by substantially a first lien on the entire street railway, light and power and gas properties in Springfield. A sinking fund will retire 25 per cent. of all the bonds issued under the mortgage.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Hill and the Erie.

Almost exactly ten years ago, when the Great Northern and Northern Pacific jointly acquired control of the Burlington, giving them an entrance into Chicago, the paragraphers persuaded themselves that James J. Hill would shortly add the Erie to his group of railways, thus obtaining a coast-to-coast system. The purchase never materialized. With the filing of the great $600,000,000 mortgage on the Great Northern and the possibility that some time that road may take over the Northern Pacific's half interest in the Burlington, Mr. Hill has again been credited with intentions on the Erie. The veteran railroad builder could hardly find adequate means to express his disgust at this report when it was brought to his attention yesterday. "What would we do with the Erie?" he asked. "The market for the products we haul out of the Northwest is Chicago. Very little of our freight is shipped through to New York. I don't want the Erie."

Banks Taking Securities.

The large sums of money for which there has been no borrowing demand have influenced National banks to buy more securities than usual. This condition is partly responsible for the excellent market for short-term notes which has been in evidence recently. These notes return a higher rate of interest than long-term issues and help the banks to make money on deposit with them earn its keep until it again becomes in demand. Four of the largest National banks in New York City reported bonds, securities, &c., on hand as of June 7 to the amount of $150,164,554, as against $127,728,984 on March 7, an increase of $22,435,570. On June 30, 1910, the total securities held by these institutions amounted to $103,846,900, showing an increase of $46,317,654 in less than a year.

Crop News Attracts Attention.

Yesterday brought to Wall Street its first news of the year in regard to damage to the Spring wheat. The continued drought and unusual heat in parts of the Southwest are threatening to keep down the size of the crop. Last year the discouraging crop news was being supplied by the Northwest, and its reliable nature was demonstrated by the partial failure of the wheat yield which followed. By way of contrast, this year's news from that section is almost entirely favorable, and the rains which have been falling at opportune times are believed to presage a record breaking crop. Corn, too, is making excellent progress, and if the present indications are borne out it will be a good year for livestock, with a check to the advancing price of hogs.

Texas Stock Down.

Shares of the Texas Company, which is commonly spoken of as John W. Gates's oil company, continue to sell off, in spite of the generous dividend treatment which the owners have received. On transactions of 800 shares yesterday the common stock sold from 125 down to 121, where it closed with a loss of 3 points for the day. This establishes a new low record for the issue since its listing. In 1910 it sold as high as 144, and as recently as Feb. 1, 1911, it was quoted at 136½. No bad news has accompanied the decline, unless the recent increases in its liabilities through new bonds and stock be considered such. The issue is now on a 10 per cent. basis, which means a return of 8.2 per cent. on shares bought at yesterday's closing price. At the end of the day the quotation for the stock was 100 bid, 120 asked.

Export Rail Prices.

The committee which is investigating the Steel Corporation for the House of Representatives practically announced its intention yesterday of calling James A. Farrell, President of the company, to tell the committee why it is possible to sell steel rails abroad cheaper than at home. Mr. Farrell, until his elevation to his present office, was in charge of the export business. The Steel Corporation has made no secret of the fact that export prices are lower than those for home consumption. Officials maintain that this is good business policy, which results to the advantage of the home market. They say that by finding a market outside of the United States at reduced prices they are enabled to keep their plants in operation on such a scale that local users of steel benefit, and it is not necessary to discharge a large number of employes whenever the domestic demand falls off.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money on call loaned on Stock Exchange collateral at 2¼@2½ per cent., with the last loan at 2¼ per cent. Most of the day's loans were made at 2⅜ per cent.

Time money rates, 2½@2¾ per cent. for sixty days, 2¾@2⅞ per cent. for ninety days, 2¾@3 per cent. for four and five months, 3¼@3½ per cent. for six months, and 3½@3¾ per cent. for seven months.

Commercial paper was quoted at 3¼@3¾ per cent. for two to four months and at 3½@4¼ per cent. for five to seven months, according to grade.

Private discount rates abroad: London, 2 5-16 per cent., up 1-16 per cent.; Paris, 2⅛ per cent., unchanged; Berlin, 3½ per cent., up ⅛ per cent.

New York Clearing House statement: Exchanges, $303,923,841; balances, $12,126,330; Sub-Treasury debit balance, $1,531,295.

The local banks have lost $210,000 on their Sub-Treasury operations since Friday.

CABLE AND SIGHT RATES.

London—Cable, $4.8610; demand, $4.8590.

Paris—Cable, $5.20⅝, plus 1-64; check, $5.20⅝, less 1-64.

Offer United Coal Notes.

In connection with an announcement of the purchase by the United Coal Company of Pittsburg of 75 per cent. of the stock of the Merchants' Coal Company, J. S. & W. S. Kuhn are offering $750,000 6 per cent. notes of the United Coal Company, issued to reimburse that concern in part for its acquisition. The operation of the various sinking funds will retire the bonds before one-half of the coal in the one seam now being worked is exhausted.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Boyer, Griswold & Co. have opened a branch office at Narragansett Pier.

J. S. Bache & Co. will open their branch office at Saratoga to-day under the management of Ford A. Widrick.

A dividend of 3 per cent. has been declared by the Lawyers Title Insurance and Trust Company, payable July 1, 1911.

The Excelsior Savings Bank voted yesterday to pay interest at the rate of 4 per cent. on deposits for the six months ended June 30.

The Metropolitan Savings Bank has declared its one hundred and sixteenth consecutive semi-annual dividend at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum.

The trustees of the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank have declared the semi-annual dividend at the rate of 4 per cent. This is the fifteenth consecutive dividend at this rate and the one hundred and twenty-second in the history of the institution.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, June 14.—Money was plentiful and discounts were firmer to-day.

The stock market was more cheerful, with gilt-edged securities and consols better under fair support. Home rails were steadier, although the shipping troubles checked operations. Foreigners ruled firmer, and copper shares showed continued strength.

American securities opened steady, and ruled rather irregular. A better tone, however, developed later in the session under support of United States Steel shares, and the closing was steady.

Money, 1@1¼ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 2 5-16 per cent.; for three months' bills 2 5-16@2⅜ per cent.

Bullion amounting to £193,000 was taken into the Bank of England on balance to-day.

Gold premiums are quoted at Madrid, 8.15; at Lisbon, 9.

PARIS, June 14.—The tone of the Bourse to-day was generally firm.

Three per cent. rentes, 95f 17½c for the account.

Exchange on London, 25f 30½c for checks.

BERLIN, June 14.—Prices on the Boerse to-day showed some improvement, but profit taking depressed Canadian Pacific.

Exchange on London, 20 marks 43½ pfennigs for checks.

Money, 3 per cent.

Private rate of discount, 3½ per cent.

TO KEEP NEW BOND RECEIPTS

Treasury Against Letting Any of Panama Issue Remain as Bank Deposits.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The Government's issue of $50,000,000 Panama bonds promises to be so successful that there will be no chance that any part of the proceeds of the issue may go to banks as deposits.

Several large banks have tacitly offered to subscribe the whole issue if the Treasury would permit them to hold the money. Secretary MacVeagh and his advisers have decided that the proceeds of the bond sales must be brought to the Treasury to strengthen the working balance and replenish the general fund for expenditures on the Panama Canal.

Bids for the issue will close next Saturday. Although it is reported that some large syndicates have been organized to take a large part of the issue Secretary MacVeagh has not changed his determination to give preference to smaller bidders if possible.

TWO BANKS ARE MERGED.

Fourth National Gets Control of the Fourteenth Street Institution.

The Fourteenth Street Bank, a State institution, was affiliated with the Fourth National yesterday through changes in the Directorate, accompanied by substantial transfers of stock. It will be turned into an uptown branch of the Fourth National, and some suitable change in the name will be made.

At the meeting of the Directors yesterday, John F. Carroll, who has disposed of his interest, retired as Vice President of the Fourteenth Street Bank and four other members of the board also retired. In their places were elected James G. Cannon, President of the Fourth National; Samuel S. Campbell, Vice President; Welding Ring of Mailler & Quereau, Moreau Delano of Brown Brothers & Co., and Henderson M. Wolfe, Chief Auditor of the City Finance Department.

Mr. Cannon, who becomes one of the large stockholders, was elected Chairman of the Executive Committee and Mr. Wolfe Vice President, in Mr. Carroll's place. R. Ross Appleton continues as President and Richard I. Brewster as Vice President.

NOTICE OF ELECTION TO REDEEM.

To the Holders of Above Bonds:

Des Moines, Iowa Falls and Northern Railway Company (an Iowa corporation), and St. Paul and Des Moines Railroad Company (an Iowa corporation), its successor, having elected to redeem the entire issue of the aforesaid First Mortgage Five Per Cent. Gold Bonds at one hundred and five per cent. (105%) of their face value and accrued interest pursuant to the provisions of Article Second of the First Mortgage of Des Moines, Iowa Falls and Northern Railway Company to Colonial Trust Company, Trustee, dated July 1, 1901, securing said bonds, HEREBY GIVE NOTICE that they will, on July 1, 1911, redeem the entire outstanding amount of said bonds at one hundred and five per cent. (105%) of their face value and the accrued interest on said bonds to the date of redemption above designated. The Railway Company and the Railroad Company, its successor, require that on and after said redemption date, said bonds, accompanied by all appurtenant unmatured coupons, be presented for redemption and payment at the office of The Trust Company of America, No. 37 Wall Street, Borough of Manhattan, New York City, New York (said trust company being the successor to Colonial Trust Company as Trustee under said Mortgage.) Interest on all of said bonds will cease from and after said July 1, 1911.

The notes we are offering are part of an issue of $1,500,000, of which $750,000 have been sold and are in the hands of banks, institutions, and private investors.

The present issue of $750,000 is made to reimburse the company in part for the acquisition of 75% of the capital stock of the Merchants' Coal Company. These combined properties have recently been appraised at over $19,000,000, while the combined bonded debts of the companies aggregate but $11,481,000.

The United Coal Company now stands third in the amount of coal mined annually in the Pennsylvania field. Its properties are located in the famous Pittsburgh District and in the Johnstown Basin, Pennsylvania.

The properties of the Merchants' Coal Company are located in the Johnstown Basin and in Preston County, West Virginia. The total area of thick coal contained in the Johnstown Basin is less than 20,000 acres, of which the Merchants' Coal Company owns 14,000 acres and the United Coal Company 4,000 acres. This Basin contains all of the thick, high-grade merchantable coal of the "Upper Kittanning" or "C" Prime seam in the County.

We call attention to the following points, which contribute to the attractiveness of this investment—

1. The large equity in excess of the bonded debt.
2. The ample sinking funds, by the provisions of which the bonded indebtedness will be retired before one-half of the coal in the seam now being worked will have been mined.
3. More than 35,500 acres of valuable coal lands, containing 552,400,000 tons of coal.
4. The unexcelled shipping facilities—each of the ten mines of the Company being located on at least one of three great railroad systems, three of the mines, in addition, being located on the Monongahela River, also. The Company also owns 1,010 steel cars and 150 river craft and one steamboat.

We recommend these notes for conservative investment. Special circulars and additional details will be furnished upon request.

STOCKS OUT OF TOWN

Failure to Increase Dividends as Expected Restrained Advances in Baltimore and Philadelphia.

SEARS-ROEBUCK DECLINES

Common Stock Closes at 142½, Off 2⅜, Although June Sales Have Shown Small Gain.

Disappointed expectations of higher dividends played an important part in yesterday's trading in Baltimore and Philadelphia.

Baltimore Bank stock made a further advance of 4½, and again reached a new high record price on the Baltimore Exchange. The rise in the price of this stock since the beginning of the week has been nearly 9 points. Baltimore Trust rose one point. Consolidated Gas, Electric Light and Power lost ¾, to 93¼. The Directors of the company yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent. The general impression has prevailed for some weeks that the stock would be placed on a 6 per cent. basis, and while there was general disappointment that the dividend declared was unchanged the price of the stock showed only a fractional decline.

A firm undertone was noticeable in Boston's copper shares, and prices advanced all along the line. Houses with New York connections were large buyers of Keweenaw, advancing the price from 2⅛ to 3½. North Butte sold up to 35⅝, and U. S. Smelting to 40⅛, on transactions of over 2,500 shares in each. The close was strong at slightly under high prices for the day.

Chicago stocks showed some irregularity in price changes, with decided tendency toward heaviness. Trading was moderate in volume. Principal among the declines was that in Sears-Roebuck common, which lost more than 2 points, closing at 142½, compared with 144⅞ last night. Sales of the company thus far in June as reported are between 2 and 3 per cent. ahead of last year's corresponding period. There were fractional concessions by Illinois Brick, Chicago Telephone, Commonwealth Edison, and People's Gas, and small gains were scored by Diamond Match and Can preferred among others. There were bids on the Chicago Exchange yesterday for the elevated railroad stock deposit receipts issued by the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank slightly under the current market prices of the various stocks for which the merger syndicate has made bids.

Some disappointment was expressed yesterday afternoon in Philadelphia financial circles over the failure of the Philadelphia Company's Directors to declare an extra dividend. The regular 6 per cent. rate was announced, but the Street had been inclined to look for an additional 1 per cent. disbursement, as was made last year. The result was a decline of nearly a point in the stock, which of late has been bulled on the basis of the expected extra distribution. On the other hand Electric Storage Battery hardened in the final hour on the theory that the former 5 per cent. dividend rate would shortly be restored. The quotations advanced close to 56 at the last.

Yesterday's transactions on the various out-of-town Exchanges, as reported to THE NEW YORK TIMES, were as follows:

Better Treasury Showing.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The end of this month promises to find the Federal Treasury in a better condition than it has enjoyed for two years. While the fiscal year already shows an ordinary surplus of more than $8,000,000 as against a deficit of $13,000,000 a year ago at this time, there is promise that the total deficit now standing at $21,000,000 may be much reduced before the new fiscal year begins.

All corporation taxes should be in by the end of the month. Nearly $2,000,000 has been paid so far this month. The estimated total income from that source is $26,000,000.

All sources of income except customs receipts have produced more this year than last year. Expenditures will show little change.

Imperial Chinese Government Loan

5% Hukuang Railways Sinking Fund Gold Loan of 1911

AUTHORIZED BY IMPERIAL EDICT

Which has been communicated to the Ministers in Peking, of Great Britain, Germany, France, and the United States of America.

The Imperial Chinese Government agrees that Principal and Interest shall be Free from Chinese Taxes and Imposts.

ISSUE OF

First Series of £6,000,000 5% Sterling Bonds,

(constituting part of the above Loan which is limited to £10,000,000) for which subscriptions to the amount of £1,500,000 are being invited respectively in New York, in London, in Germany, and in France.

In Bonds to Bearer of £100 and £20 each, with half yearly Coupons attached for interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum payable December 15th and June 15th.

A full six months' Coupon for £2:10:0 per £100 will be payable Dec. 15th, 1911.

Principal and interest payable in London in Sterling, and in New York, Germany, and France, in Dollars, Reich marks, and Francs, respectively, at the exchange of the day on London.

The Loan is redeemable at par within 40 YEARS FROM JUNE 15TH, 1911, by annual drawings commencing December 15th 1921, in accordance with the Amortization Table which will be printed on the Bond; the first payment being made on June 15th, 1922. The Imperial Chinese Government has, however, the right, on giving six months' previous notice to the Contractors for the Loan, to increase the amounts for redemption on or after that date; any Bonds so redeemed in advance of scheduled date up to June 15th, 1928, are to be redeemed at a premium of 2½ per cent., viz., at £102 10s. per £100 bond, but after that date redemption will be at par. When drawn the bonds will be payable at the offices of the contracting Banks in London, New York, Germany, and France.

For detailed information which has been furnished to the undersigned, concerning this issue of bonds, reference is made to a prospectus approved by the Chinese Minister in London, from which we quote as follows:

> "This Loan is issued to provide capital for the construction of Chinese Government Railway Lines in the two Provinces of Hunan and Hupei (which formerly constituted the one Province of Hukuang) and, incidentally, for the redemption of the outstanding Gold Bonds amounting to U. S. $2,222,000, of the Chinese 5% Gold Imperial Loan of 1900 issued by the American China Development Company in connection with the Agreement obtained by that Company in 1898 and annulled in 1905, for the construction of a Railway from Hankow to Canton."
>
> "The net revenue of the Railways in each year after their construction is to be applied by the Imperial Chinese Government in the first place to the service of the Loan for that year, and any surplus revenue for that year is to be deposited with the contracting Banks in Shanghai or Hankow, up to the amount required to pay the following year's instalments of interest on the Loan; and the Imperial Chinese Government undertakes that, after redemption of the before-mentioned gold bonds, the Railways shall under no circumstances be mortgaged nor their receipts given as security to any other party so long as the Loan is unredeemed."
>
> "This Loan, which is the direct obligation of the Imperial Chinese Government, both as to principal and interest, is, together with the second series of £4,000,000, specifically secured by a first charge upon the undermentioned Provincial Revenues, which are declared by the Loan Agreement to be free from all other loans, charges or mortgages:
>
> 1. Hupei General Lekin amounting to two million (2,000,000) Haikwan Taels a year;
> 2. Hupei additional Salt Tax for River Defence amounting to four hundred thousand (400,000) Haikwan Taels a year;
> 3. Hupei new additional two cash Salt Tax of September, 1903, amounting to three hundred thousand (300,000) Haikwan Taels a year;
> 4. Hupei Collection of Hukuang inter-provincial Tax on imported Rice, to the amount of two hundred and fifty thousand (250,000) Haikwan Taels a year;
> 5. Hunan General Lekin amounting to two million (2,000,000) Haikwan Taels a year;

Referring to the above, the undersigned, joint contractors with the Hongkong & Shanghai Banking Corporation, London, the Deutsch-Asiatische Bank, Berlin, and the Banque de l'Indo-Chine, Paris, hereby offer for public subscription £1,500,000 of the above bonds, at the price of 97% and accrued interest, New York Stock Exchange usage as explained below (£1 Sterling equal to $5).

The subscription will be closed at 3 O'CLOCK P. M. on MONDAY, JUNE 19, 1911, or earlier, the right being reserved to reject any or all applications and also in any case to award a smaller amount than applied for. The undersigned reserve the right to close the subscription at any time without notice.

All subscriptions (to be made on forms which can be obtained at the offices of the undersigned) are to be accompanied by a deposit of $25 in New York funds per £100 bond subscribed for. Subscriptions must be for £100 face value or any multiple thereof.

If no allotment be made on a subscription, the deposit in respect thereof will be returned in full. If only a portion of the amount so applied for be allotted, the balance of such deposit will be applied toward the amount due on July 11, 1911, without additional allowance of interest. If any further balance remains, such balance will be returned. Failure to pay the second instalment when due will render the first payment liable to forfeiture.

The rate of exchange fixed by the undersigned, for subscriptions in New York, is $4.86¼ per £1 Sterling, at which rate the New York issue price of 97 per cent. and accrued interest (figuring $5 per Pound Sterling, according to the usage of the New York Stock Exchange) is the equivalent of 99¾ and accrued interest London usage, not considering stamp.

Payment for bonds allotted is to be made in New York funds as follows:

On application	$ 25.00 per £100 bond
On July 11, 1911	461.68 " " "	which includes an adjustment of the accrued interest.
Total	$486.68

Upon payment of the final instalment, bearer receipts will be delivered by the undersigned in exchange for allotment letters duly endorsed. Warrants for the semi-annual interest due on December 15, 1911, will be attached to the receipts.

The bonds will be delivered in exchange for the receipts as and when the completed bonds are received by the undersigned.

M. E. MOORE, Assistant Secretary.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

WHEAT.—There was a change of character in the wheat market, prices generally making an advance of about a cent a bushel, with the close at or near the best prices for the day. The advance was the result, evidently, of a sold-out condition of the market, with some slight change in the tenor of the crop news in the Northwest, and some help from the bull interests still long of wheat at the West. The finding by the Chicago committee that the squeeze in May was an unintentional corner may have encouraged some speculative buying. There were a few damage reports from scattered counties in South Dakota and in Minnesota. These had considerable influence, but the damage news was not serious, and most reports from the Northwest are very favorable. An early rain, however, in South Dakota would be desirable. In the Winter wheat districts the weather was very favorable for harvest; cutting is progressing rapidly, and with the dry weather the wheat will be quickly available for market. The special crop advices on Winter wheat to The Northwestern Miller point to an early harvest and to a record crop in the Central West. In the Northwest conditions the past week have continued of most promising character, and the wheat crop is making good growth, and is thick on the ground. The flour trade is generally dull. Cash wheat is slow, and the eight million bushels of contract wheat at Chicago is not being distributed. Foreign markets are relatively firm, and the Budapest market has been strong on unfavorable crop accounts. Export sales were made of nine loads of wheat, New York and outports. No. 2 red quoted at 96c, free on board; No. 1 Northern, $1.03, and No. 1 Manitoba, $1.05.

CORN.—Trade was active and prices irregular, closing at a small net loss for the day. Prices sold off early, on reports of rains in Iowa and Nebraska, cooler weather, and predictions of showers west of the Mississippi and in Illinois. Receipts continue liberal, although country acceptances are said to be light. Prices made a strong rally in the afternoon with other grain, closing very steady. The weather reports indicate great need of rain, but the development of low barometer in the Rocky Mountain region and the prediction of showers, gave hope of some relief shortly. Cash corn was quiet. Exporters reported 48,000 bushels. No. 2 corn was quoted at 60¾c, free on board.

OATS.—The market was active, with prices moving down during the morning on showers in the great producing States of Nebraska and Iowa, making strong recovery in the afternoon, on the continued complaints of drought damage, and reports that crops were beginning to suffer in South Dakota and Southern Minnesota. The close was at a slight net advance for the day. Receipts West, while somewhat less than last week, are still in excess of last year. Cash oats were firm, with standards 44½c; No. 2 white, 45c; No. 3 white, 44c.

PROVISIONS.—Trading was light again, but prices were very steady, showing a small net gain for the day, apparently due to some predictions of smaller movement of hogs. The day's receipts of hogs were heavy, however, amounting to 143,000 at the leading Western points.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Switching operations continue with evidence of leading holders, both speculative and for account of refiners, supplying the demand of shorts, who also are replacing sales further ahead. The July option is the centre of attention at present, and while there are many bulls on that month, the opinion is expressed that considerable of the speculative holders will be forced to liquidate prior to any general advance. On the other hand, it is asserted that the purely speculative long account has been overestimated, and those delivering oil may be surprised with the readiness at which tenders are absorbed. Decline in cotton reflecting possibilities of some rain was ignored, as was the lard market. Demand for oil continues of a hand-to-mouth character. Future prices follow:

COTTON.

Further evidence of the market having reached an overbought condition was disclosed during yesterday's session, and on the mere possibility of showers in extreme western Texas and Oklahoma there was a steady stream of selling orders. Official forecasts were for probable showers in Oklahoma, and increasing cloudiness in parts of Texas, but further than this there was little to justify the hopes of drought being relieved. Toward the finals, however, the selling became more persistent, with bottom prices reached at the finals, and the New Orleans market showed some further reaction, following the local close. A wire from Fort Worth stating that it was clouding rapidly there, with prospects good for rain, was mainly instrumental in the closing recession.

Gains at the start of from 2 to 5 points were registered, with cables from Liverpool above expectations, and a better spot demand noted in the foreign market. The map was also dry, but demand for futures was not urgent, although on the scale down spot interests were identified as among the buyers. Part of this demand was credited to trade account, and the impression was that it was probably influenced by the belief that something more than scattered showers is necessary to benefit the crop, which has been suffering for several days for the want of rain. Bulls were giving but little support—in fact, were thought to be selling quietly at various times without altering their position.

The detailed weather reports failed to indicate any moisture in the belt, excepting for scattered showers in the Savannah district. The private crop accounts to hand lack novelty, with those from the West reiterating the need of rain, while Eastern dispatches were uniformly favorable. The Montgomery Advertiser had reports indicating that the crop of Alabama is 5 per cent. above the normal, growing nicely, practically free from grass, strong and healthy, while bugs had only infested the plant in a few places.

The trade situation shows no particular change with the firmness of manufacturers in asking higher values maintained. Stocks of goods in consumers' hands are admittedly light, which naturally makes for good fundamental conditions, but there is still a disparity between the raw material and the price of manufactured goods to be remedied prior to any sustained improvement in the milling situation.

Southern spot markets were generally unchanged, and are presenting little feature. Locally spots were quiet, middlings 10 decline at 15.80. The certificated stock at New York at present amounts to 94,000 bales, with shipments about commensurate with arrivals. A year ago certificated stocks were 156,000 bales. Future prices follow:

BANKRUPTCY NOTICES.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, SOUTHERN District of New York.—In the matter of DAVID KALOGERATOS, Alleged Bankrupt.—No. 15,064.

It appearing to my satisfaction by the petition of Moses Cohen, verified the 9th day of June, 1911, that a petition in bankruptcy was filed in this court on the 12th day of May, 1911, praying that the above-named David Kalogeratos be adjudged a bankrupt, and that a subpoena directed to the said alleged bankrupt was duly issued out of this court to the Marshal of this district, and the said Marshal has been unable to serve same, and that the said alleged bankrupt is not now within the district so that personal service can be made upon him, and that diligent effort has since been made to ascertain the whereabouts of said alleged bankrupt, but that he is not now within the jurisdiction of this court, it is now on motion of Moses Cohen, attorney for the petitioning creditors,

Ordered that the above-named alleged bankrupt plead, answer, or demur on or before the 3d day of July, 1911, to the petition herein filed in the office of the Clerk of this court on the 12th day of May, 1911, and in case of his failure to plead, answer, or demur thereto, adjudication shall be made according to the prayer of said petitioner, and it is further Ordered that this order be published in The New York Times once a week for two successive weeks, said publication to commence not later than the 15th day of June, 1911, and that a copy of this order be mailed to the said alleged bankrupt at his last known residence, 181 Avenue B, Borough of Manhattan, New York City, on or before the date of the first publication.

Dated June 12th, 1911.

LEARNED HAND, U. S. D. J.

DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES, Southern District of New York.—In the matter of MARX RIVESMAN, Alleged Bankrupt.—No. 14,932.

Notice is hereby given that Marx Rivesman, alleged bankrupt, has filed his petition praying that the composition heretofore offered by him to his creditors and accepted in writing by a majority in number of creditors whose claims have been allowed, which number represents a majority in amount of such claims, may be confirmed by the court, and that all creditors and other persons are ordered to attend at the hearing upon said petition before the Honorable Judges of the United States District Court, in the United States Court House and Post Office Building, in the City and County of New York, on Monday, June 26th, 1911, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon, and then and there to show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of the said petition should not be granted, and also attend the examination of the alleged bankrupt thereon.

New York, June 14th, 1911.

NATHANIEL S. SMITH, Special Master.

NO. 14,301.—IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF the United States for the Southern District of New York.—In Bankruptcy.—In the matter of HYMAN FISCHLER, Bankrupt.

To the creditors of Hyman Fischler of the City and County of New York and district aforesaid, a bankrupt:

REFEREES' NOTICES.

SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF NEW York.—WILLIAM PARKIN, as the person appointed by the Supreme Court to execute the trust created by the last will and testament of SUSAN A. REMSEN, deceased, plaintiff, against MAY R. CALTHROP and others, defendants.

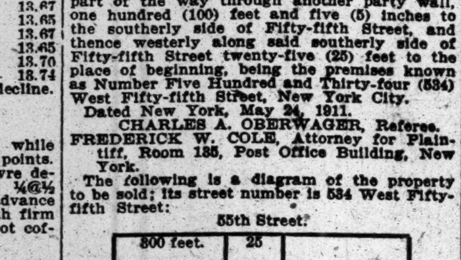
In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale, duly made and entered in the above-entitled action, and bearing date the 23d day of May, 1911, I, the undersigned, the referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction, at the Exchange Salesroom, Nos. 14-16 Vesey Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 15th day of June, 1911, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, by J. H. Mayers, Auctioneer, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows:

All that certain lot, piece, or parcel of land, with the buildings thereon erected, situate, lying, and being in the City of New York and bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a point on the southerly side of Fifty-fifth Street distant three hundred (300) feet easterly from the southeasterly corner of Fifty-fifth Street and Eleventh Avenue and running thence southerly parallel with Eleventh Avenue and part of the way through a party wall one hundred (100) feet five (5) inches to the centre line of the block; thence easterly along said centre line twenty-five (25) feet; thence northerly parallel with Eleventh Avenue and part of the way through another party wall, one hundred (100) feet and five (5) inches to the southerly side of Fifty-fifth Street, and thence westerly along said southerly side of Fifty-fifth Street twenty-five (25) feet to the place of beginning, being the premises known as Number Five Hundred and Thirty-four (534) West Fifty-fifth Street, New York City.

Dated New York, May 24, 1911.

CHARLES A. OBERWAGER, Referee.
FREDERICK W. COLE, Attorney for Plaintiff, Room 135, Post Office Building, New York.

The following is a diagram of the property to be sold; its street number is 534 West Fifty-fifth Street:



The approximate amount of the lien or charge to satisfy which the above described property is to be sold is eleven thousand four hundred and forty-six 11-100 dollars, ($11,446 11-100,) with interest thereon from the 22d day of May, 1911, together with costs and allowance amounting to three hundred and twenty-seven 35-100 dollars, ($327 35-100,) with interest from May 23, 1911, together with the expenses of the sale. The approximate amount of the taxes, assessments, and water rates, or other liens, which are to be allowed to the purchaser out of the purchase money, or paid by the referee, is $330 26-100 and interest.

Dated New York, May 24, 1911.

CHARLES A. OBERWAGER, Referee.

SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF NEW YORK.—JOSEPH J. BRADY, Plaintiff, against WILLIAM HAUPTMANN et al., Defendants.

In pursuance of an interlocutory judgment of partition and sale, duly made and entered in the above-entitled action and bearing date the 19th day of April, 1911, and of an order duly made and entered therein, bearing date the 25th day of May, 1911, I, the undersigned, the Referee in said judgment and order named, will sell at public auction, at the Exchange Salesroom, Nos. 14-16 Vesey Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 20th day of June, 1911, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, by Joseph P. Day, Auctioneer, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows:

All those certain lots, plot, pieces, or parcels of land, with the buildings and improvements thereon erected, situate, lying, and being in the Borough of Manhattan, City, County, and State of New York, bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a point on the southerly side of One Hundred and Fourth Street, distant ninety-three (93) feet four inches easterly from the corner formed by the easterly side of First Avenue and the southerly side of One Hundred and Fourth Street; running thence southerly parallel with First Avenue, and part of the distance through a party wall, one hundred (100) feet eleven (11) inches to the centre line of the block; thence easterly along said centre line of the block one hundred and nineteen (119) feet eight (8) inches; thence northerly and again parallel with First Avenue one hundred (100) feet eleven (11) inches to the southerly side of One Hundred and Fourth Street; thence westerly along the same, one hundred and nineteen (119) feet eight (8) inches, to the point or place of beginning, said premises being known by the street numbers 404 to 412 East 104th Street, both inclusive.

Dated New York, May 26th, 1911.

MICHAEL J. EGAN, Referee.

The following is a diagram of the property to be sold; its street Number is 404 to 412 East 104th Street, both inclusive:

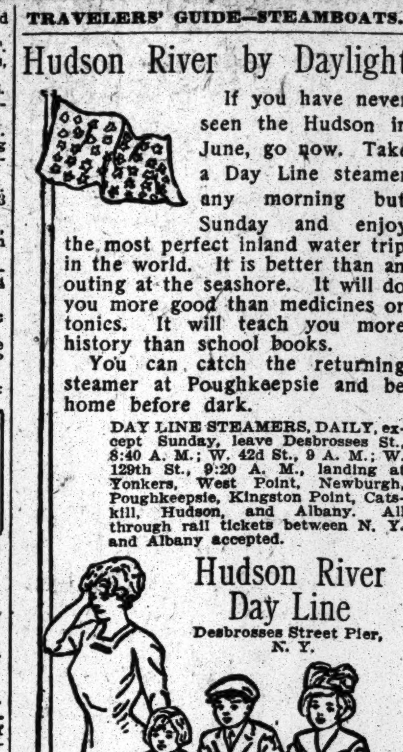
TRAVELERS' GUIDE—STEAMBOATS.

Hudson River by Daylight



If you have never seen the Hudson in June, go now. Take a Day Line steamer any morning but Sunday and enjoy the most perfect inland water trip in the world. It is better than an outing at the seashore. It will do you more good than medicines or tonics. It will teach you more history than school books.

You can catch the returning steamer at Poughkeepsie and be home before dark.

DAY LINE STEAMERS, DAILY, except Sunday, leave Desbrosses St., 8:40 A. M.; W. 42d St., 9 A. M.; W. 129th St., 9:20 A. M., landing at Yonkers, West Point, Newburgh, Poughkeepsie, Kingston Point, Catskill, Hudson, and Albany. All through rail tickets between N. Y. and Albany accepted.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, June 14. — Low pressure, with unsettled weather, prevails generally over the country, and during the last twenty-four hours there were showers and thunderstorms in New England, the Middle Atlantic States, and over widely scattered areas to the Rocky Mountains.

Temperatures were moderate, except in the Plains States and the Lower Mississippi Valley, where they continue high, Fort Worth, Texas, reporting the maximum of 106 degrees.

Indications are that the weather will continue generally unsettled over the country for the next few days.

Temperatures will not change decidedly.

Winds along the New England Coast will be light to moderate, west; Middle Atlantic Coast, light to moderate, west to northwest; South Atlantic Coast, light to moderate and variable.

Steamships departing Thursday for European ports will have moderate west winds and generally fair weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECASTS FOR TO-DAY AND FRIDAY.

Eastern New York, New Jersey, and Eastern Pennsylvania—Generally fair Thursday and Friday; moderate temperature; light to moderate northwest to north winds.

New England—Fair Thursday, except showers in North and East Maine; Friday fair; moderate west winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau is as follows:

	1910.	1911.		1910.	1911.
3 A. M.	61	63	4 P. M.	81	71
6 A. M.	61	63	6 P. M.	78	71
9 A. M.	69	66	9 P. M.	72	65
12 M.	78	71	12 M.	68

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 67; for the corresponding date last year it was 71; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 68.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 64; at 8 P. M. it was 66. Maximum temperature, 73 degrees at 5 P. M.; minimum, 62 degrees at 4:30 A. M. Humidity, 86 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 66 per cent. at 8 P. M.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Important Deal in the Times Square Section—West 71st Street Dwellings to Make Way for Big Apartment — Adolph Lewisohn Adds to His Washington Heights Holdings.

Several important deals in which the Times Square section and upper west side apartment house property figured prominently, imparted a decidedly active tone to the realty market yesterday, in which respect the record of the last few days was well maintained. The old Brearley School property at 15 and 17 West Forty-fourth Street, having a fifty-foot frontage and adjoining the Berkeley Lyceum on the east, has been sold to an investor, but just what disposition will be made of the plot was not stated by the brokers, the Douglas Robinson-Charles S. Brown Company. The property has been held at $250,000, and it is one of the few remaining parcels available for improvement in one of the most prominent club blocks in the city, the block between Fifth and Sixth Avenues being the home of the New York Yacht, Yale, Harvard, and City Clubs, and the Bar Association. The school bought for its new quarters a few months ago the southwest corner of Park Avenue and Sixty-first Street, where a fine school building is being erected.

Another feature of interest in the Times Square district was the report that Mecca Temple is negotiating, among other sites, for the northeast corner of Broadway and Thirty-seventh Street, owned by the Hobart estate, and that if it is decided to take the property on a long lease a twenty-five-story business building may be erected.

On the west side the most interesting deal and which illustrates the remarkable activity in new apartment house operations, was the sale by Slawson & Hobbs of the three five-story flats at 117, 119, and 121 West Seventy-first Street, covering a plot with a frontage of 75 feet and 102.2 deep. The property has been sold for the Emily C. and John H. Edelmeyer estates, and has been bought by A. L. Mordecai & Son, who have announced that they will immediately tear down the buildings and erect a high-class nine-story apartment house. Adjoining the property to the west is the German Evangelical Lutheran Church, thus insuring excellent light on that side, while on the east is a five-story flat separating the plot from the Hargrave Hotel. The property was to have been sold at auction by Joseph P. Day to-day.

The three flats which are to be torn down are in good condition and well rented, having been erected as a permanent improvement about sixteen years ago. Mordecai & Son, a short time ago, bought another big parcel in the same block, 138 to 144 West Seventy-first Street, having an eighty-foot frontage on which it was then stated that an apartment house would be erected.

The old Dakota stables at Broadway and Seventy-fifth Street, regarding which some improvement was said to be under advisement a short time ago, will be altered, it was stated yesterday, into a three-story business building for the Bradley Contracting Company. Frank Bradley of the company has purchased the interests in the property from William Crawford. The property occupies the block front on the south side of Seventy-fifth Street, between Broadway and Amsterdam Avenue, 212 feet on the street, 50 feet on Amsterdam Avenue and 54.2 feet on Broadway.

Lewisohn Enlarges Uptown Plot.

Adolph Lewisohn, who is an extensive owner of Washington Heights property, has added to his holdings there by purchasing from Joseph J. Geraty a plot 56 by 113 and irregular, on the west side of Broadway, twenty-six feet north of 169th Street. By this purchase Mr. Lewisohn controls the block front from 169th to 170th Street, with the exception of the 169th Street corner, on which there is a five-story flat, erected before the opening of the Subway. Francis B. Robert represented the seller, and L. J. Phillips & Co. the buyer in the transaction.

Operators Buy Tenements.

Wilbert B. Morgan has sold through Hall J. How & Co., 1,480 Second Avenue, a four-story flat with stores, on a lot 22.2 by 75. Lowenfeld and Prager are the buyers. The property is located on the northeast corner of Seventy-seventh Street.

The Llewellyn Realty Company has sold 108 and 110 East Ninety-first Street, two five-story flats on a plot 54 by 100.8. Property in White Plains was given in part payment.

M. Kaldrovics has sold to M. Greenberg for investment the five-story single flat 302 East Eighty-second Street. M. Kite negotiated the sale.

S. H. Raphael Company have sold 225 East Eighty-ninth Street, a five-story, twenty-family tenement house, on plot 25 by 90 by 100, for $30,000, to a client for investment.

The Private Dwelling Market.

John D. Conboy has purchased from Florence H. Ross 326 West Nineteenth Street, a three-story dwelling, on a lot 21.10 by 92.

John T. Brook has purchased from P. Augustus Choquette 231 West Fifty-second Street, a private dwelling, on lot 18.9 by 100.5, about 125 feet west of Broadway. Edgar A. Manning was the broker.

Lorillard Spencer a Buyer.

Lorillard Spencer bought at auction yesterday the five-story school property at 35 and 37 East Sixty-second Street, for many years occupied by the Keller School, occupying a plot, 40 by 100.5, located 125 feet east of Madison Avenue. It was sold in foreclosure by Joseph P. Day to satisfy a mortgage of $133,566 held by the Mutual Life Insurance Company, the defendants being E. I. Keller and others. Mr. Spencer paid $147,000 for the property.

Sale on West 125th Street.

Another important sale in West Harlem, where there has been considerable activity during the past couple of weeks, was reported yesterday by Max Marx, who resold to Picker Brothers 313 and 315 West 125th Street, a plot 50 by 109.10, located 200 feet west of Eighth Avenue. The five-story building on the premises was recently seriously damaged by fire. The buyers will remodel the building into a fireproof structure, and will occupy part of the premises for their business. Mr. Marx recently purchased the property from the Cromwell estate.

Another Big Dyckman Deal.

The Deane Realty Company has sold for the estate of Isaac Dyckman the triangular block formed by the intersection of Hawthorne Street, Naegle and Tenth Avenues, to Max Marx. The block has a frontage of 122.6 feet on Tenth Avenue, 100.4 feet on Naegle Avenue, and 70.3 feet on Hawthorne Street. Mr. Marx purchased from the same estate last week the triangular block at the 207th Street Station, bounded by Emerson (207th) Street, Post and Amsterdam Avenues, with frontages of 74.1, 105.9, and 129.2 feet respectively.

Bronx.

Williams & Grodginsky have sold to Knox McAvoy the five-story apartment house, on plot 125 by 64 by irregular, at the southeast corner of Brook Avenue and 162d Street. The Bronx Courthouse is directly opposite. Arnold Byrne & Baumann negotiated the sale.

F. M. Weiss & Co. have sold the plot, 100 by 100, northeast corner of Zerega and Maclay Avenues, to the Zerega Avenue Improvement Company, which will erect five three-family dwellings. The same firm has sold to the Pelham Improvement Company two six-story flats, in course of construction, on the east side of Benson Avenue, 100 feet north of Frisbie Avenue. The buyer gives in exchange the plot, 114 by 45, northeast corner of Mapes Avenue and 178th Street. The latter property was resold to Joseph Diamond, who gave in trade two two-family houses, 1,757 and 1,759 Bronxdale Avenue.

Julius Levy & Son have purchased from Leader & Silverman 1,624 and 1,626 Washington Avenue, a new six-story new law house, on plot 50 by 100, adjoining the northeast corner of 172d Street.

Suburban.

C. H. Hawley has purchased from R. J. Horner a new stucco house on Bayside Boulevard near Warburton Avenue, Bayside, L. I., on a plot 75 by 125.

Terence F. Smith has purchased from B. Cassazza the corner of Crescent Street Plaza, near the corner of Crescent Street. The price was not made known, but it is said that it was a top price, in view of the anticipated transit improvements in that section.

As a result of this purchase Mr. Smith now owns more than half of the block on the south side of the plaza, from Crescent Street, and directly opposite the new building of the Queensboro Corporation.

Recent Buyers.

James A. Allen is the buyer of 312 West Eighty-third Street, the sale of which by Isaac Steigerwald was reported Monday.

Robert Alexander is the purchaser of 55 West Fifty-sixth Street, recently sold by Wilber C. Goodale and Folsom Brothers for Charles E. Rushmore. Mr. Alexander is preparing plans to alter the house into stores. This will be the first business improvement for this block.

Lillia B. Hyde Buys in 40th Street.

Lillia B. Hyde increased her holdings on the northwest corner of Madison Avenue and Fortieth Street by taking title yesterday to the plot at 15 East Fortieth Street from the estate of Sarah C. Cisco, the consideration being given as $125,000. She gave back a mortgage of $80,000. The plot is 25 by 98.4 and adjoins the vacant plot adjoining Mrs. Hyde's former residence on the Madison Avenue corner, both of which were leased for a long term a year ago to the Anderson Auction Company.

$2,000,000 Tax Reduction in Queens.

A reduction of over $2,000,000 in the assessment for 1911 on the Rockaway Peninsula has been announced by the Tax Department at Long Island City. The contest waged by the Fifth Ward Property Owners' Association, of which William S. Devery is President, brought about this result. It is now conceded that had property owners made a uniform protest there would have been a horizontal cut throughout the entire peninsula.

Record Week for Mortgages.

The Title Guarantee and Trust Company reports the sale last week of 139 mortgages aggregating $1,778,325. This is the largest amount sold in any one week with one exception during the past two years. In the week ending March 3, 1911, the aggregate sales were $3,507,500, but this included one mortgage of $3,000,000. Considering that we are getting into the Summer season, this large sale of mortgages is an encouraging sign.

Queens Building Record.

All previous building records for Queens were broken last week when the total of permits issued by the Building Bureau totaled $1,071,836. In all 246 permits for new buildings were issued, with 26 alteration permits amounting to $17,110. Out of this total 95 of the permits were for the erection of that number of two-story brick dwelling houses in the Ridgewood section to cost $285,000. The majority of the other permits are for dwellings to cost from $8,000 to $10,000.

Notes.

George R. Read & Co. negotiated the sale of the Woodward estate at Mount Kisco, N. Y., of which Jesse Straus was the buyer.

F. C. Wolbert will sell at public auction on Friday, June 16, on the premises, at 2 o'clock, the real estate formerly occupied by the Jersey City High School.

Irving H. Wolfe has severed his connection with the Peerless Realty Company, of which he was manager, and is now located at 141 Broadway, where he will conduct a general suburban real estate business.

Van Vliet & Place have leased for Hugh Reilly for a term of three years the dwelling 74 Jane Street, and for Conron Brothers Company the three-story dwellings 687, 688, 689, 690, and 691 Hudson Street.

BROOKLYN—FOR SALE OR TO LET.

For Sale.—To make possible an immediate settlement of a trust and to avoid the delay attendant upon a judicial sale, my clients will sell, for the extremely low price of $110,000, a very desirable dock property situated on Newtown Creek, Borough of Brooklyn. The property has a water frontage of 250 feet and consists of twenty-five lots. This offer is solely conditioned upon an immediate cash sale, to be consummated within thirty days. While the owners are willing to pay the usual broker's commissions for a sale of the property, no attention will be paid to answers to this advertisement from brokers desiring to generally list the property on their books. For maps and full information with regard to property apply to Louis H. Porter, attorney for trustees, 140 Nassau Street, New York, N. Y.

NEW YORK STATE—SALE OR LET.

READ THIS:

Fronting 450 feet on the beautiful Shore Road at Grand View, only 100 feet from the Hudson and commanding a superb view of the Tappan Zee Bay, is a parcel of nearly 4 acres. In the centre, with a fall of some 30 feet, is a wonderful spring, which cascades over picturesque red sandstone rocks with an unvarying and neverfailing flow. There are many great shade trees, a natural trout pool and glorious scenery. The surroundings are high-class residential—no railroad tracks nor commercial features. Gas, electric light, telephone; few minutes' walk from station and yacht club. Hour from terminal building. The cheapest, most unique building site on the Driveway. Fountains, pools, and other water effects can be had and dry weather does not affect the flow. Write me about it.

LONG ISLAND—FOR SALE OR TO LET

The Tuxedo of Long Island

The grand old Taylor Estate at Bayside, Queens Borough, L. I., has been turned into a Residential Park.

This highly cultivated estate, with its 230 picturesque, rolling acres, its old manor house, its fresh water lakes and its winding roads, cool walks, and bridle paths, shaded by century old trees, has long been considered one of the finest country estates in the East.

This new colony of little country estates suggested its own name:

Oakland

18 Minutes From Herald Square

A skilled landscape architect has divided this beautiful estate into plots of one-fourth to one acre, according to the demands of the landscape. Each plot is a miniature country estate and an ideal setting for a homestead. Prices are $8,000 and up, reasonable terms.

The famous Oakland Golf Club, formerly a part of the estate, is within the park confines. Two fresh water lakes and frontage on the bay, offers outdoor sports and entertainment to suit all desires.

Oakland is entirely different from other developments. It is old country, not new. It is in New York, though not of it. All city improvements, including sewers, water, gas, and electricity. Only 18 minutes from Herald Square on the new Pennsylvania Railroad. Just long enough to run through the morning paper.

No other location has so much to offer in natural beauty, exclusiveness, or accessibility. Write for booklet, map, and price list.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Leather Shoes Not "Rubber Manufactures"—Other Decisions.

The action of the customs authorities in classifying shoes imported by the Morris European and American Express Company, Ltd., as "manufactures of rubber" was reversed yesterday by the Board of United States General Appraisers. The assessment called for a duty of 35 per cent., whereas the importer made the claim that the shoes are dutiable at only 10 per cent. on the value under the proviso to Paragraph 450, which relates to shoes made in chief value of leather.

Protests by Ungerer & Co. and Heine & Co., dealing with the classification of artificial musk, were overruled. Assessment was made at 25 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 3 of the present Tariff act as a chemical compound. It was claimed to be dutiable at 20 per cent. as a preparation of coal tar, not medicinal.

F. Bredt & Co. were sustained in their contention that fine plain lappings and strong twill lappings are entitled to enter under Paragraph 357 at the rates there provided according to the weight and count of threads. The Government had assessed the goods at the rate of 44 cents a pound and 50 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 378 of the woolen schedule. General Appraiser Chamberlain found that flax is the component material of chief value in the goods.

Lower rate of duty was granted by the board on importations of kippered herring. The merchandise was imported in tins and assessed at 30 per cent. The importers alleged that the proper duty is one-half of 1 cent a pound. The Collector's assessment is reversed. The importers concerned include E. W. Shippee, the S. S. Pierce Company, Rosenstein Brothers, A. Roberts & Co., and H. W. Peabody & Co.

The following importers failed to support their claims which were overruled: The Houghton & Dutton Company, Paul Gelpi & Sons, Musoline & Berger, P. Pastene & Co., the S. S. Pierce Company, J. J. Buchey & Co., Hawley & Letzerich, the C. Hommel Company, the Vitor Manufacturing Company, Sinclair, Rooney & Co., Oberle & Henry, Texas and Pacific Railway Company, and C. D. Stone & Co.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

MAX WEINSTEIN, (ELITE SILK COMPANY,) silks, 640 Broadway. Petition by J. H. Fithian & Co., $50; Pelgram & Meyer, $300, and Austin McNeal, $411. Liabilities $20,000 and assets $1,000.

DALY & SCHAEFER, INC., silks and dress goods, 19 West Thirty-fourth Street. A meeting of creditors was held yesterday at the office of William Allen, referee, 67 Wall Street. Edward B. Boise was elected trustee.

HYMAN J. LEVIN.—Walbridge Taft, a nephew of the President, was appointed by Judge Hand receiver yesterday for Hyman J. Levin, real estate dealer, 1,531 Madison Avenue; bond, $500. The assets are estimated at $1,000, consisting of interest in deeds and mortgages and unfinished building operations.

F. & H. LEVY MANUFACTURING COMPANY, post cards, at 114 Park Row and 53 Crosby Street. Schedules show liabilities of $40,012 and assets consisting of stock, $24,554; machinery, $2,709; accounts, $2,932; cash, $1,617; notes, $43; insurance rebate, $15, and paintings, $60. Among the creditors are R. Priester, $2,578; Selmar Bayer, $2,318, both of Berlin; R. Kathman & Co., Leipsic, $2,179, and Felix and Harry B. Levy, $2,699.

Soldiers in Games at Peekskill.

The handicaps were announced yesterday by H. Obertubbesing, the official handicapper of the A. A. U., for the camp athletic and field meet of the Twenty-second Regiment Engineers of New York, which is to be held at Camp Roe, Peekskill, N. Y., to-day. The veterans of the regiment are making this a special day for the excursion and have chartered the steamer Sirius, which leaves Pier 1, North River, at 9 A. M. and West 129th Street at 10 A. M. They cordially invite all the friends of the regiment to attend. Judging by the long list of entries received, keen competition is anticipated by each company to secure the majority of the individual as well as the point and relay trophies in the valuable list of prizes offered.

Many Wants Are Filled.

¶ Many readers are attracted to the Want columns of The New York Times in search of definite items; some seek boarding houses or furnished rooms, others are looking for work, some are watching for business opportunities, still others are prompted in scanning the Want advertisements in an endeavor to locate the owners of Lost articles, while others examine the Want columns to see if there is presented a chance for money making that is to their advantage.

¶ To all readers of the Want advertisements in The New York Times there is an excellent suggestion in the thought, "If you don't see what you want ask for it". If what you are interested in is not listed in the Want columns to-day send a Want advertisement of your own for to-morrow's issue of The New York Times. Telephone Bryant 1000.

STRANGLED WOMAN'S HUSBAND IS HELD

Coroner Charges Him with Murder, but There's Little Evidence Against Him.

NEIGHBORS STAND BY HIM

He Establishes What Appears to be a Complete Alibi Through Railway Officials.

William Simmons, husband of the woman who was found strangled to death in the bedroom of her White Plains home on Tuesday morning, was committed to the Westchester County Jail yesterday by Coroner Squires without bail on a charge of homicide. The police, who up to a late hour on Tuesday said they believed the woman had committed suicide and that there was not the slightest suspicion against her husband, changed their minds late that night, after subjecting him to a long examination, and held him on a technical charge of vagrancy.

The Coroner held a preliminary hearing yesterday morning, and as a result of the evidence in hand decided to hold Simmons on a charge of homicide. The developments of yesterday strengthened the case against him somewhat, although the police admit that at present there is not enough evidence to warrant conviction.

An autopsy was performed yesterday afternoon by Coroner Squires, who is a physician, assisted by Coroner's Physician Philip O'Hanlon of this city. They decided at its conclusion that a murder had been committed. The physicians were positive that the woman could not herself have inflicted the injuries that caused death.

The autopsy established that the bone behind the cartilege that forms the "Adam's apple" had been broken. The walls of the windpipe also were found to have been crushed together. The physicians said this meant more strength than the woman could have exerted on herself, and also that she could not have survived to tie the second pillow sham in a double knot around her neck, after the first had been tied, with enough pressure to produce the fracture of the bone and the condition of the windpipe described.

It was also established that the marks on the woman's throat were made by human hands not her own. A microscopic examination revealed indentations of finger nails. Her own nails were so short that she herself could not have made the marks, according to the Coroner.

The police say they have now established a motive for the killing, the seemingly entire absence of which was so puzzling at first. They have picked holes in the neighbors' tales of a perfect family life and established that Simmons was friendly with other women than his wife. The police say that Simmons talked freely on this subject and said it had been the cause of quarrels between himself and his wife.

The police learned the identity of several of these women, one of whom had been at the Simmons home during the absence of the wife. One of them was a young woman living in Mount Vernon whom Simmons met as late as last Sunday. He accompanied her to Clason Point. The police found her at her home on North Terrace Avenue, Mount Vernon, yesterday, and she turned over 110 post cards and many letters he had written to her. Coroner Squires and the police attach great importance to the letters.

Simmons's alibi seems conclusive, and he has not varied his story of the night's events to any extent. He contradicted himself in one instance on the point of his wife's appearance the last time he saw her alive. First he said she was fully dressed when he left the house and later that she was standing at the top of the stairs in her nightdress when he returned for the luncheon box he had forgotten.

His story is to the effect that he spent the early part of Monday evening with the members of the Chatterton Hose Company, of whose automobile truck he is the driver. While they were playing cards a telephone call came for him from the railroad to take a train to West Albany. He went home to get supper and left the house at 9:10 P. M., returning the next morning at 11:30 to find his wife dead. The police have verified his movements from the railroad officials and others. If the woman was murdered some time in the early morning hours, as the Coroner thinks from the condition of the body, Simmons's alibi seems complete.

His neighbors believe in his innocence, declaring the family dwelt always in peace. But he admitted to the authorities that his wife found letters in his pockets about a year ago which acquainted her with his relations with other women. He says they quarreled bitterly on this occasion. After that, the police say, quarrels were frequent.

The mother of the dead woman, Mrs. Anna Demurse of North Adams, Mass., arrived at White Plains yesterday afternoon. She expressed a wish to see her son-in-law in his cell, but the police would not let her. She refused to believe that Simmons was responsible for her death.

BODY FOUND HANGING TO TREE.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 14.—Following closely upon the mysterious death of Mrs. William Simmons here yesterday came the discovery to-day of the body of a man with a bullet hole behind the right ear. He was found hanging to a tree in the woods at Valhalla, four miles north of this town. The body was discovered by three Italians who went to the woods to get a load of stones.

They were so frightened that they did not stop running until they had reached the camp of workmen employed on the Kensico Reservoir. Sergt. John Doyle of the Aqueduct police stationed at Valhalla cut the body down and then the bullet wound was discovered.

It was first thought that the man had committed suicide, but when a revolver was found twenty feet from the body it was decided that the man could not have shot himself after he had tied the noose around his neck and then tossed the weapon away. The bushes near the spot were trampled down, but the fact that the man's money was not missing adds to the mystery.

Late this afternoon the body was identified as that of John Anderson, a carpenter, who was employed in building the new bridge over Mud Gutter Brook, near Kensico Village. About 1,000 men of all nationalities are employed around Kensico Reservoir and frequent assaults and hold-ups occur there.

A FRENCH INSTITUTE HERE.

Plan Takes Form at a Meeting in Paris—Committee Appointed.

PARIS, June 14.—The proposal to found a French institute in the United States took form at a meeting to-day in the Ministry of Public Instruction, which was attended by a large number of well-known Frenchmen and Americans. The plan, as outlined by McDougall Hawkes of New York, was fully indorsed by the meeting.

Mr. Hawkes said it was proposed to establish first in New York, and later in the other principal cities of the United States, museums of decorative arts on practical lines, in no way clashing with the great museums such as the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York. The institute would also promote the exchange of professors and students between the universities of the two countries and found an information bureau with the object of developing relations among savants and artists.

A committee to arrange for the establishment of the institute was elected as follows:

Honorary Presidents—The Ministers of Public Instruction and Foreign Affairs, the Under Secretary of Fine Arts, the Ambassadors of the two countries at Washington and Paris, the Prefect of the Seine Department, the President of the Paris Municipal Council, Gabriel Hanotaux, President of the Franco-American Committee, and Auguste Rodin.

President—M. Poincaré, ex-Minister of Finance.

Vice Presidents—M. Liard, Vice Rector of the University of Paris; Leroy White, McDougall Hawkes, François Carnot, M. Bayet, Director of Higher Education, and Henri Le Grand, Councillor of State.

Secretaries—Charles Bedier of the College of France and M. Goulet.

Treasurer—Marcel Poete, Commissioner of the Library of the City of Paris.

PORTUGAL MENACED.

Great Numbers of Royalists on Frontier—Troops Hastily Moved.

LISBON, June 14.—The provisional Government learned on Sunday that the Monarchists, who have renewed their activities to overthrow the republic, were approaching Chaves in great numbers. Republican troops were immediately concentrated there.

Capt. Couceiro and Commander Coutinho, the royalist leaders, thereupon moved their forces to a point near Braga, which is the weakets spot along the frontier.

Last night the Government concentrated troops in the territory opposite the Royalist positions and posted artillery in the hills. Confidence is felt that any attack of the invaders could easily be repulsed. It is the general opinion that the Royalists will not attempt to force their way into Portugal.

WOMAN DROPS STARVING.

After Partly Vain Trip to Children's Society with Eight Little Ones.

Mrs. Bertha Price, 38 years old, who up to yesterday morning, when they were dispossessed, lived with her eight children in three rooms at 806 East Ninth Street, collapsed on a Third Avenue car from starvation last night, after vainly trying to have the Children's Society take seven of her children. Mrs. Price is now in Bellevue Hospital in a serious condition, and the children are being cared for at the East Thirty-fifth Street Station until to-day, when they will be taken to the Children's Society.

Mrs. Price said that her husband deserted her three months ago and since that time she had struggled, until her strength gave out, to take care of the children. A son 19 years old left four months ago. Last night Mrs. Price with her children walked from East Ninth Street to the rooms of the Children's Society at Twenty-third Street and Fourth Avenue. She wanted the society to take all the children, but for some reason it would take only the eleven-year-old boy. She had 10 cents, and she and her children boarded a south-bound Third Avenue car. The car had reached Twenty-eighth Street and the woman was just giving the conductor the 10 cents when she collapsed.

The car was stopped and Policeman Carroll called an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital and the suffering woman was taken there. The children were taken to the East Thirty-fifth Street Station, where milk and rolls was provided for them.

POLICE CELL ABLAZE.

Sensation Following Locking Up of a Drunken Prisoner in Hoboken.

Joseph Lawler of 117 Monroe Street, Hoboken, was picked up there yesterday almost helplessly intoxicated and placed in a padded cell in the basement of the City Hall. An hour or so later Sergt. Fall, at the desk in Police Headquarters on the ground floor of the building, saw smoke coming from the cell room. He rang a fire alarm and with other policemen ran to the cells.

The place was so thick with smoke that the policemen could scarcely breathe. Three prisoners were shaking the bars of their cells and yelling for help. They were gotten out and were treated by Police Surgeon Arlitz because of the smoke they had inhaled.

Lawler was found, by this time thoroughly sober, screaming for help. His cell was a mass of flames, his hair was singed from his head, and he was badly burned about the face, hands, and legs, but will recover.

Meanwhile the smoke had worked its way into the City Council chamber, where a session was being held, and the Council left hastily in a body. Mayor Gonzales saw smoke creeping into his office and also fled the premises. Firemen confined the blaze to the basement, the damage being about $1,000.

Lawler is supposed to have started the fire by striking matches against inflammable material.

Child Sues City for Injuries.

A crowd of school children was present in Part VIII. of the Supreme Court yesterday to testify in the suit of fourteen-year-old Jessie Rosenblatt for injuries received in a fall in Mount Morris Park on May 26, 1908. She is suing through her father, Benjamin Rosenblatt, as guardian ad litem, for $20,000 damages. She alleges that the steep, rocky places about the tower in the park were not sufficiently guarded. The city, through the Corporation Counsel's office, will attempt to show that she was injured by her own carelessness. The trial will continue to-day.

Sues for Divorce and Her Children.

Lillian B. Burnham is suing her husband, Frederick K. Burnham, of 66 East Seventy-eighth Street, for absolute divorce. The suit was revealed by a motion placed on the calendar yesterday for the custody of their two children, a girl and a boy. The lawyers in the case were very reticent. Burnham is said to be wealthy.

OLD AND POOR, ENDS HIS LIFE

Timothy Robbins, Once a Prominent Turfman, Shoots Himself.

Timothy Robbins, who came of a prominent Southern family and used to own strings of race horses in the days before the civil war, and who, after drifting North when the war ended, was known as a lavish spender at the Guttenberg, Gravesend, and other race tracks, could never reconcile himself to the job of caretaker which friends procured for him at the Racona Club at Shad Creek, near Rockaway Beach, a year ago. He used to avoid the friends of old days who frequented the club, and lately he brooded more and more. He was 76 years old.

Yesterday at noon, while several cottagers and members of the club were lounging near by, "Tim," as he was known to all in the neighborhood, standing in the sunlight in front of the club, pulled a revolver from his pocket and shot himself in the head. He died at St. Joseph's Hospital, Far Rockaway, an hour later.

Yesterday afternoon Edward Schlutter, proprietor of the Delevan House at Broad Channel, forwarded to Larry Hart, manager of the Park Slope Hotel, Brooklyn, a letter which Robbins had left with him in the morning. It read:

> Dear Larry: I am going to rest. I think it is about time. There is nothing more in the world for me to care for. I have seen my day and gone the limit. Don't make any great fuss about me when I am gone, and don't forget me, either. Good-bye, old pal. TIM.

Hart instructed Schlutter to take charge of the funeral, saying he would pay all expenses.

WATER CRISIS NOT YET PAST.

Commissioner Thompson Insists That All Waste Is Dangerous.

Commissioner Thompson of the Water Department denied yesterday that the crisis in the water shortage was over and that millions of gallons of water was now going to waste in the Croton watershed.

"While the rains of the last few days," he said, "have supplied us with several billion gallons of water and postponed the possibility of a serious famine some days, should there be no more rain of considerable volume during the Summer, the situation would still be serious. The water on hand in the reservoirs of the Croton system to-day is about half the amount that we had on hand at this time last year.

"As for the statement that there are millions of gallons of water going to waste, I have been informed by my Engineering Bureau that the surface of the water in Croton Lake, the central reservoir of the system, is thirty-four feet below the top of the wall.

"If the water were running over the dam, it might with some degree of truth be said that the water was being wasted. The conclusion is drawn that the water is being wasted that is running out of one or two of the other reservoirs. Any one who is familiar with the system knows that this is untrue. Any water that runs out of the various reservoirs above Croton Lake runs down the carrying streams, the principal one of which is old Croton River, into Croton Lake. Not a drop of this water is wasted."

MRS. STETSON MAY TESTIFY.

Mrs. Eddy's Son Asks for Hers and Other Evidence in Will Suit.

CONCORD, N. H., June 14.—An affidavit filed with the clerk of the United States Circuit Court here to-day by Dr. Ebenezer J. Foster Eddy of Waterbury, Vt., adopted son of the late Mary Baker Eddy, asks that the testimony of several persons be taken as to certain material facts in connection with the suit brought by Dr. Foster Eddy in that court to have the residuary clause of Mrs. Eddy's will declared void, and the residue of her estate divided between himself and George W. Glover of Lead, S. D., Mrs. Eddy's son.

The persons mentioned in the affidavit are former United States Senator William E. Chandler of New Hampshire, who is counsel for Glover in his similar suit brought in the State courts; Stephen A. Chase, Treasurer of the First Church of Christ (Scientist,) Boston; Calvin A. Frye, formerly Mrs. Eddy's Secretary and coachman; Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson of New York; Alvin M. Cushing, and Daniel H. Spofford.

The facts desired to be brought out by this testimony relate to Mrs. Eddy's so-called discovery of the act of healing disease, her relations with Mrs. Stetson, details of the organization and finances of the First Church of Christ (Scientist,) of Boston, and the manner in which the agreement was secured whereby Messrs. Glover and Foster Eddy, in consideration of a money settlement, agreed not to contest Mrs. Eddy's will.

SQUAD OF WOMEN WATCHED.

How Mother-in-Law of Embezzler Belling Sought Divorce Suit Evidence.

How Charles A. Belling, former cashier of the Bronx Borough Bank, who is now in Sing Sing Prison for a term of years, spent the money he embezzled from that institution was told yesterday by witnesses for his wife, Emily J. Belling, in her suit for divorce before Supreme Court Justice Bischoff.

Several of the witnesses said that Belling spent a great deal of his time in motor cars with a Mrs. Mae E. or Minnie Schoen, and in her apartments at 467 Lenox Avenue and 416 East Sixty-fifth Street, during the year before his sentence to felon's stripes. One of the witnesses, a chauffeur, said that Belling had paid the tuition of one of Mrs. Schoen's little boys in a boarding school at Peekskill.

Justice Bischoff said that in spite of the testimony that Belling had spent much time in Mrs. Schoen's apartments, there was no evidence of any unfaithfulness, and he allowed Mrs. Belling's lawyer further time to produce specific proof. He refused to permit a Bronx physician, who was called to attend Mrs. Schoen, to tell what he had seen in the apartment. Mrs. Belling said that she had married Belling on Oct. 25, 1899, and was childless. Her mother acted as head of a squad of women which shadowed Belling's visits to Mrs. Schoen.

HELPS SUBURBAN CHURCHES

Sinking Fund Commission Exempts Them from Paying Assessments.

The Sinking Fund Commission voted yesterday to exempt from the payment of assessments for public improvements churches and property of religious institutions north of 135th Street in Manhattan and the Bronx and in the "Twenty-sixth, Thirtieth, Thirty-first, and Thirty-second Wards of Brooklyn." These Brooklyn wards, which long have been done away with, include Flatbush, Fort Hamilton, Coney Island, Bath Beach, Canarsie, Parkville, and part of Bay Ridge.

The exemption will apply to orphan asylums, hospitals and homes of religious orders of all kinds, but not to church rectories. Mayor Gaynor said that it was not the intention to make the rule general, but to help struggling institutions and churches in outlying districts. More than 500 applications from churches and religious institutions were filed with the Sinking Fund Commission.

Indicts Rogers and Laporte.

Emory M. Rogers and George Laporte, real estate dealers at 200 Broadway, who were arrested Tuesday on complaint of Charles Hedges, a broker at 30 Nassau Street, who alleged that they swindled him out of $510, were indicted on two charges of grand larceny in the first degree yesterday. They pleaded guilty before Judge O'Sullivan in General Sessions and were released in $3,000 bail each. Assistant Ditsrict Attorney Du Vivier said that several additional indictments will be found.

STOKES'S ASSAILANTS GET BAIL REDUCED

Miss Conrad Dismisses a Lawyer and Refuses to Accept Liberty at His Hands.

JUSTIFICATION THE DEFENSE

Prisoner's Counsel Hints That Defense Will Be That Girls Were Preventing an Attempt at Burglary.

The hearing in the case of Lillian Graham and Ethel Conrad on the charge of attempting to murder W. E. D. Stokes brought about a dramatic scene in the West Side Court yesterday morning, when Miss Conrad declared to the court that she did not want Herman Phillips to represent her as attorney. He had been retained by Mrs. Charles Nagel, Miss Conrad's mother, and said he had obtained a bondsman, B. F. Elbert of Des Moines, living at the Hotel Algonquin, but Miss Conrad refused to accept his assistance and refuses to be bailed out unless Miss Graham gets out with her.

The case was not heard, as Mr. Stokes is still in the hospital, and the next hearing is set to take place at the District Attorney's office to-morrow at 2 P. M. Magistrate Freschi reduced the bail from $25,000 to $15,000 each for the two women.

When the prisoners were called into court at 10 o'clock there was an array of counsel lined up. Mr. Stokes was represented by T. J. McManus; Assistant District Attorney Sullivan appeared for the State; Mr. Moore and Mr. Jordan stood by the defendants, and Mr. Phillips approached the bar waving a legal paper.

"Whom do you represent?" asked the Magistrate, who apparently knew something of the difficulty.

"Miss Conrad, and I have here a retainer from the girl and one from her mother."

"Is the retainer not revocable?" asked the Magistrate.

"Of course, but the girl is a minor, only eighteen years old, and her mother has not revoked it. The mother insists that I appear in this case whether the daughter likes it or not."

"I think the defendant ought to be allowed to choose her counsel. Miss Conrad, stand up. Do you require the services of Mr. Phillips as counsel?"

"No," replied the prisoner.

"Do you ask him to withdraw?"

"I do."

"Does your Honor mean to tell me that he would allow a fourteen-year-old child to choose her counsel in spite of her parents?" asked Mr. Phillips.

"Is this girl a fourteen-year-old child?"

"She is a minor."

"I don't know whether she is or not. No evidence has been submitted to show it."

"The girl's mother insists on a separate trial," said Mr. Phillips, "but from some foolish sense of loyalty the girl won't have it."

"Don't you think," said the Magistrate, "that as a reputable member of the bar you should withdraw if your services are not desired?"

"Surely; but I maintain that this girl has been prevailed upon by others to take this unwise step."

Another remark, followed by a suggestion from the court that Mr. Phillips withdraw, resulted in his thrusting the papers in his pocket and leaving court in a huff, much to the amusement of the two prisoners.

The certificate from Roosevelt Hospital was to the effect that it may be a week or ten days before Mr. Stokes can leave and that he could not be called out of danger yet, as blood poisoning was still possible.

Mr. Jordan, the prisoners' attorney, asked the Magistrate to reduce the bail to $5,000 on the ground that the law ought to presume that untried defendants were innocent, particularly in this case, the girls being in their home at the time of the shooting.

"May I ask," broke in the Magistrate, "what the line of defense is to be in this case?"

"An absolute justification of everything that was done by the girls," answered Mr. Jordan, "whether or not Mr. Stokes entered their home in an attempt to burglarize."

"So it was a case of burglary, was it?" said Mr. McManus.

"You ought to know," cried Mr. Jordan with some heat. "Your client should have told you."

"He didn't say he was committing any burglary."

"I think as far as bail goes," interrupted Mr. Moore, "that Mr. Stokes should be very glad to have the young ladies take the first train out of town and never come back again."

"Don't worry about that," answered Mr. McManus. "Stokes will be on hand from the start to the finish."

"So will these children," answered Mr. Moore.

The Magistrate interrupted the lawyers by reducing bail to $15,000.

DEATH RATE LOWER.

Vital Statistics Report Shows Increase Here in Marriages and Births.

Marked increase in the number of births and marriages in this city and a decided decrease in the death rate are shown in the quarterly report of the Health Department, issued yesterday, by Commissioner Lederle. While the actual number of deaths increased, as compared with the corresponding period of 1910, due to increased population, the rate fell nearly half a point.

The number of births reported for the quarter were 34,506, an increase of 1,901 over the corresponding quarter of last year. The number of marriages reported was 11,495, an increase of 1,412. The number of deaths reported was 20,876, against 20,660 in 1910, an increase of 216 deaths, but the death rate was 17 per 1,000 against 17.45 during the first quarter of last year, a decrease of .45 of a point. If the mortality for the first quarter of this year is compared with the average of the preceding five years a decrease of deaths from all causes of 1,634 is shown.

There was a decrease of 468 deaths in children under 1 year, a decrease of 1,099 in children under 5 years of age, a decrease in from 5 to 65 years of 620 deaths. At the age-grouping 65 and over there was an increase of 85 deaths. There was a decrease of 1,575 deaths in tenement houses, an increase of 110 deaths in institutions. The death rate decreased from 18.33 to 17, a decrease of 1.33 of a point per 1,000 of the population.

REICHMAN TRIAL NOT BEGUN.

Set for Yesterday, but a Murder Case Was in the Way of It.

The trial of Joseph B. Reichman, at one time President of the Carnegie Trust Company, who is indicted for making false reports to the State Banking Department, was not begun yesterday as intended in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court before Justice Davis. The defendant and counsel on both sides were ready yesterday, and a special panel of talesmen were in attendance, but a murder case which has been in progress for a week was not completed, and the court excused the talesmen till this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

CHOLERA IN ITALIAN SHIP.

Passenger on Europa Was Recovering, but the Liner is Held Up.

With a real case of cholera on board, the Italian Line steamship Europa arrived yesterday from Genoa and Naples and dropped anchor off Quarantine. The patient was a steerage passenger named Agostino Tavella, and the ship's surgeon reported that he was on his way to recovery. The Europa, with 77 cabin passengers and 363 steerage, will be held at Quarantine.

The steamship Berlin, which arrived on Tuesday from Italian ports, reported that a steerage passenger had died from cholera on board a few days after leaving Naples. The Berlin was released from Quarantine yesterday morning, the steerage passengers and stewards having been transferred to Hoffman Island.

WOMAN CHOKED AND ROBBED

Friend of the Victim Is Held as One of Three Assailants.

A woman's screams sounded through the apartment house at 1,221 Adams Street, Hoboken, N. J., at 5 o'clock yesterday morning, arousing all the tenants. Mrs. Marie Strent, whose apartment is just above, realized that the cries came from the home of Mr. and Mrs. August Miller and she was first to reach the Miller flat. The door was unlatched and inside, tied to her bed, she found Mrs. Miller. She was hysterical from fright, and it was some moments before Mrs. Strent could learn what had happened.

When she had been released she became calm, and said that after her husband had left the house for work at 2 o'clock she was awakened by the noise of the door being forced. Then three men rushed in and choked her almost senseless. Afterward they bound her to the head of her bed and put a gag, made of a strip torn from a sheet, in her mouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller had saved $259, and this money was beneath the mattress. The men seemed to know where it was, for they found it immediately and then hurried out. Mrs. Miller said she recognized one of her assailants as August Weimar, an old friend of her husband. It was he who choked her and gagged her, she said.

Sergt. Hopper and Sergt. Borrone arrested Weimar just before 9 o'clock as he was leaving his home, 1,312 Clinton Street, for work. He denied having had a hand in the robbery, but was arraigned later before Recorder McGovern, who held him without bail for the Grand Jury. The two other men, it is said, are known.

YOUNG TAFT SPRAINS WRIST.

Falls on His Right Arm While Vaulting on Athletic Field.

WATERTOWN, Conn., June 14.—Master Charlie Taft, the son of the President, will be unable to go to the Taft school dance Thursday night because of a badly sprained wrist.

Young Taft was vaulting yesterday on the damp athletic field, when the pole slipped and he fell on his right arm. The wrist was badly sprained, necessitating the carrying of his arm in a sling for a few days. He will go to Washington Saturday.

REVISED COUNT IN BAYONNE.

Majority of Three Against Commission Rule—70 Ballots Thrown Out.

Revised figures of the special election in Bayonne on Tuesday on the government by commission plan showed that the plan lost by three votes out of a total vote of 4,541. There were 2,234 votes cast in favor and 2,237 against, and seventy were rejected because of being improperly marked. The commission advocates decided to apply to the courts for a recount and believe it will give sufficient additional votes to carry the plan.

REASSURES PUBLISHERS.

Nothing to Fear from Postal Department, Says Hitchcock Aid.

CHICAGO, June 14.—Voicing Administration views as to how the Post Office Department should be run, James J. Britt, Third Assistant Postmaster General, today told the delegates to the International Circulation Managers' Association, in session here, that "no honest publisher has anything to fear at the hands of the Post Office Department." "But," he added, "no dishonest publisher has anything to hope for." He was speaking on "The uses and abuses of the second-class mail privilege."

Regarding efforts to eliminate the annual Post Office deficit, Mr. Britt declared that "the ledgers of the department at no time should show either a deficit or a surplus, the entire service being administered on a self-sustaining basis." A proper equalization of postal rates, he said, would easily make it possible to reduce letter postage from two cents to one cent an ounce.

"The payment of fully 84 cents per pound on letters, caused by the payment of two cents an ounce on underweight pieces," said Mr. Britt, "gives a profit which is applied to the deficit caused by deficient rates on other mail matter."

Other speakers were W. J. Harrison, Seattle Post-Intelligence; J. A. McKernan, New York World; Joseph Weimer, Cleveland Leader; E. S. Dobson, Detroit News-Tribune; John F. Kelly, New York Review; Frank E. Frugone, Del Sarra Bulletino, New York, and Thomas Downey, Boston Globe.

The association will remain in session until business is concluded and officers elected, probably to-morrow afternoon.
